Night Club Fire Kills 477 Persons at Boston

Officials Begin Probe Of Tragedy

One Hundred Bodies Still Unidentified in Morgues; 170 Are Hospitalized

Door Was Locked

Deputy Fire Chief Tells of Safety Door Being Locked

Boston, Nov. 30 (AP)—State and county law-enforcement officers went into immediate action today to determine whether any law violation had contributed to the Saturday night fire that suddenly converted the Cocoanut Grove night club into a house of flaming death for 477 merrymakers.

Moving under instructions from Acting Public Safety Commissioner John F. Stokes, State Fire Marshal Stephen C. Garrity turned over to District Attorney William J. Foley of Suffolk county a preliminary report of the fire that flared from a match-flame lighted by a 16-year-old bus boy as he sought to replace a light bulb removed by a club patron.

Meanwhile a hundred bodies still lay unnamed and unclaimed in the city's morgues, posing a terrific problem of identification to officials who said that many had been burned almost past recognition.

In undertaking establishments throughout New England, preparations were underway for the hundreds of funerals that will carry the bodies of the victims to their graves.

Hospitals ministered to more than 170 other trampled and burned patrons—many of whom hovered close to death, in the wake of one of the worst holocausts in the nation's history.

As he entered a conference with the state fire marshal, District Attorney Foley declared, "if some of the stories I have read are true, there have been several law violations in connection with the operation of the club."

Fire Marshal Garrity's preliminary report embodied information given at inquest, which will be resumed late today, including the testimony of the first Boston fire chiefs to reach the scene.

They testified that the searing flames spreading through paper palm trees and other decorations sent a thousand patrons stampeding in a fighting frenzy toward a few exits. A deputy fire chief told of finding bodies near a closed door whose safety lock—designed to open under pressure—was out of order. Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty indicated in an interview that under the law, a 16-year-old boy "isn't supposed to" work in a place where liquor is sold.

The busboy whose match started the inferno was identified by Deputy Police Superintendent James R. Claflin as Stanley F. Tomaszewski.

The boy related, Claflin said,

Plan Is Studied

Legislators Consider Ruml Plan of Collecting Income Taxes

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—Republican legislators are studying the Ruml "pay-as-you-go" plan for possible use in the collection of personal income taxes.

The plan would bring collection in the same year in which income is earned. Under the present system, the state's levies are collected on the previous year's income.

Reported working on legislation for adoption of the plan, with possible modifications, are Maurice Whitney of Rensselaer county, chairman of the assembly taxation committee, and Assemblyman Mac Neil Mitchell, New York city, both Republicans.

Interested also is State Senator Thomas C. Desmond, Newburgh Republican, who has urged the state tax commission to report promptly on the feasibility of the Ruml plan.

Desmond said the plan was no substitute for economy in state administration, "but it seems to offer hope for easing burdens of taxpayers through elimination of tax debt."

Churchill Warning Is Strongest Yet Given to Italians

Japan Also Gets Ominous Forecast of What United Nations Plan in Air, Sea Power

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt Mackenzie, is written today by Glenn Babb. Mr. Mackenzie, now traveling in the African war zone, is expected to resume in a day or two).

Winston Churchill's broadcast yesterday contained the strongest warning he has yet given Italy, delivered in that voice of doom he employs so sonorously and flavored with the richest flow of scorn he has ever turned on Mussolini, who may be labelled for all history by Churchill's fruity epithets. But the warning Britain's Prime Minister gave Japan was no less ominous. While he pointed out to the "hard working, gifted and once-happy Italian people" a way of escape through repudiation of the man who has led them to their present plight, he offered nothing more pleasant than the prospect of facing eventually the combined might of the United States and British armed forces, which then should be far the most formidable array of sea and air power the world has known.

First among the major spokesmen of the United Nations Churchill gave expression to the growing conviction that this will be a two-chapter war, that even after Hitler and his satellites have been destroyed in Europe Japan will remain to be dealt with in the Pacific. Many authorities of long experience in the Orient have felt that the Japanese foresaw such a contingency from the outset of their audacious challenge to the English-speaking powers and counted on a weakening of the fighting wills of their adversaries, on their war weariness and on divisions among them at the European peace conference table to enable Japan to hold what she had snatched. Churchill has replied to these Japanese hopes in terms which leave no doubt that Britain, as long as a Churchill government leads there, will be with the United States to the end of the task of ending the rule of force and aggression in the Pacific as well as in Europe.

"It may well be," Churchill said, "that the war in Europe will end before the war in Asia. The Atlantic may be calm while in the Pacific the hurricane rises to full pitch. If events should take such a course we should, of course, bring all our forces to the other

Two Electrol Men Hurt in Crackup

Gerald Overbaugh, George Terpening in Hospital; Third Man Is Cut

Gerald Overbaugh, 25, of Washington avenue, Saugerties, suffered a fractured rib and a cut on the knee, and a possible broken leg, early this morning when his car and that of George Medwin, 53, of 1706 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., were in collision at the junction of the West Chester bypass and route 9-W. Riding with Overbaugh was George Terpening of Elm street, Saugerties, who suffered a face injury. Both men were en route from their home to the Electrol plant where they are employed. Medwin was injured about the face but refused hospital attention and continued on his way to Saugerties where he told investigating officers that he operated a factory. He is living temporarily at the Hotel Stuyvesant in this city.

The accident was reported to the sheriff's office at 6:55 o'clock this morning and Deputies Leonard Bellmore and George Reynolds went to the scene.

Both Terpening and Overbaugh were taken to the Benedictine Hospital by the Conner ambulance. X-rays were to be taken later today of Overbaugh's leg to ascertain whether it was broken.

According to the report of the officers the Overbaugh car was coming down 9-W and was about to continue on over the by-pass when the Medwin car came down the grade off the railroad viaduct on 9-W. The roadway was icy at the time and the cars collided almost head on. Both cars were badly damaged.

At the hospital it was stated that X-rays would also be taken of Terpening to ascertain the extent of his injuries.

Favors Civilian Control

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—Manpower Commissioner Paul V. Mcnutt told a press conference today that he favored civilian control over the selective service system. He did not say how he thought such control should be exercised, although previously he had advocated that selective service be put under the manpower commission.

If Ickes Gets Control of Manpower, F. D. R. May Find Hornets Buzzing Around

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt may find a large part of his cabinet subjected to some lively congressional criticism if he goes through with a plan for a three-way shift making Harold I. Ickes secretary of labor with control over manpower.

Ickes already has been offered the post and if he accepts, the President would be expected to seek senate confirmation for this nomination as well as those of Paul V. McNutt to be secretary of the interior and Frances Perkins to be federal security administrator.

Republicans, and some Democrats, already are tuning up their vocal chords for this prospective opportunity of discussing the part the Roosevelt cabinet has played in the war.

Ickes, a master at rough and tumble repartee, has left plenty of political scars in his exchanges with leading Republicans during his nine years in the cabinet.

Himself a former Republican, Ickes has not been so much in the public eye since the war began, however, and his administration of the Interior Department has

Catskill Man Is Beaten; 3 Boys Are Questioned

Guard at West Coxsackie Vocational Prison Is in Hospital; He Is Hurt Badly

West Coxsackie, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—Three young inmates of the New York State Vocational Institution were being questioned today in connection with what state correction officials termed an abortive escape attempt involving an attack on a guard.

Correction Commissioner John A. Lyons said the guard, James M. Maher, is in a Catskill hospital in "serious but not critical condition."

Maher, Lyons stated, was set upon with a chair slat in a mop room Saturday night, and his keys were taken. Then, he said, Charles Willis, 16; Thomas Sorrentino, 18, and Peter Gradowski, 17, sought to make their escape.

Greene County District Attorney Harold Platner stated he was told a telephone rang shortly after the attack on the guard, and that one of the youths forced Maher at knife point to answer it as if nothing had happened.

The guard at the other end of the line became suspicious, however, and investigated. In the melee that followed the escape was thwarted.

Lyons said the boys' statements would go before the Greene county

Ulster Firms With Outstanding Bond Purchase Records Are Listed

In Ulster county the cooperation of business firms in the U. S. Treasury Department's Payroll Savings Plan for regular and systematic purchase of War Bonds, has reached worthy and notable proportions, according to a report by Harold S. Brigham, chairman of the Ulster County War Savings Committee.

Many Ulster county firms are participating in the plan, but the following list contains only the names of those who have four or more employes and who have been outstanding in their achievement and for which they have been presented the U. S. Treasury Award of Merit for participation of 90 per cent or more of the number of their employes. Those marked with an asterisk (*) have also received an additional Treasury Award for having attained the goal of 10 per cent of the amount of their payroll.

Hoffay Saw Battle Against French In North Africa

Glen Street Man Was On U. S. Battleship During Landing Engagement

Weston Hoffay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Hoffay, of 179 Glen street, who was a member of an anti-aircraft gun crew on one of Uncle Sam's big battleships which was in the thick of the fighting off Casablanca, North Africa, on November 8 is finishing a four-days furlough at home. He leaves tonight to rejoin his ship.

His only injury, and one that he makes light of, was a scorched face from the flame that followed the discharge of one of the big ships large guns. During the battle a good-sized shell from one of the French ships struck the main deck aft and sprayed splinters into the thick iron bulkhead of the deck above, not far from where Weston was stationed.

His greatest thrill was when he saw the wake of torpedoes which had come uncomfortably close to striking the battleship. There were four of the "tin fish" seen approaching some two thousand yards from the port side of the ship. Fast and clever maneuvering, however, saved the day as the men threw themselves to the deck to brace for the expected blast, one of the torpedoes passing to starboard and the three others to port, doing no damage.

It was shortly after 7 o'clock in the morning when the American ships opened fire and a little after two in the afternoon when what ships of the French fleet that were able to do so withdrew to the protection of shore batteries that had opened up anew.

Weston said that reveille sounded at 3:30 that morning and it was some time after 4 o'clock breakfast that the call to general quarters came.

Anti-aircraft opened up from the battleship, but Admiral Giffen refused to fire on the harbor, as his orders were to protect American troop ships from attack from French war vessels. It was shortly after this that the French battleship, Jean Bart, opened fire, shells began to fall around the U. S. battleship and Admiral Giffen gave the order to "Play Ball." A terrific explosion rocked the ship as all guns in the forward turret belched shells. The Jean Bart was hit and ceased firing at 8 o'clock, and guns were turned on the shore batteries. Shortly afterwards several French cruisers, three destroyers and submarines steamed out from the harbor, apparently headed to attack troopships and the battle raged in earnest, not without damage to the American ships. Finally with two French ships sunk and others badly damaged, the French withdrew.

Weston, who formerly was employed with Beck's Market, enlisted in the navy, February 21, this year. He was sent to Newport for preliminary training and after five weeks was assigned to a battleship as a member of an anti-aircraft gun crew. He was at his station during the fighting November 8, but said that his gun was not in action as enemy planes did not approach within range. However, other anti-aircraft guns were busy on the ship and dispersed a group of 14 enemy planes and it is believed got at least one of them.

Weston says that he likes the Navy, but would be just as well satisfied if they passed up the battle part of the program. There is, he said this morning, at least one other Kingston man on the ship with him, Earl Williams, who is a fireman. Weston is under orders to rejoin his ship at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—The position of the treasury November 27: Receipts $14,311,807.05. Expenditures $115,035,746.84. Net balance $2,814,260,794.83. Working balance included $2,051,732,812.80. Customs receipts for month $20,847,646.36. Receipts fiscal year (July 1) $5,001,866,746.90. Expenditures fiscal year $28,101,807,212.96. Excess of expenditures $23,099,940,466.06. Total debt $99,646,905,450.93. Increase over previous day $209,347,660.48. Gold assets $22,742,547,056.44.

Sale of Coffee Is Resumed in Stores

After a "frozen" week coffee became available today to consumers in the retail stores of Kingston, as coffee rationing went into effect.

In order to obtain coffee consumers must bring the sugar ration books of persons 15 years or more of age and will receive a pound of coffee for each No. 27 coupon.

Under the government "cup-a-day" plan every person over 15 can buy a pound of coffee every five weeks on presentation of a stamp from the sugar ration book.

Stamp No. 27 is good for the first pound. The next purchase of a pound can be made January 3.

Dusing Gets 241 Votes, Nuzzo 13; Decision Awaited

Two 'Elected' Agents Must Wait to See Which Election Is Held to Be Valid

Newburgh, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—With two business agents "elected" to one position by rival factions, Local 17, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union of America (A. F. L.) awaited today a decision on which election was legal.

Yesterday, in balloting ordered by the union's executive board, Fred Dusing of Kerhonkson received 241 votes to 13 for Samuel Nuzzo. Dusing has held the office since Nuzzo's ouster last February.

Two weeks ago, in an election arranged by the union's election committee, Nuzzo received 135 votes to 27 for Dusing.

Nuzzo, indicted October 21 by an Orange county extraordinary grand jury on 89 counts of grand larceny and forgery charging misuse of union funds, goes to trial tomorrow before Supreme Court Justice Riley H. Heath on one of three indictments.

Meanwhile, Joseph Santacroce, Newburgh, chairman of the election committee, and Samuel Widlitz, Ellenville, also a committeeman, are in Washington for a conference with the International Union's general executive board on Nuzzo's eligibility for election.

Kenneth Canfield of Kerhonkson, union president, said members of the local's executive group were awaiting advice of counsel on a similar Washington appearance, asked by International President Joseph V. Moreschi.

Henry Hirschberg, former Orange county district attorney who resigned to defend Nuzzo, asserted the November 15 election was valid, contending it had been upheld by Moreschi pending a decision by the general executive board.

The union claims 1,200 members, many of whom are employed on a $300,000,000 New York city water project in the Hudson valley.

Acquittal Directed

New York, Nov. 30 (AP)—Federal Judge John W. Clancy directed a trial jury today to acquit Helmut Leiner, Astoria gardener accused of aiding two of the eight Nazi saboteurs, of a charge of treason.

Travelers Report How Nazis Prepare for Day When Italy Quits War

Rail Line Is Cut

Allies Cut Road Connecting Tunis and Bizerte in Africa

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

R.A.F. warplanes blasted Italy before dawn today for the second time in 36 hours, pounding home Prime Minister Churchill's warning to the Italian people to get out of the war or suffer "prolonged, scientific and shattering air attack."

Simultaneously, a Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from the Italian frontier reported that 300,000 persons had fled the Italian arsenal city of Turin, normal population 622,000, since the R.A.F. began its new trans-Alpine aerial offensive October 22.

The British air ministry said Turin was again the target of the latest assault and that fires started Saturday night were still burning.

"Other bombers attacked railway communications in Belgium," the air ministry said, reporting two R.A.F. planes missing.

More than 100,000 incendiaries in addition to 8,000-pound "blockbusters" were unloaded on Turin in the R.A.F.'s Saturday night raid, and a Canadian pilot declared the city's buildings were left "seething as though they were bubbling with molten lava."

Travelers arriving in Turkey from Italy said the Germans were hurriedly building fortifications along the German-Italian frontier and along the Balkan side of the Adriatic Sea against the day that Italy quits the war.

Other reports said Adolf Hitler had sent 60,000 Nazi "tourists" into Italy in an attempt to prevent the Italians from making a separate peace.

In a victory broadcast yesterday, Prime Minister Churchill promised that the war would soon be carried to Italy "in a manner not hitherto dreamed of by its guilty leaders." And he added significantly:

"We expect to expel the enemy before long from the 2,000 miles of African coastline. But Africa is no halting place. It is not a seat but a springboard. We shall use Africa to come to closer grips."

On the Tunisian front in North Africa, American and British troops were reported in position for a climactic assault on Tunis, the Axis-held capital, after occupying the key rail junction at Djedeida, 12 miles northwest of Tunis.

Allied artillery was already drawn up within range of the fortified city, and military quarters said the big push would probably start with attacks on the three Axis-guarded airdromes around the city.

"Fighting continues on the eastern side of Djedeida," it was announced by allied headquarters in North Africa and the war department in Washington, indicating that the allies were closing in on Tunis.

"Allied bombers have made a

Goodbyes Are Said

Lehmans Hold Informal Open House; Poletti Will Take Office

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—Governor and Mrs. Lehman continue to say goodbye to friends today as the state's chief executive finishes preparations to leave for Washington in the mid-week to become U. S. director of relief and rehabilitation.

Several hundred friends and neighbors dropped in at the executive mansion yesterday during an informal open house. Many farewells were said.

The governor will resign Wednesday, to be succeeded immediately by Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti, who will direct the state government until Republican Governor-elect Thomas E. Dewey takes over the reins January 1.

Speaking "as director of foreign relief and rehabilitation," the governor Saturday paid tribute to "religious agencies and to the splendid errands of mercy they are carrying out" in war-striken areas.

There were four of the "tin fish" seen approaching some two thousand yards from the port side of the ship. Fast and clever maneuvering, however, saved the day as the men threw themselves to the deck to brace for the expected blast, one of the torpedoes passing to starboard and the three others to port, doing no damage.

It was shortly after 7 o'clock in the morning when the American ships opened fire and a little after two in the afternoon when what ships of the French fleet that were able to do so withdrew to the protection of shore batteries that had opened up anew.

Weston said that reveille sounded at 3:30 that morning and it was some time after 4 o'clock breakfast that the call to general quarters came.

Anti-aircraft opened up from the battleship, but Admiral Giffen refused to fire on the harbor, as his orders were to protect American troop ships from attack from French war vessels. It was shortly after this that the French battleship, Jean Bart, opened fire, shells began to fall around the U. S. battleship and Admiral Giffen gave the order to "Play Ball." A terrific explosion rocked the ship as all guns in the forward turret belched shells. The Jean Bart was hit and ceased firing at 8 o'clock, and guns were turned on the shore batteries. Shortly afterwards several French cruisers, three destroyers and submarines steamed out from the harbor, apparently headed to attack troopships and the battle raged in earnest, not without damage to the American ships. Finally with two French ships sunk and others badly damaged, the French withdrew.

Weston, who formerly was employed with Beck's Market, enlisted in the navy, February 21, this year. He was sent to Newport for preliminary training, and after five weeks was assigned to a battleship as a member of an anti-aircraft gun crew. He was at his station during the fighting November 8, but said that his gun was not in action as enemy planes did not approach within range. However, other anti-aircraft guns were busy on the ship and dispersed a group of 14 enemy planes and it is believed got at least one of them.

Weston says that he likes the Navy, but would be just as well satisfied if they passed up the battle part of the program. There is, he said this morning, at least one other Kingston man on the ship with him, Earl Williams, who is a fireman. Weston is under orders to rejoin his ship at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Sale of Coffee Is Resumed in Stores

After a "frozen" week coffee became available today to consumers in the retail stores of Kingston, as coffee rationing went into effect.

In order to obtain coffee consumers must bring the sugar ration books of persons 15 years or more of age and will receive a pound of coffee for each No. 27 coupon.

Under the government "cup-a-day" plan every person over 15 can buy a pound of coffee every five weeks on presentation of a stamp from the sugar ration book.

Stamp No. 27 is good for the first pound. The next purchase of a pound can be made January 3.

Two 'Elected' Agents Must Wait to See Which Election Is Held to Be Valid

Newburgh, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—With two business agents "elected" to one position by rival factions, Local 17, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union of America (A. F. L.) awaited today a decision on which election was legal.

Yesterday, in balloting ordered by the union's executive board, Fred Dusing of Kerhonkson received 241 votes to 13 for Samuel Nuzzo. Dusing has held the office since Nuzzo's ouster last February.

Two weeks ago, in an election arranged by the union's election committee, Nuzzo received 135 votes to 27 for Dusing.

Nuzzo, indicted October 21 by an Orange county extraordinary grand jury on 89 counts of grand larceny and forgery charging misuse of union funds, goes to trial tomorrow before Supreme Court Justice Riley H. Heath on one of three indictments.

Meanwhile, Joseph Santacroce, Newburgh, chairman of the election committee, and Samuel Widlitz, Ellenville, also a committeeman, are in Washington for a conference with the International Union's general executive board on Nuzzo's eligibility for election.

Kenneth Canfield of Kerhonkson, union president, said members of the local's executive group were awaiting advice of counsel on a similar Washington appearance, asked by International President Joseph V. Moreschi.

Henry Hirschberg, former Orange county district attorney who resigned to defend Nuzzo, asserted the November 15 election was valid, contending it had been upheld by Moreschi pending a decision by the general executive board.

The union claims 1,200 members, many of whom are employed on a $300,000,000 New York city water project in the Hudson valley.

Acquittal Directed

New York, Nov. 30 (AP)—Federal Judge John W. Clancy directed a trial jury today to acquit Helmut Leitner, Astoria gardener accused of aiding two of the eight Nazi saboteurs, of a charge of treason.

Nazis Build Big Border Defenses

Rail Line Is Cut

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

R.A.F. warplanes blasted Italy before dawn today for the second time in 36 hours, pounding home Prime Minister Churchill's warning to the Italian people to get out of the war or suffer "prolonged, scientific and shattering air attack."

Simultaneously, a Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from the Italian frontier reported that 300,000 persons had fled the Italian arsenal city of Turin, normal population 622,000, since the R.A.F. began its new trans-Alpine aerial offensive October 22.

The British air ministry said Turin was again the target of the latest assault and that fires started Saturday night were still burning.

"Other bombers attacked railway communications in Belgium," the air ministry said, reporting two R.A.F. planes missing.

More than 100,000 incendiaries in addition to 8,000-pound "block-busters" were unloaded on Turin in the R.A.F.'s Saturday night raid, and a Canadian pilot declared the city's buildings were left "seething as though they were bubbling with molten lava."

Travelers arriving in Turkey from Italy said the Germans were hurriedly building fortifications along the German-Italian frontier and along the Balkan side of the Adriatic Sea against the day that Italy quits the war.

Other reports said Adolf Hitler had sent 60,000 Nazi "tourists" into Italy in an attempt to prevent the Italians from making a separate peace.

In a victory broadcast yesterday, Prime Minister Churchill promised that the war would soon be carried to Italy "in a manner not hitherto dreamed of by its guilty leaders." And he added significantly:

"We expect to expel the enemy before long from the 2,000 miles of African coastline. But Africa is no halting place. It is not a seat but a springboard. We shall use Africa to come to closer grips."

On the Tunisian front in North Africa, American and British troops were reported in position for a climactic assault on Tunis, the Axis-held capital, after occupying the key rail junction at Djedeida, 12 miles northwest of Tunis.

Allied artillery was already drawn up within range of the fortified city, and military quarters said the big push would probably start with attacks on the three Axis-guarded airdromes around the city.

"Fighting continues on the eastern side of Djedeida," it was announced by allied headquarters in North Africa and the war department in Washington, indicating that the allies were closing in on Tunis.

"Allied bombers have made a

Lehmans Hold Informal Open House; Poletti Will Take Office

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—Governor and Mrs. Lehman continue to say goodbye to friends today as the state's chief executive finishes preparations to leave for Washington in the mid-week to become U. S. director of relief and rehabilitation.

Several hundred friends and neighbors dropped in at the executive mansion yesterday during an informal open house. Many farewells were said.

The governor will resign Wednesday, to be succeeded immediately by Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti, who will direct the state government until Republican Governor-elect Thomas E. Dewey takes over the reins January 1.

Speaking "as director of foreign relief and rehabilitation," the governor Saturday paid tribute to "religious agencies and to the splendid errands of mercy they are carrying on" in war-stricken areas.

night raid on the docks at Bizerte. Bursts were seen on the target."

A Vichy broadcast said British troops on the Tunisian-Algerian frontier had been reinforced by armored contingents, but declared that the Germans had captured a height in the Tunisian mountains and taken 110 prisoners.

Italian field headquarters asserted that Axis troops had captured "an important position" in Tunisia, stopped armor-supported allied columns and captured more than 200 prisoners.

"Some British-American tanks were destroyed," the Fascist command said, but its failure to give the locale of the clash suggested that it was an isolated action.

Rail Connections Cut

Rail connections between Tunis and the great naval base at Bizerte, 40 miles to the north, were cut off by the allied thrusts to Djedeida and to Mateur, 25 miles south of Bizerte.

While German and Italian troops waited for the assault, drawn up in half-moon defenses on the outskirts of Tunis and Bizerte, the Nazi-controlled Paris radio reported that heavy fighting was in progress near Sousse, on the coastal road 70 miles south of Tunis.

In this section, French troops under Gen. Henri Giraud were attempting to seal off the Axis "escape corridor" and prevent reinforcements from reaching the beleaguered Tunis-Bizerte zone from Tripoli.

British headquarters said allied heavy bombers pounded anew at Tripoli, Tunis and Bizerte, softening up the German and Italian strongholds as a prelude to the land assault to drive the Axis into the sea.

For the fourth consecutive day, the British communique announced "nothing to report from our land forces" in Libya as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army awaited the arrival of fresh forces and supplies moving hundreds of miles across the desert.

Front-line dispatches said Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel now was entrenched behind fortified lines in the El Agheila defile, between marshy quicksands and the sea, and had been reinforced by Italian-made tanks.

On the Soviet front, Russia's great winter offensive engulfed another German stronghold on the Don as the Red armies, slaughtering 10,000 Nazi troops a day, advanced several miles and drove the invaders farther back toward the bayonets of the Stalingrad garrison.

Dispatches to Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, said 100,000 Germans had been killed and 66,000 captured in the flaming Stalingrad battle theatre in the 10 days period ending yesterday.

In addition, 14,800 Nazis were listed as killed on the central (Moscow) front, making a grand total of 180,000 knocked out of action in the twin Soviet offensives. This does not include the wounded.

Russians Cut Rail Lines

While clearing skies prevailed over the frozen Stalingrad Steppelands, Russian troops on the Moscow front fought their way through a blizzard to cut three Nazi-controlled rail lines and isolate the communications hub at Velikie Luki, only 90 miles from the Latvian frontier.

"Our troops have occupied a number of populated places," Red army headquarters said, referring to this offensive.

"We destroyed or disabled 49 enemy tanks. The enemy left 4,800 officers and men killed on the battlefield."

Soviet quarters said the twin Stalingrad-Moscow operations were the greatest undertaken by the Russians in 17 months of war. "The German army is facing the blackest moment since its invasion of Russia," these quarters said.

On the Stalingrad front, Soviet troops were credited with smashing new German lines on the east bank of the Don—the second breakthrough in this sector in two days—and 1,000 more Germans were reported killed in the action.

Inside long-besieged Stalingrad, the Russians said Nazi troops repeatedly and vainly attacked in an effort to regain positions in the bloody northside factory district, losing more than 750 dead as Soviet defenders held fast.

A special Russian communique also reported the capture of Obilnaya, 70 miles southeast of Kotelnikovski, in a drive across the Kalmyck-Steppes from the Stalingrad-Krasnodar railway.

Tip-Up Season Is Specified by Law

Conservation Department Names Legal Waters

In accordance with the provisions of Section 216 of the Conservation Law, J. Victor Skiff, superintendent of Inland Fisheries, Conservation Department, Albany, has fixed a season and specified the waters where tip-ups may be used from November 23, 1942 to April 30, 1943. Tip-ups may be used in all waters of Ulster county except waters inhabited by trout and except waters listed below:—

Esopus Creek from Ulster and Saugerties town line to Cantine's Mill Dam at Saugerties.

All persons except persons under the age of 16 must be in possession of a fishing license to use tip-ups. They may use not to exceed five tip-ups. Name and address of the operator to be on the tip-up and must be in immediate attendance at all times while the tip-up is being used for the taking of fish.

Troy Flier Killed

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—One Troy flier was killed and another, also from Troy, was injured today when an airplane crashed about 300 yards from the Schenectady county airport. The dead man was Joseph Berger, owner and believed pilot of the ship, which struck the top of a tree and fell into the yard of a private residence. His companion, Andrew Brennan, was taken to Ellis Hospital where the extent of injuries was not immediately determinable.

Schacht Is in Picture

At the German Frontier, Nov. 30 (AP) — Germany's ex-wizard of finance, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, came back into the political spotlight today with reports that he was preparing, at Adolf Hitler's request an exhaustive report on how the war might end and its consequences for the Reich. Informants with Axis connections said the German Fuehrer had personally asked Schacht to undertake the task, supplying him with new offices and a staff of 20 secretaries.

Meeting Will Be Held

not particularly affected congressional blood pressure.

On the other hand, McNutt has been under fire for his handling of manpower problems as chairman of the War Manpower Commission, and Secretary of Labor Perkins often has been criticized in Congress for not taking forceful measures to end strikes and other industrial disturbances. Senator Byrd (D.-Va.) has declared several times in the Senate that little could be accomplished on the labor front until Miss Perkins was replaced by a man.

There were indications that if the President submits the names of these three for confirmation, the Republicans might take advantage of the opportunity to discuss the work of other cabinet members as well. There has been a great deal of private criticism among Republicans of Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, also a Republican, for example, and some of this criticism may be brought out in any general discussion of the cabinet.

At the same time there was little doubt that the Senate would confirm any changes the President choose to make in his official family.

The Craftsmen's Club of Rondout Lodge, No. 343, will hold its regular meeting at Masonic Temple, Thursday evening, December 3, at 8 o'clock. After the short business meeting, members will compete in a game of hockey.

Mr. and Mrs. Delno R. Ellis of 40 Prince street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, born early Sunday morning at the Kingston Hospital. Mrs. Ellis was formerly Miss Virginia C. Dittus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Dittus of Prince street.

Overheated Furnace Sets Fire to Floor Timbers

An over-heated furnace in the cellar of the house at 572 Delaware avenue set fire to the floor timbers and filled the house with smoke at 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning. The fire department was called on a still alarm which was followed by a bell alarm from Box 2511.

As the firemen entered the cellar they found a box in which were four week-old puppies, and one of the firemen carried the box and the dogs out of the cellar where the fresh air revived the puppies.

Some damage was done to the second floor of the house by smoke and water. The house was occupied by Samuel Benincasa, who was found throwing water on the fire in an effort to extinguish it, as the firemen reached the house.

This morning at 12:30 o'clock the fire department responded to a still alarm when there was a short circuit in the electric motor in the refrigerator in the apartment of Benjamin Schecter in the house at 199 Downs street.

New York, Nov. 30 (AP)—Stocks generally stumbled in today's market without developing outstanding weakness.

A few peace issues tried to keep going on the upside but the majority of last week's gainers appeared a bit fatigued and failed to get anywhere in particular.

The list displayed mild retreating tendencies at the start and, ranged from fractions to a point or so. Volume was small except for sizeable blocks of "penny" stocks.

Tax selling persisted as the principal anti-recovery factor and further good war news brought considerable switching of share holdings. Liquidation of armament stocks, however, seemed to have dried up appreciably.

Bonds and commodities were mixed.

Sears Roebuck was among the few shares to edge into the new high ground for 1942. American Telephone was an isolated strong spot. Du Pont, Dow Chemical, American Water Works, Texas Co. and Oliver Farm were supported. Backward were U. S. Lester Finley Dies Suddenly At His Residence

Lester Finley, for years widely known in local banking, religious, and fraternal circles, died suddenly early this morning in his home, 16 Van Gaasbeck street. Five years ago Mr. Finley was seized with a stroke while engaged in his duties as teller in the First National Bank, but had sufficiently recovered from the attack in the past year or so to operate his own automobile, although not in sufficient health to resume banking activities.

Sunday morning Mr. Finley attended services as usual in Trinity Methodist Church, where he had been an active member for many years, and at that time he appeared to be in fairly good health.

Mr. Finley had been employed in the downtown bank for approximately 20 years, first as a clerk and later as a teller in the bank.

For years he had been active in Trinity Methodist Church, serving as financial secretary of the church for a number of years, and also as treasurer of the Sunday school.

Fraternally Mr. Finley was a member of Rondout Lodge No. 343, F. & A. M. He was raised a Master Mason in the lodge in 1929, and since that time had been an active member of the order.

Although not in the best of health for the past five years the sudden death of Mr. Finley came as a sudden shock to his host of friends.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Maude B. McKeon Finley, and two sons, the Rev. Lester Finley, Jr., of Cornwallville, and the Rev. Donald Finley of Fleischmanns.

Funeral services will be held from the home at a time to be announced later.

W. S. Farish Is Dead at Millbrook

Standard Oil of New Jersey President Suffers Heart Attack

Millbrook, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—W. S. Farish, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey president who pioneered in developing Texas' first oil pool of importance, is dead.

A heart attack yesterday claimed the 61-year-old native of Mayersville, Miss., who taught school to pay his way through college and became one of America's leading petroleum men.

Farish, who helped organize and was president of the American Petroleum Institute, formed and led the National Petroleum War Service committee which during the last war handled all oil supplies for the Allies. Recently, he had spent much time in Washington as a member of the Petroleum Industry War Council.

Farish drew public attention this year when a Senate committee held hearings on Standard Oil's patent contracts with I. G. Farbenindustrie. Farish detailed a story of the firm's beginning in the oil chemical industry which made possible the oil industry's ability to turn out synthetic rubber and other essential products of war.

He went to Beaumont, Tex., when oil was found there in 1901, and established an oil company. He was an executive of other oil firms and became chairman of the board of Jersey Standard in New York in 1933. In 1937, he became president and chief executive officer.

Ferguson Resigns

Harold S. Ferguson, connected with the Ellenville High School for a number of years and recently teaching general science and social studies, has resigned to accept a position as principal of the school at Chester, Orange county. He will leave for Chester as soon as the Board of Education of the Ellenville school can secure someone to fill the vacancy. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson have been active in the social life of Ellenville and in the work of the Reformed Church. Mr. Ferguson has taken a prominent part in Boy Scout work, is a member of the Noonday Club and of Scoresby Hose Co. Mrs. Ferguson has served as president of the Ellenville Women's Club. They have two boys.

Italian Trouble Ahead

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull indicated today the government was expecting explosive developments in Italy's internal situation soon. Hull was asked at his press conference about reports of serious unrest in various parts of that war-weary country, including mutinous behavior in the army. He replied that he still was assembling reports coming in on that situation and might have some comment to make later. He added that one should not be surprised to hear of just such developments in Italy. Hull said he had no information on the situation at Toulon since the reported scuttling of the French fleet.

Austin Burial Rites on Tuesday

Major General Was Born in This City; Services Held in New York

Major General Elmore Farrington Austin, National Guard officer between 1900 and 1930, died Friday at the Post Graduate Hospital in New York city. He was 78 years old, and lived at the Park Cresent Hotel, 150 Riverside Drive, New York.

General Austin was born in Kingston, a son of Captain Alexander W. Austin, who fought in the Civil War, and Mrs. Margaret M. A. Abbey Austin. Funeral services were held today in New York city, and burial will be made in Montrepose cemetery, this city, on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

After being graduated from college with a civil engineering degree, General Austin enlisted in Company B, 71st Infantry, New York Guard, on Nov. 29, 1887. He rose in the ranks to ordnance sergeant in 1894, when he was commissioned a captain. When the regiment volunteered for service in the Spanish-American War, General Austin received command of one of the newly formed companies and saw active service in Cuba, taking part in the offensive of Las Guasimas and Santiago de Cuba.

Commanded "Washington" Grays"

After the Spanish-American War General Austin became major and engineer officer of the 1st Brigade, New York National Guard. In 1908 he was named a colonel and commander of the 8th Coast Defense Command, the "Washington Grays," who have served the country continuously since the Revolutionary War and are in active service today as the 258th Field Artillery.

In 1912 he was named brigadier general and chief of coast artillery of New York State, while retaining active command of the 8th Coast Defense Command.

During the World War General Austin entered the United States Army on July 15, 1917, and in May, 1918, was named Commander of the 57th Coast Artillery Regiment, which went to France. He commanded the regiment during the offensives at St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne.

After the World War he returned to the National Guard and to his old regiment, which later became the 193d Coast Artillery and finally the 258th Field Artillery.

In 1927 he once more became brigadier general in command of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, and in 1928 he was promoted to major general, in which rank he retired two years later.

In civil life General Ausin was an executive of the Department of Parks. He held various posts as engineer in charge of sewer construction projects, and in 1926 he was appointed deputy chief engineer of the Bronx. He retired from that post in 1934.

His decorations included the Distinguished Service Medal, the World War Medal, the New York Conspicious Service Cross and the 71st Infantry Long Service Medal. He was member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Military Order of the World Wars and the United Spanish War Veterans, Frank Keck Camp, 53. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Cora B. Glover Austin, and a grandson, John Adams Austin, Jr.

Also spending a 10-day furlough at the MacDaniel home is their son, Corp. Stanley MacDaniel, who is with the Army Air Force Glider School at Dalhar, Texas.

Rev. H. W. Morgan Pastor of Local Baptist Church

At the Sunday morning service in the Wurts Street Baptist Church, the Rev. Halsey W. Morgan, pastor of the Port Crane, Broome county, Baptist Church, announced that he had accepted the call extended to him to become pastor of the local church, and would assume his pastoral duties on January 1.

The new pastor and his wife, who is a graduate of the Oneonta Normal School, and their three-and-a-half year old son, will move to Kingston the latter part of December.

The Rev. Mr. Morgan said that instead of writing a letter of acceptance he had decided to announce his acceptance from the pulpit of the church with a sermon message which would be the foundation of his ministry in the church.

The subject of his eloquent sermon Sunday was "Glory Today, Service Tomorrow".

The Rev. Mr. Morgan is 34 years old and he has faith that there is a bright future ahead for the Wurts street Baptist Church.

Evening Verse
(For Your Scrapbook)
By DANIEL J. O'CONNOR

A Month Before Christmas

A month until Christmas Who'd ever believe
That time could have journeyed so fast!
It seems that the echoes of last Christmas eve
Are scarcely resigned to the past.

When Christmas was over last year, you'll recall
You vowed that a plan would be made
To budget enough so that late in the Fall
Your holiday bills would be paid.
A Christmas club check might be handy, of course
In case there were items you missed
But that would be used as an added resource
When checking your well-arranged list.

This last minute shopping is silly, you said
I'll never go through it again—
Next year I'll do all of my buying ahead
Unlike other women and men.
Perhaps you're prepared as you stated you'd be
When Christmas last bid us adieu
But honestly—aren't you exactly like me—
With nothing but rushing in view.

By The Associated Press

Seaman Sailor

St. Louis—Said the 20-year-old Rantoul, Ill., youth to recruiting officers:

"My name is Danton Sailor and I was born on October 27. I think I have something in common with the Navy. I want to enlist."

The officers agreed and swore Sailor in as a naval aviation cadet.

'Gator Agonies

Chicago—Mrs. Paul Semrad noticed that the woman sitting next to her on the bus had a box in her lap from which low moans issued.

When the seatmate noticed Mrs. Semrad's shudders, she reassured her: "Don't worry, it's just my alligator, he lives a very quet life at home, and I think this bumpy ride displeases him. Or he may have gas on his stomach."

Dividend

Whitehorse, Yukon Territory—An emergency roadside airplane landing strip—on of many along the new Alaskan highway—already saved the life of one soldier.

Sgt. James West (address unavailable) was near death from a ruptured appendix. A wire to northwest service command base hospital brought Capt. William T. Joyce of Scranton, Pa., and Lt. Eugene Moskowitz of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., by plane.

They made a slippery landing and, with a 10 below blizzard whirling outside, successfully operated in an improvised room in the barracks.

More Women Than Men Added to Factory Pay Rolls

Albany, Nov. 30—The percentage of factory jobs in New York state held by women has increased since Pearl Harbor, says Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller. A study of factory employment by sex made by Dr. E. B. Patton, director of Division of Statistics and Information in the Department of Labor, indicates that approximately three times as many women as men were added to factory payrolls in the nine months between January 15 and October 15, 1942. In January 27.8 per cent of all factory jobs were held by women. By October this percentage had increased to 31.9.

A shift from men to women workers has occurred in nearly all manufacturing industries. The most notable increase in employment of women has taken place in the war industries where the need for additional workers has been greatest. The metals group, which added 22 per cent to the total number of employes during the nine months' period, accomplished this result by adding 123 per cent more women and only 13 per cent more men. Women held only 8.6 per cent of all factory jobs in those industries in January. By October this percentage had increased to 15.6. Similar changes have taken place in miscellaneous manufacturing industries. The professional and scientific instruments, photographic and optical goods industries which are included in this group hold important government contracts. These industries added 16 per cent more men and 76 per cent more women between January and October, increasing the percentage of jobs held by women from 19.7 to 27.1. Most other industries in the miscellaneous group were reducing total employment but in nearly all of them the percentage of jobs held by women was greater at the end of the period than at the beginning.

The food and tobacco group employed 18 per cent more people in October than in January, nine per cent more men and 41 per cent more women. Part of the increase in total employment undoubtedly was due to seasonal factors but the fact that the percentage of jobs held by women increased in all of the individual industries in the group except the beverage industries suggests that the shift from men to women employes was independent of seasonal movements.

The apparel industries normally employ both the largest number and the highest percentage of women workers. The per cent of all jobs in these industries held by women was 61.1 in January and 61.5 in October. This is a smaller increase in the proportion of women than in any other major industrial group. In most industries in the group, the percentage of all jobs held by women varied only a little during the nine-month period but, by October, the percentage of women employed had increased somewhat above the January figure in practically all branches.

RAILWAYS LACK FUEL

Uruguay's railways have been further cramped in their operations by a reduction in the amount of liquid fuel alloted them by the Montevideo authorities. Central Uruguay Railway, the country's longest, is allowed 30,800 tons of petroleum monthly compared with former allotments of 4,400 tons. The road is trying to establish a freight priority system.

HOT WATER RATIONED

Voluntary rationing of hot water is part of the British program to conserve fuel. Householders were recently requested by the authorities in London to use hot water boilers not more than two days each week and to effect other fuel economies.

Dr. Schairer Asks Information on Former Associates

Dr. Reinhold Schairer, who filled the post as director of the Deutsche Studentenwerk in Republican Germany, is anxious to ascertain whether there are any ex-members of this organization in the Kingston area. If so, he would like to greet them after his lecture at the High School Auditorium tomorrow night.

The Deutsche Studentenwerk represented a tremendous effort to democratize post-war Germany in 1918, and it stood an excellent chance to accomplish just that until it was recognized as a bar to complete dictatorship by Hitler who finally absorbed it into the Nazi pattern and changed its whole purpose. This organization brought more than 30,000 highly gifted and worthy students to German universities by granting scholarships and loans to those of races and social classes who would ordinarily be deprived of a higher education. That the hopes and aspirations of the organization were fully justified is proven by the fact that graduates are now prominent in many countries and are members of movements designed to rehabilitate Germany after the war by bringing to the forefront those Germans who have been repressed by Naziism. To head this movement, Dr. Schairer refused to act as personal secretary to the German foreign minister at the Versailles Peace Conference, in the belief that education to prevent future wars, commenced at once, was more important than settling World War I.

It is hoped that Dr. Schairer will touch upon some of these highlights of the career in his radio interview over the local radio station, at 6:15 tomorrow night, prior to his lecture. The mystery and hell of Hitlerism cannot be covered in a short 15 minutes over the radio; consequently that subject, "Know Your Enemy," will be reserved entirely for the lecture at the high school at 8:15.

Dr. Schairer's appearance is sponsored by the Kingston Kiwanis Club as a benefit for the Citizens' Committee, the Red Cross Kit Bag Fund, and the U.S.O., and all funds realized will be divided among those organizations.

night raid on the docks at Bizerte. Bursts were seen on the target."

A Vichy broadcast said British troops on the Tunisian-Algerian frontier had been reinforced by armored contingents, but declared that the Germans had captured a height in the Tunisian mountains and taken 110 prisoners.

Italian field headquarters asserted that Axis troops had captured "an important position" in Tunisia, stopped armor-supported allied columns and captured more than 200 prisoners.

"Some British-American tanks were destroyed," the Fascist command said, but its failure to give the locale of the clash suggested that it was an isolated action.

Rail Connections Cut

Rail connections between Tunis and the great naval base at Bizerte, 40 miles to the north, were cut off by the allied thrusts to Djedeida and to Mateur, 25 miles south of Bizerte.

While German and Italian troops waited for the assault, drawn up in half-moon defenses on the outskirts of Tunis and Bizerte, the Nazi-controlled Paris radio reported that heavy fighting was in progress near Sousse, on the coastal road 70 miles south of Tunis.

In this section, French troops under Gen. Henri Giraud were attempting to seal off the Axis "escape corridor" and prevent reinforcements from reaching the beleaguered Tunis-Bizerte zone from Tripoli.

British headquarters said allied heavy bombers pounded anew at Tripoli, Tunis and Bizerte, softening up the German and Italian strongholds as a prelude to the land assault to drive the Axis into the sea.

For the fourth consecutive day, the British communique announced "nothing to report from our land forces" in Libya as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army awaited the arrival of fresh forces and supplies moving hundreds of miles across the desert.

Front-line dispatches said Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel now was entrenched behind fortified lines in the El Agheila defile, between marshy quicksands and the sea, and had been reinforced by Italian-made tanks.

On the Soviet front, Russia's great winter offensive engulfed another German stronghold on the Don as the Red armies, slaughtering 10,000 Nazi troops a day, advanced several miles and drove the invaders farther back toward the bayonets of the Stalingrad garrison.

Dispatches to Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, said 100,000 Germans had been killed and 66,000 captured in the flaming Stalingrad battle theatre in the 10 days period ending yesterday.

In addition, 14,300 Nazis were listed as killed on the central (Moscow) front, making a grand total of 180,000 knocked out of action in the twin Soviet offensives. This does not include the wounded.

Russians Cut Rail Lines

While clearing skies prevailed over the frozen Stalingrad Steppelands, Russian troops on the Moscow front fought their way through a blizzard to cut three Nazi-controlled rail lines and isolate the communications hub at Velikie Luki, only 90 miles from the Latvian frontier.

"Our troops have occupied a number of populated places," Red army headquarters said, referring to this offensive.

"We destroyed or disabled 49 enemy tanks. The enemy left 4,800 officers and men killed on the battlefield."

Soviet quarters said the twin Stalingrad-Moscow operations were the greatest undertaken by the Russians in 17 months of war. "The German army is facing the blackest moment since its invasion of Russia," these quarters said.

On the Stalingrad front, Soviet troops were credited with smashing new German lines on the east bank of the Don—the second breakthrough in this sector in two days—and 1,000 more Germans were reported killed in the action.

Inside long-besieged Stalingrad, the Russians said Nazi troops repeatedly and vainly attacked in an effort to regain positions in the bloody northside factory district, losing more than 750 dead as Soviet defenders held fast.

A special Russian communique also reported the capture of Obilnaya, 70 miles southeast of Kotelnikovski, in a drive across the Kalmyck-Steppes from the Stalingrad-Krasnodar railway.

Name and address of the operator to be on the tip-up and must be in immediate attendance at all times while the tip-up is being used for the taking of fish.

Troy Flier Killed

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—One Troy flier was killed and another, also from Troy, was injured today when an airplane crashed about 300 yards from the Schenectady county airport. The dead man was Joseph Berger, owner and believed pilot of the ship, which struck the top of a tree and fell into the yard of a private residence. His companion, Andrew Brennan, was taken to Ellis Hospital where the extent of injuries was not immediately determinable.

Schacht Is in Picture

At the German Frontier, Nov. 30 (AP) — Germany's ex-wizard of finance, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, came back into the political spotlight today with reports that he was preparing, at Adolf Hitler's request an exhaustive report on how the war might end and its consequences for the Reich. Informants with Axis connections said the German Fuehrer had personally asked Schacht to undertake the task, supplying him with new offices and a staff of 20 secretaries.

Overheated Furnace Sets Fire to Floor Timbers

An over-heated furnace in the cellar of the house at 572 Delaware avenue set fire to the floor timbers and filled the house with smoke at 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning. The fire department was called on a still alarm which was followed by a bell alarm from Box 2511.

As the firemen entered the cellar they found a box in which were four week-old puppies, and one of the firemen carried the box and the dogs out of the cellar where the fresh air revived the puppies.

Some damage was done to the second floor of the house by smoke and water. The house was occupied by Samuel Benincasa, who was found throwing water on the fire in an effort to extinguish it, as the firemen reached the house.

This morning at 12:30 o'clock the fire department responded to a still alarm when there was a short circuit in the electric motor in the refrigerator in the apartment of Benjamin Schecter in the house at 199 Downs street.

New York, Nov. 30 (AP)—Stocks generally stumbled in today's market without developing outstanding weakness.

A few peace issues tried to keep going on the upside but the majority of last week's gainers appeared a bit fatigued and failed to get anywhere in particular.

The list displayed mild retreating tendencies at the start and, ranged from fractions to a point or so. Volume was small except for sizeable blocks of "penny" stocks.

Tax selling persisted as the principal anti-recovery factor and further good war news brought considerable switching of share holdings. Liquidation of armament stocks, however, seemed to have dried up appreciably.

Bonds and commodities were mixed.

Sears Roebuck was among the few shares to edge into the new high ground for 1942. American Telephone was an isolated strong spot. Du Pont, Dow Chemical, American Water Works, Texas Co. and Oliver Farm were supported. Backward were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, Kennecott, American Can, Douglas Aircraft, U. S. Rubber and Eastman Kodak.

Falterers in the curb included American Gas, Electric Bond & Share, Humble Oil and Brewster Aero. Occasional plus markets were attached to Pennsylvania-Central Airlines, Gulf Oil and American Cyanamid "B."

Lester Finley Dies Suddenly At His Residence

Lester Finley, for years widely known in local banking, religious, and fraternal circles, died suddenly early this morning in his home, 16 Van Gaasbeck street. Five years ago Mr. Finley was seized with a stroke while engaged in his duties as teller in the First National Bank, but had sufficiently recovered from the attack in the past year or so to operate his own automobile, although not in sufficient health to resume banking activities.

Sunday morning Mr. Finley attended services as usual in Trinity Methodist Church, where he had been an active member for many years, and at that time he appeared to be in fairly good health.

Mr. Finley had been employed in the downtown bank for approximately 20 years, first as a clerk and later as a teller in the bank.

For years he had been active in Trinity Methodist Church, serving as financial secretary of the church for a number of years, and also as treasurer of the Sunday school.

Fraternally Mr. Finley was a member of Rondout Lodge No. 343, F. & A. M. He was raised a Master Mason in the lodge in 1929, and since that time had been an active member of the order.

Although not in the best of health for the past five years the sudden death of Mr. Finley came as a sudden shock to his host of friends.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Maude B. McKeon Finley, and two sons, the Rev. Lester Finley, Jr., of Cornwallville, and the Rev. Donald Finley of Fleischmanns.

Funeral services will be held from the home at a time to be announced later.

W. S. Farish Is Dead at Millbrook

Standard Oil of New Jersey President Suffers Heart Attack

Millbrook, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—W. S. Farish, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey president who pioneered in developing Texas' first oil pool of importance, is dead.

A heart attack yesterday claimed the 61-year-old native of Maysville, Miss., who taught school to pay his way through college and became one of America's leading petroleum men.

Farish, who helped organize and was president of the American Petroleum Institute, formed and led the National Petroleum War Service committee which during the last war handled all oil supplies for the Allies. Recently, he had spent much time in Washington as a member of the Petroleum Industry War Council.

Farish drew public attention this year when a Senate committee held hearings on Standard Oil's patent contracts with I. G. Farbenindustrie. Farish detailed a story of the firm's beginning in the oil chemical industry which made possible the oil industry's ability to turn out synthetic rubber and other essential products of war.

He went to Beaumont, Tex., when oil was found there in 1901, and established an oil company. He was an executive of other oil firms and became chairman of the board of Jersey Standard in New York in 1933. In 1937, he became president and chief executive officer.

Ferguson Resigns

Harold S. Ferguson, connected with the Ellenville High School for a number of years and recently teaching general science and social studies, has resigned to accept a position as principal of the school at Chester, Orange county. He will leave for Chester as soon as the Board of Education of the Ellenville school can secure someone to fill the vacancy. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson have been active in the social life of Ellenville and in the work of the Reformed Church. Mr. Ferguson has taken a prominent part in Boy Scout work, is a member of the Noonday Club and of Scoresby Hose Co. Mrs. Ferguson has served as president of the Ellenville Women's Club. They have two boys.

Italian Trouble Ahead

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull indicated today the government was expecting explosive developments in Italy's internal situation soon. Hull was asked at his press conference about reports of serious unrest in various parts of that war-weary country, including mutinous behavior in the army. He replied that he still was assembling reports coming in on that situation and might have some comment to make later. He added that one should not be surprised to hear of just such developments in Italy. Hull said he had no information on the situation at Toulon since the reported scuttling of the French fleet.

Austin Burial Rites on Tuesday

Major General Was Born in This City; Services Held in New York

Major General Elmore Farrington Austin, National Guard officer between 1900 and 1930, died Friday at the Post Graduate Hospital in New York city. He was 78 years old, and lived at the Park Cresent Hotel, 150 Riverside Drive, New York.

General Austin was born in Kingston, a son of Captain Alexander W. Austin, who fought in the Civil War, and Mrs. Margaret M. A. Abbey Austin. Funeral services were held today in New York city, and burial will be made in Montrepose cemetery, this city, on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

After being graduated from college with a civil engineering degree, General Austin enlisted in Company B, 71st Infantry, New York Guard, on Nov. 29, 1887. He rose in the ranks to ordnance sergeant in 1894, when he was commissioned a captain. When the regiment volunteered for service in the Spanish-American War, General Austin received command of one of the newly formed companies and saw active service in Cuba, taking part in the offensive of Las Guasimas and Santiago de Cuba.

Commanded "Washington" Grays"

After the Spanish-American War General Austin became major and engineer officer of the 1st Brigade, New York National Guard. In 1908 he was named a colonel and commander of the 8th Coast Defense Command, the "Washington Grays," who have served the country continuously since the Revolutionary War and are in active service today as the 258th Field Artillery.

In 1912 he was named brigadier general and chief of coast artillery of New York State, while retaining active command of the 8th Coast Defense Command.

During the World War General Austin entered the United States Army on July 15, 1917, and in May, 1918, was named Commander of the 57th Coast Artillery Regiment, which went to France. He commanded the regiment during the offensives at St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne.

After the World War he returned to the National Guard and to his old regiment, which later became the 193d Coast Artillery and finally the 258th Field Artillery.

In 1927 he once more became brigadier general in command of the 52d Field Artillery Brigade, and in 1928 he was promoted to major general, in which rank he retired two years later.

In civil life General Ausin was an executive of the Department of Parks. He held various posts as engineer in charge of sewer construction projects, and in 1926 he was appointed deputy chief engineer of the Bronx. He retired from that post in 1934.

His decorations included the Distinguished Service Medal, the World War Medal, the New York Conspicious Service Cross and the 71st Infantry Long Service Medal. He was member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Military Order of the World Wars and the United Spanish War Veterans, Frank Keck Camp, 53. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Cora B. Glover Austin, and a grandson, John Adams Austin, Jr.

Two Are on Furlough

Kenneth Green and his bride, the former Irene Ulrich of Pittsfield, to whom he was married Saturday in Pittsfield, are spending their honeymoon in Kingston at the home of Kenneth's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence MacDaniel, 74 Franklin street. Kenneth, who is a petty officer, third class, is attached to a warship which took part in the recent fighting off North Africa. He is on a 10-day furlough. Also spending a 10-day furlough at the MacDaniel home is their son, Corp. Stanley MacDaniel, who is with the Army Air Force Glider School at Dalhar, Texas.

Rev. H. W. Morgan Pastor of Local Baptist Church

At the Sunday morning service in the Wurts Street Baptist Church, the Rev. Halsey W. Morgan, pastor of the Port Crane, Broome county, Baptist Church, announced that he had accepted the call extended to him to become pastor of the local church, and would assume his pastoral duties on January 1.

The new pastor and his wife, who is a graduate of the Oneonta Normal School, and their three-and-a-half year old son, will move to Kingston the latter part of December.

The Rev. Mr. Morgan said that instead of writing a letter of acceptance he had decided to announce his acceptance from the pulpit of the church with a sermon message which would be the foundation of his ministry in the church.

The subject of his eloquent sermon Sunday was "Glory Today, Service Tomorrow".

The Rev. Mr. Morgan is 34 years old and he has faith that there is a bright future ahead for the Wurts street Baptist Church.

MEMORIAM

In memory of Fred Sahloff, who died two years ago today, November 30, 1940.

He had a nature you could not help loving,
And a heart that was purer than gold,
And to those who loved and knew him,
His memory will never grow old.

His wife,
MRS. MARY SAHLOFF

On the other hand, McNutt has been under fire for his handling of manpower problems as chairman of the War Manpower Commission, and Secretary of Labor Perkins often has been criticized in Congress for not taking forceful measures to end strikes and other industrial disturbances. Senator Byrd (D.-Va.) has declared several times in the Senate that little could be accomplished on the labor front until Miss Perkins was replaced by a man.

There were indications that if the President submits the names of these three for confirmation, the Republicans might take advantage of the opportunity to discuss the work of other cabinet members as well. There has been a great deal of private criticism among Republicans of Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, also a Republican, for example, and some of this criticism may be brought out in any general discussion of the cabinet.

At the same time there was little doubt that the Senate would confirm any changes the President choose to make in his official family.

Evening Verse—
(For Your Scrapbook)
By DANIEL J. O'CONNOR

A Month Before Christmas

A month until Christmas! Who'd ever believe
That time could have journeyed so fast!
It seems that the echoes of last Christmas eve
Are scarcely consigned to the past.

When Christmas was over last year, you'll recall
You vowed that a plan would be made
To budget enough so that late in the Fall
Your holiday bills would be paid.
A Christmas club check might be handy, of course
In case there were items you missed
But that would be used as an added resource
When checking your well-arranged list.

This last minute shopping is silly, you said
I'll never go through it again—
Next year will do all of my buying ahead
Unlike other women and men.
Perhaps you're prepared as you stated you'd be
When Christmas last fell on affairs
But honestly—aren't you exactly like me—

SHORTAGE SENSE

Rubber Czar Jeffers is both right and wrong when he says rubber wears out as fast in Oklahoma as in Massachusetts. In fact, it's apt to wear out faster, if there is no bar to driving, because people drive more miles in the sparsely settled west than they do in the close-packed east. But by the same token, gas may be needed more in the west, much of which has been built on a plan which can hardly function without automobile transportation, than in the east where distances are short and there are many other ways of getting people and goods about.

Underneath these considerations lies the question—what are we saving gas for? Why save rubber; Fuel oil? Why can't we have more sugar?

We are doing without to win the war, measuring gas, sugar, meat, wool, steel, coffee and warmth with freedom. Put liberty on one side of the balance and all these commodities—and many more—on the other, and liberty still weighs heavier.

Another point is that the shortages are to be temporary. The purpose of them is permanent—the maintenance of freedom. Shortages will give way to abundance, once freedom is made secure.

Suppose the temporary czars are tough. The tougher they are, the shorter they need reign. Let them be tough. Americans can take it.

GET KNOWLEDGE

Views may vary on educational procedure in these changing times, but about the main thing there is no question. Young people, within the limits of patriotic duty, should take all the learning they can get, whether in high school, college or technical school. Especially, perhaps, in the last of these. The nation is going to need far more trained people in the field of practical technology for a long time to come.

The doubling up of selected youths to combine their last year of high school and first year in college, as recommended by the national Educational Policies Commission, seems desirable. This is not really skipping a year, but saving time by working much harder than students usually do, so that there may not be much important work lost from the courses. It is likely to be rather tough on the students, and they must take care to preserve their health; but the work will probably be no more onerous there than in the training camps.

These are days of high pressure, not only for the fighting forces but for technical people of all kinds, and indeed for almost everybody else. They are also inspiring times, in which people of all ages rise easily to the tasks assigned them.

CITY INCOME TAX

More trouble is looming up for the unfortunate taxpayer. The federal income tax is bad enough, as everybody knows, and going to be worse. A number of states, including New York, also tax incomes. Now the cities are getting the idea, and Philadelphia has actually started. Since 1940 she has had a tax of 1.5 per cent on earned incomes. In the past fiscal year this yielded over $21,000,000, or more than $10 apiece for every man, woman and child in the city.

A striking feature is that the tax applies to all wage earners, business and professional men who work in Philadelphia, whether they live there or not. This will appeal to many cities that think non-residents dwelling in the adjoining suburbs get all the good out of the city government without contributing anything to it. Annexation is out of the question, as these suburbs will never consent. Now Philadelphia has found a way to make the outsiders pay their share.

The old saying ran, "Nothing is sure but death and taxes." Evidently this should be changed to read, "death and more taxes."

BLITZKREIG, NEW STYLE

If the blitzkrieg is patented, the Germans might well sue the British for breach of the patent. The British Eighth Army in North Africa, according to General Sir Harold Alexander, commander in the Middle East, recently covered 400 miles in a week. That is twice Rommel's speed in his successful advance of last summer.

It is good to find that the enemy's methods can be copied and improved upon. And it will do the Nazis no end of good to find themselves on the receiving end of a blitzkrieg.

BEING MEN

A soldier in the last war was asked if he was not afraid to go over the top. He said, "I am, but I'll try to be a man, and hope that the man next to me is one also."

The Russians are living up to this soldierly standard. Our ambassador to Moscow, Admiral William H. Standley, recently said, "There are deeper causes for Russia's great success than the stubborn and brave tenacity of the Red army, its proved efficiency, and willingness to die rather than retreat. There is the all-important self-sacrificing devotion by every man, woman and youth in the Soviet Union to their army and to the cause for which it fights."

Americans are proving themselves men, too.

Mother Goose's "one-a-penny, two-a-penny hot cross buns" were nothing compared with modern ice cream cones. But the cones cost a nickel and will be getting smaller.

As for our generals and admirals on the job now, we'll match 'em against any gold-braided outfit in history.

Isn't it grand to see Stalin giving Hitler the bum's rush?

EFFECTS OF FOOD

Wives and mothers have known for many years that if they want to talk about a new dress, some painting or decorating for the house, or anything else in which the opinion and help of husband or father is needed, the matter should not be discussed while he is hungry. It was no news to them, therefore, when some research workers a couple of years ago showed that hunger so affected the nervous system that the individual would not be his or her real self and would do or say things which he would not remember shortly after the eating of a meal.

That plenty of the proper foods would increase the size, health and life span of small animals was shown about five years ago. Research workers on nutrition kept a colony of albino rats on a standard ration of food for about 27 generations. The rats thrived, had large families, and lived the usual life span. However, by adding certain foods containing minerals and vitamins to this standard ration, the rats improved in size, in the bearing of young, and in their life span.

Dr. James S. McLester, Birmingham, Alabama, chairman of the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association, states in the association journal that, despite the abundance of all kinds of food, there are many individuals who do not eat enough or their body processes do not handle properly various food stuffs, with the result that they are not what they should be physically, mentally, and emotionally. These individuals have no outstanding symptoms such as bleeding gums found with scurvy, neuritis pains of beri-beri, or the skin eruption of pellagra. They have, however, mental depression, nervous instability, and other vague forms of ill health such as fatigue and irritability.

"After watching these patients, one is impressed by the truth of the statement that no greater catastrophe comes to man than the loss of efficiency, the lack of initiative, and the mental depression that comes from failure to obtain proper nutrition."

How can we be sure that we are getting enough of the protective foods that will keep us well physically, mentally and emotionally?

We must continue to eat plenty of meat, eggs, fish, bread and potatoes—foundation foods, and then make sure of eating some every day of the protective foods, that is dairy products, fruits and green vegetables.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

One of the best known firemen in Kingston in the days of the Gay Nineties was Charles L. Quackenbush, who had served as chief of the city's fire department in the days before the paid fire department was created. I ran across an old clipping the other day which told of Chief Quackenbush's death on May 4, 1918, in his home in Watervliet.

Turning from firemanic to musical affairs many readers will recall Ford Hummel and his talented sons, Earle, violinist, and Stanley Hummel, pianist. The boys were in popular demand for musical events in Kingston in the 1920's. In later years they removed to Albany.

I recall that in May, 1928, the two youths gave a delightful concert in Kingston, which was attended by many music lovers of the city, who watched the musical development of the two boys who had mastered the violin and piano at a very early age. The father, Ford Hummel, was also a very talented musician, and active in musical circles in the city for a number of years.

One of the best known dentists in Kingston in the years at the turn of the century was Dr. Cornelius H. Bishop, who made his home in Sleightsburgh, but for years had his dental offices on the second floor of the Pythian Hall building on Broadway, at Thomas street. He died on May 1, 1928.

Dr. Bishop was very active in musical circles in Kingston, and was one of the charter members of the Mendelssohn Club of this city. For years he led the singing in the Sunday school of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, and took an active part in many musical events held not only in that church but in other churches throughout the city.

I recall that on May 2, 1928, a group of young people of the Rondout Presbyterian Church presented the comedy "Polly Wants a Cracker" in the chapel of the church with great success.

Included in the cast were Fred L. Van Deusen, Tom Rowland, Arthur Scott, Lillian Schutt, Kathleen Meeker, Helen Beeres and Ethel Skelton.

One of the most active men in Masonic circles in Kingston is Samuel S. Brown, senior member of the plumbing firm of Brown & Dressel. I recall that on May 3, 1918, he was elected president of the Kingston Shriner's Association.

Mr. Brown was also active in civic affairs and has served as a member of the Board of Health.

Lack of doctors since so many have been called to military service is held responsible for the increase in the number of deaths in many districts of England.

HIGHLAND

Highland, Nov. 30—Mr. and Mrs. August Gersch were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Bloomer for Thanksgiving, together with Mrs. Bloomer's parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. John Gaspary and son John of Glenham, Edward Harrington and Miss Agnes Capers.

The meeting of Chapter A.,P.E.O. Sisterhood will be held Thursday, December 3, at the home of Mrs. Howard Barton in Milton. Mrs. Irving Rathgeb will be assisting hostess. Mrs. Barton will conclude her program on Canada begun at the previous meeting.

Dr. and Mrs. Chauncey Ayres left Wednesday to visit his sister near Boston. They will remain over Sunday.

The Highland Council of Church Women, in behalf of the War Relief committee, wishes to thank the Wilcox store for the use of their show window to display the results of their salvage sewing. Mr. Wilcox gave the window space for three days last week. Great interest was shown in the garments, mittens, little dresses and quilts, as many people had not realized what could be done with worn materials. The committee was gratified by the interest of the townspeople and feels sure there will be added response in sewing, sorting and obtaining material. Mrs. Fred Sneider and Mrs. John Graham were in charge of headquarters Wednesday afternoon.

The honor roll issued from the school for the past five weeks contained the following names and marks: Louis Canino, 85; Evelyn Cappillano, 85; Russell Carpenter, 87; Hertha Dapp, 89; Fred Dates, 86; Doris DuBois, 89; Jean DuBois, 86; Arlene Fledt, 85; Jules Friedman, 87; William Maynard, 88; Virginia Relyea, 86; Harry Rosenkranse, 87; June Schantz, 88; Shirley Walters, 88; Selwyn Moshier, 92; Vivian Nielson, 92; Nancy Rathgeb, 90.

Kevin Haugh, K. C., of Eire, who two years ago became one of the youngest Attorney Generals in the world, has just been appointed a judge of the High Court at the age of 42.

Men and women war victims, who lost limbs and are now fully employed, recently showed the Lord Mayor of London how modern artificial limbs enable them to do useful war work.

When a lecturer in a British war camp casually mentioned Hitler's name recently German prisoners jumped to their feet and cried "Heil Hitler."

Conditions Among Nation's Colleges Seem to Be in Confusion in Place of Necessary Order

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 30 — The American educational system at the college level stands in peril today. For several weeks educators have struggled with the military mind in Washington just as businessmen have struggled and the net result is confusion where there should be order, conflict where there should be harmony and disservice to the war effort where there should be planning and vision.

The problem has not reached the surface of public discussion for presidents have felt the sting of criticism that educational institutions were alleged havens for draft dodgers and it has been duly asserted by army men that the public wouldn't stand for any discrimination in favor of college students because their economic situation is supposedly better than other 18 to 20-year-olds. The army men forget the hundreds of thousands of boys in state universities who come from families in the lower income groups.

So the executives of collegiate institutions muzzled themselves and because they have involuntarily accepted the hush-hush policy, a surgical operation is about to be performed on the American colleges which not merely may set American education back a decade or more but may fail to give the United States army the kind of intelligent officer personnel which a large military establishment really needs.

The United States navy, on the other hand seems to have handled its educational relationships not only more sensibly than the army for the present war but with an eye to the large personnel of officers who will be needed for the post-war period. The navy isn't trying to set up a system of new educational institutions designed for military use but is ready to let the educational institutions adapt themselves to the educational requirements known to be useful in the making of officers.

The army's difficulty springs from some queer idea, born only in a military mind, that the thing to do with all students is to withdraw them from their courses of study, give them three months' basic training and then send a selected group back to college. This means that pre-medical and engineering students, for example, and others in the sciences would have their work interrupted while the army got them all mixed up in regiments after which they would have to go back and try to make up for lost time. Pre-medical students don't need military training, nor do some of the other scientific classes. Expert educators say this is one of the most fantastic schemes ever suggested and can mean only that the army officers who have been urging it just don't know the first principles of continuity of study or education.

Then there is the question of teaching. The army is clamoring for professors to teach in certain special schools the very subjects in which the colleges could better prepare the young men before they ever go to camp. The college presidents realize that college-as-usual is out for the duration of the war but they see no reason why the system cannot be utilized so that the selection is done by the army and navy on the campus. Then officer material could be determined on the spot and arrangements made for uninterrupted study. It is estimated that the colleges can give a student in two full calendar years now almost as much as they used to give in three years. The colleges, of course, would begin at the earliest age practicable to give courses in line with military and naval requirements.

One of the tragic aspects of the muddle that is rapidly developing over the whole problem of how to handle the student question is the expressed view of certain high officials that college men make no better officers than any other young men. General MacArthur when chief of staff of the U. S. Army didn't think so; in fact, he tried to revise the curriculum at West Point so as to produce not so many of the technically or rigidly trained type. He urged that resourceful and broad-gauged individuals be developed who could adjust themselves quickly to any emergency. The impatience of the civilian sometimes with the West Pointer is that he appears narrow-minded and seems to stress only one thing—military science or drill.

It had been thought that in this war with the background of higher education would play a greater part in mobilizing the big army we need but evidently the military mind learns its lessons only by surveying its own wreckage. Unless public opinion steps in that's what's going to be the net result.—with neither the army getting the right kind of officer material nor the educational system retaining even a good nucleus of organization for usefulness after the war.

"Behind Both Lines," by Harold Denny.

Harold Denny is the only American newspaperman who has been in Berlin since America assumed her share of the war, and has returned to report what he saw. Mr. Denny did not go voluntarily.

Once during Germany's campaign against France Mr. Denny was chased by General Rommel, and outran him. A year ago this month the general won. But Denny was an Italian prisoner technically, and after being dragged despondently about Northern Africa for a spell, he and some others were put on a cruiser which took out at full speed for Italty. The captain was afraid of the British Navy.

Then in Italy, the master race put in a bid for Mr. Denny, and naturally Mussolini's Roman legions yielded him up. They dared not refuse. So the New York Times' crack correspondent was entrained for Berlin and a pleasant-enough cell in the basement of Prinz Albrechtstrasse 8, which is the Gestapo's national headquarters. This jail is considered a show place, and only the upper crust of prisoner has the privilege of living there.

The Gestapo wanted something from Denny, but Denny never quite discovered what it was. He parried their questions, withstood his solitary confinement, stuck manfully to his major thesis, which was that he was an American newspaperman on a proper and accredited mission in Africa, and that he had been captured before America's entry into the war and therefore was technically an interned neutral. Amazingly, he was tossed back to Italy, and there sent to a comparative pleasant camp for two months or more. Later he was repatriated.

Mr. Denny had no picnic in Berlin, and was not impressed with Berlin's food. Nor Munich's. But he was not mistreated. His treatment in Italy was good, although until the Red Cross caught up with him, the food was pretty short. Everybody was on short rations, blackshirts to bootblacks. But Mr. Denny learned some things of value, although his experience was not especially thrilling in a world of major thrills. He believes Italy, once rid of Mussolini and his boys, can be saved. He believes Germany's war is merely one stage of an age-old national vandalism; that she must be crushed.

Spain's new shoes for the working classes will be priced from $1.63 a pair for children's footwear to $3.83 for adults', while the middle classes must pay $5.93 to $9.13.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

(First of two articles on enemy propaganda in the U. S.)

Washington—There are several wartime agencies in the government whose duty it is to worry about Axis propaganda in this country. Oddly, United Nations successes in Africa and the Pacific have brought greater worries than since the war started.

In recent weeks Berlin and Rome short wave broadcasts have quadrupled their efforts to make Great Britain and the United States in particular and all the other United Nations in general suspicious of each other. This has happened almost simultaneously with United Nations successes on the Russian, African and Pacific fronts and apparently a reaction in many quarters is that it will be all right now to relax for a while.

I might add that although it is not correspondingly as important, many Washington commentators —your own included—have received a number of letters recently saying that the last election should be "a warning to warmongers in the capital that this country doesn't want any part of these foreign wars."

The unfortunate part of this is, according to government specialists here, that it has come just at the moment when there has been some unfortunate division in the United Nations over certain manipulations, public relations, and future aims.

I think perhaps it is time for a little debunking.

To get rid of the chatter "that the election was a reprimand to 'warmongers'," run over the complete list of the men elected. If there was one elected on anything but a "win the war first" platform, Washington hasn't heard of him.

Then there is the story that we are losing this war in the Pacific and that the Navy hasn't been telling the truth about what is going on there.

Grant that the Navy hasn't hastened out with every item regarding some of our misfortunes; still the story is as leaky as a wire basket.

For proof, you can ignore our own communiques and go directly to the Japs. The Jap radio lies so fast that it frequently trips over its own falsehoods, but not since the fall of Burma and the Dutch East Indies have the Japs made any claims to gains of new territory and they have admitted our important recapture of portions of those vital bases in the Solomons.

Cooking Vegetables To Save Vitamin C

Geneva, N. Y. — Boiling vegetables in large quantities of water results in much of the vitamin C dissolving out and being lost when the cooking water is discarded, but the heat of cooking does not ordinarily cause destruction of this vitamin, says Dr. D. K. Tressler, chemist at the State Experiment Station here. Dr. Tressler has conducted extensive studies of the effect of cooking and of various other factors on the vitamin C content of a long list of New York state vegetables, the results of which are summarized in a circular now available upon request to the station.

"Since only a few vegetables are eaten without cooking, the losses of vitamin C which may occur during cooking are a matter of great importance from a nutrition standpoint," says Dr. Tressler, who continues, "Formerly, cooking was believed to be highly destructive of this, the least stable of the vitamins. The heating of vegetables required for cooking was thought to cause the destruction of a large percentage of the vitamin C content."

"Results of numerous tests of cooking snap beans, cabbage, carrots, Swiss chard, broccoli, cauliflower, lima beans, peas, and spinach have indicated that neither boiling nor steaming causes considerable destruction of vitamin C. The actual loss of vitamin C during steaming or boiling of fresh vegetables usually is only about 10 or 15 per cent; however, it varies from a minimum of 2 per cent to a maximum of about 30 per cent."

In general, the greater the amount of cooking water used and the longer the period of boiling, the larger the proportion of vitamin C dissolved and the less retained in the drained vegetable. Steaming destroys more vitamin C than boiling, but even so steamed vegetables may contain more of this vitamin than boiled vegetables because less of the vitamin is dissolved during steaming. Preliminary tests seem to indicate that baking is more destructive of vitamin C than either steaming or boiling. According to the results of Dr. Tressler's observations, it apparently makes no difference whether the pan is kept covered during cooking, on the loss of vitamin C; nor does it matter whether the cooking utensil is of aluminum, glass or enamel.

Auto Fatalities Drop 49 Per Cent

October Shows Considerable Drop; Po'keepsie Is Cited for Safety

Chicago, Nov. 30 (AP)—A drop of 49 per cent in motor car fatalities in October compared with the same month a year ago—the greatest monthly reduction in the nation's history—was reported by the national safety council today.

Only 2,000 persons perished in motor vehicle accidents during October, representing a saving of 1,920 lives as compared with October of 1941.

For the first ten months of the year traffic deaths were estimated to be down 27 per cent from the same period a year ago—a total of 23,290 fatalities against 31,820 last year, or a saving of 8,530 lives. Since it is the intention of mileage rationing to cut travel in half the council said that on that basis motor vehicle deaths in 1942 can be expected to drop almost to two-fifths of their 1941 totals.

All of 41 states whose ten-month fatality figures are available showed a reduction in deaths from the comparable period of 1941.

Leaders among cities for low death rates computed on the basis of fatalities per 100,000 of population, were:

Group one, over 500,000 population—Milwaukee, 6.8; New York, 8.0: Philadelphia, 10.0.

Group two, 250,000 to 500,000—Providence, R. I., 6.3; Dallas, Tex., 6.4; Minneapolis, Minn., 6.9.

Group three, 100,000 to 250,000—Oklahoma City, Okla., 2.4; Cambridge, Mass., 5.4; Yonkers, N. Y., 5.6.

Group four, 50,000 to 100,000—Mount Vernon, N. Y., 0.0; Binghamton, N. Y., 2.6; Manchester, N. H., 2.6.

Group five, 25,000 to 50,000—Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 0.0. Waltham, Mass., 0.0; Baton Rouge, La., 0.0.

Among other of the smaller cities with perfect records were Manitowoc, Wis., Cheyenne, Wyo., and Winona, Minn.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., continued to be the largest city in the nation with a perfect record thus far for the year.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The history classes of Kingston High School are contemplating a Junior Town Meeting similar to the "Town Meeting of the Air." Miss Quimby and Miss Tarrant, assisted by Mrs. Fister and Miss Gordon, plan to conduct this forum in A assembly on February 19. Dr. Bryon B. Williams educational advisor of "America's Town Meeting," will be the guest moderator. In order to prepare for the History Forum, try-outs will be held during January. By this method, four speakers are to be chosen. If any are rated high enough during the actual forum, they will be eligible for national try-outs on a nationwide broadcast in May. Miss Quimby has said that there will be discussion from the audience similar to the original "Town Meeting". No topic has yet been chosen.

At the last meeting of the Language Club, elections were held for this year's officers. For the office of president, Valdo Viglielmo won over George Vogel by a wide margin. In the other positions voting was close. Those elected were: Vice-President, Katherine Kramer; Secretary, Anna Jones and Treasurer, Estelle Orkoff.

The Senior Dramatic Club Christmas Play soon to be shown in both assemblies is "The Table Set for Himself," by Elene Wilbur. In accordance with their plan to make their club useful to the war effect, the Senior Dramatic Club appointed a committee to read and discuss various patriotic plays. The committee met on Thursday, November 19, during second lunch period. Those present were William Fitzgerald, Gloria Jaffer, Janice Reben and Thatcher Wood. Among the plays read and discussed were: "Chinese Incident," by Pearl S. Buck, "Conversation with Crockett," by Carl Cramer, and "They Burned the Books," by Stephen Vincent Benet. No play has been decided upon. The committee discussed the possibility of an original play, written by one of the Dramatic Club members, and programs that could be put on in assembly.

The Michaelites have again shown their dramatic talent in their recent production "The Hero of Gizard Valley." This play is an original one by Mr. Streifer's seventh period class. The cast of characters includes: Tex Hawkins, Robert Wolfersteig; Iodine Arenis Goumas; Lulubelle, Ruth Buddenhagen; Cactus Joe, George Moxham; Uncle Clem, James Gilpatrick; Pug Nose Pete, Richard DeKay; Leon Henderson, Joseph Mills. The play was presented before a large group at M. J. M. auditorium during the Thanksgiving noon assembly.

Dame Rumor, the high school paper, is again holding an annual literary contest with Christmas gifts as prizes for the winners. All stories, essays, poems, or any humorous feature will be accepted. The contest has been extended to the Myron J. Michael School and special prizes will awarded if the entries are published. The winners will be published in the Christmas edition of Dame Rumor.

The skiing Club called its first winter meeting and began with the election of officers. President, James Clancy; Vice-President, Leland Boice; Secretary, Hilda Brown; and Treasurer, Mary Darling, were those elected.

MEXICO SPURS OUTPUT

Mexico has provided the machinery for linking all forms of production into a closer unity. At the head of the recently organized Production Coordination Council is Abelardo Rodriguez, who will coordinate, correlate, direct and give impetus to production in all essential lines. A soldier and statesman, Abelardo has gained a reputation in Mexico City as a business man who knows how to make a success of both agricultural and industrial enterprises. His assistants on the board, among them Aaron Saenz, are all practical men of experience, each an expert in his line.

Alaska Highway to Be Ready by Dec. 1

Is Being Completed Months Ahead of Schedule.

WASHINGTON.—The Alaska highway will be ready for use about December 1, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson announced and traffic is expected to move steadily over its 1,600 miles until spring thaws make it impassable.

Not only is the highway being completed months ahead of schedule, Stimson said, but instead of the contemplated rough "pioneer" road, the "Alcan highway, as it is now being constructed by the corps of engineers, is a well-graded, well-drained truck road for practically its entire length."

Stimson said that muskeg, the bog moss that was expected to give the highway an unsteady base over long stretches and provide some of the worst problems of the undertaking, had proved to be a minor consideration.

"The engineers report that the threats of muskeg proved wholly unfounded," said his announcement. "Most of it has been successfully skirted and that which was unavoidable has been overcome with corduroy roads. In one particular section of 60 miles in length, reported to consist principally of muskeg, only four miles of it were encountered."

The highway, beginning at Dawson Creek, British Columbia, runs northwest to Whitehorse, Yukon territory, and then crosses the Alaskan boundary, terminating at Fairbanks.

"It connects with the rail and highway systems of southern Canada and the United States at Dawson Creek, and not only provides a motor highway to Alaska, but serves also as a feeder route for various military airfields which previously had to depend on air transport alone for all supplies.

War Is Credited With Increase in Population

WASHINGTON. — The war was given major credit by the census bureau for a population increase of 1,327,000 in 1941, boosting the nation's estimated population to 133,965,000 on January 1.

The 1941 increase, double the average for the previous 10 years, was ascribed by the bureau largely to business prosperity as a result of war production, anticipation of being drafted, and return of Americans from other lands because of the war.

Births in 1941 increased to 2,728,000, approximately 408,000 more than the 10 year average. Deaths during the year totaled 1,442,000, about average.

The bureau said that because of a stoppage of immigration and an expected abrupt decline in the birth rate as a result of millions of men being in the armed forces there was little prospect of continued population growth at the 1941 rate.

Girl Artist Goes Into Training for Army Job

LONDON, ONT. — Recruited to meet a special need in the Canadian Women's Army corps, Ruth Keene, young London commercial artist and sportswoman, has begun her period of training here. She will finish her training at Ste Anne de Bellevue, Quebec.

Miss Keene, a daughter of Mrs. Arthur Keene of Grand avenue, is a graduate of South London collegiate and the H. B. Beal Technical school, and of the Ontario Ladies' college specializing in commercial art.

"She is a find," declared Capt. Mary Baker, CWAX staff officer. "When the call came for an artist we consulted Clare Bice, curator of the Elsie Perrin Williams Memorial Art Gallery, and on his advice got in touch with Miss Keene."

After completion of her training she will be posted to A-29 at Ipperwash for map drawing, sketching, etc.

Census Bureau Reports 18,907 Suicides in 1940

WASHINGTON.—Suicides totaled 18,907 in 1940, a rate of 14.4 for each 100,000 of population, the census bureau reported. This compared with a rate of 10.2 in 1900 and the peak of 17.4 in 1932.

The bureau offered these statistics about self-destruction:

More than three-fourths of suicides are males.

The Chinese ratio is highest of all —45.2 for each 100,000—while the Indian rate is 8.4 (refers to Chinese and Indians in America).

April has the highest suicide level, January the lowest.

Nevada has the highest rate—40.8 for each 100,000 of population, while South Carolina and Arkansas tie at the bottom with a rate of 6.3.

Harvesters Gather In Bear and Snake

ENTERPRISE, ORE. — Three members of a harvest crew jumped off their combine and ducked into an apple orchard. They met a bear coming out. Pursued by the bear, they raced back to the combine, climbed on and found the fourth crewman beating off a rattlesnake that was trying to crawl aboard. They wanted apples.

Farmers Suggest 1943 Labor Plans

Offer Improvements on '42 Food Production Systems

Continued scarcity of both year-round and seasonal workers along with climbing wage rates for farm labor, are all in the picture for farm production in 1943, reports Prof. T. N. Hurd of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Farmers of the state, consulted as to progress of farm labor programs in their communities, have made valuable suggestions for easing the situation, he says. In addition, farmer members of the advisory committee to the War Manpower Commission have made practical suggestions aimed to help farmers maintain food production:

Include farmers and farm workers who produce essential fruits and vegetables in the farm stabilization order, along with workers on dairy, poultry, and livestock farms.

Increase the 1943 quotas of new farm machines and repair parts, to enable farmers to produce more food.

Plan a program that will enable workers in non-essential jobs to return to farm work, if they are skilled in agriculture.

Provide more careful selection and supervision of inexperienced farm workers, to make their work more efficient.

Expand the farm labor camps of seasonal workers in fruit and vegetable sections of western New York and the Hudson valley.

Make early plans for the farm help needed, presented by farmers to the local office of the U. S. Employment Service, to assure a supply of seasonal as well as year-round labor at the right time.

Provide the best possible housing and farm privileges such as milk, eggs, potatoes, meat and firewood for farm workers, to increase their liking for farm life.

Use piece work payment for seasonal work, to make a fair system of payment for work actually done.

Expect more careful training of inexperienced help by the farmers themselves, to enable the new workers to get quickly into the habits and skills of productive work.

"I'm helping break a BOTTLENECK

by making my wartime trips in MID-WEEK"

A little change in your travel habits makes a big difference in wartime transportation. By taking your trips on mid-week days — Tuesdays, Wednesdays, or Thursdays—you avoid week-end crowds. And you save a seat for a fighting man or a war worker — week-ends are often the only time he can travel at all. You'll find it wise, also, to skip holiday trips.

Under present conditions you may be inconvenienced on occasion but you can make things easier and simpler if you'll get tickets and information in advance —be prompt at terminals and rest stops to save precious minutes now that wartime speed is reduced — and take along less baggage than usual. If everybody helps there'll be no "bottlenecking!"

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press

Seaman Sailor

St. Louis—Said the 20-year-old Rantoul, Ill., youth to recruiting officers:

"My name is Danton Sailor and I was born on October 27. I think I have something in common with the Navy. I want to enlist."

The officers agreed and swore Sailor in as a naval aviation cadet.

'Gator Agonies

Chicago—Mrs. Paul Semrad noticed that the woman sitting next to her on the bus had a box in her lap from which low moans issued.

When the seatmate noticed Mrs. Semrad's shudders, she reassured her: "Don't worry, it's just my alligator, he lives a very quet life at home, and I think this bumpy ride displeases him. Or he may have gas on his stomach."

Dividend

Whitehorse, Yukon Territory—An emergency roadside airplane landing strip—on of many along the new Alaskan highway—already saved the life of one soldier.

Sgt. James West (address unavailable) was near death from a ruptured appendix. A wire to northwest service command base hospital brought Capt. William T. Joyce of Scranton, Pa., and Lt. Eugene Moskowitz of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., by plane.

They made a slippery landing and, with a 10 below blizzard whirling outside, successfully operated in an improvised room in the barracks.

More Women Than Men Added to Factory Pay Rolls

Albany, Nov. 30—The percentage of factory jobs in New York state held by women has increased since Pearl Harbor, says Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller. A study of factory employment by sex made by Dr. E. B. Patton, director of Division of Statistics and Information in the Department of Labor, indicates that approximately three times as many women as men were added to factory payrolls in the nine months between January 15 and October 15, 1942. In January 27.8 per cent of all factory jobs were held by women. By October this percentage had increased to 31.9.

A shift from men to women workers has occurred in nearly all manufacturing industries. The most notable increase in employment of women has taken place in the war industries where the need for additional workers has been greatest. The metals group, which added 22 per cent to the total number of employes during the nine months' period, accomplished this result by adding 123 per cent more women and only 13 per cent more men. Women held only 8.6 per cent of all factory jobs in those industries in January. By October this percentage had increased to 35.6. Similar changes have taken place in miscellaneous manufacturing industries. The professional and scientific instruments, photographic and optical goods industries which are included in this group hold important government contracts. These industries added 16 per cent more men and 76 per cent more women between January and October, increasing the percentage of jobs held by women from 19.7 to 27.1. Most other industries in the miscellaneous group were reducing total employment but in nearly all of them the percentage of jobs held by women was greater at the end of the period than at the beginning.

The food and tobacco group employed 18 per cent more people in October than in January, nine per cent more men and 41 per cent more women. Part of the increase in total employment undoubtedly was due to seasonal factors but the fact that the percentage of jobs held by women increased in all of the individual industries in the group except the beverage industries suggests that the shift from men to women employes was independent of seasonal movements.

The apparel industries normally employ both the largest number and the highest percentage of women workers. The per cent of all jobs in these industries held by women was 61.1 in January and 61.5 in October. This is a smaller increase in the proportion of women than in any other major industrial group. In most industries in the group, the percentage of all jobs held by women varied only a little during the nine-month period but, by October, the percentage of women employed had increased somewhat above the January figure in practically all branches.

RAILWAYS LACK FUEL

Uruguay's railways have been further cramped in their operations by a reduction in the amount of liquid fuel alloted them by the Montevideo authorities. Central Uruguay Railway, the country's longest, is allowed 30,800 tons of petroleum monthly compared with former allotments of 4,400 tons. The road is trying to establish a freight priority system.

HOT WATER RATIONED

Voluntary rationing of hot water is part of the British program to conserve fuel. Householders were recently requested by the authorities in London to use hot water boilers not more than two days each week and to effect other fuel economies.

Dr. Reinhold Schairer, who filled the post as director of the Deutsche Studentenwerk in Republican Germany, is anxious to ascertain whether there are any ex-members of this organization in the Kingston area. If so, he would like to greet them after his lecture at the High School Auditorium tomorrow night.

The Deutsche Studentenwerk represented a tremendous effort to democratize post-war Germany in 1918, and it stood an excellent chance to accomplish just that until it was recognized as a bar to complete dictatorship by Hitler who finally absorbed it into the Nazi pattern and changed its whole purpose. This organization brought more than 30,000 highly gifted and worthy students to German universities by granting scholarships and loans to those of races and social classes who would ordinarily be deprived of a higher education. That the hopes and aspirations of the organization were fully justified is proven by the fact that graduates are now prominent in many countries and are members of movements designed to rehabilitate Germany after the war by bringing to the forefront those Germans who have been repressed by Nazilism. To head this movement, Dr. Schairer refused to act as personal secretary to the German foreign minister at the Versailles Peace Conference, in the belief that education to prevent future wars, commenced at once, was more important than settling World War I.

It is hoped that Dr. Schairer will touch upon some of these highlights of the career in his radio interview over the local radio station, at 6:15 tomorrow night, prior to his lecture. The mystery and hell of Hitlerism cannot be covered in a short 15 minutes over the radio; consequently that subject, "Know Your Enemy," will be reserved entirely for the lecture at the high school at 8:15.

Dr. Schairer's appearance is sponsored by the Kingston Kiwanis Club as a benefit for the Citizens' Committee, the Red Cross Kit Bag Fund, and the U.S.O., and all funds realized will be divided among those organizations.

Every $3 you save now in War Bonds will give you $4 to spend later.

SMOKING LESS OR SMOKING MORE?*

*GOVERNMENT FIGURES SHOW ALL-TIME PEAK IN SMOKING TODAY!

YOU'RE SAFER SMOKING PHILIP MORRIS!

Scientifically proved less irritating for the nose and throat

This tells you about people who changed to PHILIP MORRIS cigarettes. People like you.

Doctors tell it—in medical journals, reporting their findings that:

WHEN SMOKERS CHANGED TO PHILIP MORRIS, EVERY CASE OF IRRITATION OF THE NOSE OR THROAT, DUE TO SMOKING, CLEARED UP COMPLETELY—OR DEFINITELY IMPROVED!

That says—and proves—PHILIP MORRIS are far less irritating to the nose and throat.

It does not claim any curative powers for PHILIP MORRIS. But—it certainly proves they're better for you! to smoke.

In addition to which . . . you'll like them more! Today try a pack!

XMAS CARDS MADE OVER

Andrew Davison, of Morpetch, England, a disabled ex-soldier, bed-ridden since 1917, is now busy in his unique industry. From used Christmas cards and old calendars which otherwise would be thrown away, he makes "equal to new" Christmas cards and calendars. A South African woman recently sent him her last year's cards and Davison penned a letter of grateful thanks.

Druggist—Here you are, Sonny. That'll be 90 cents for the diapers and three cents for the tax.

Little Boy—Never mind tacks. My mother uses safety pins.

The worst thing about winter nights is if your feet finally do get warm, you've overslept.

They had been married just six months:

Wife (murmuring) — Jack, I hardly know how to tell you, but soon, there will be a third member of our cozy little household.

Jack (exclaiming)—My darling! Are you sure?

Wife—Of course I'm sure. I had a letter from Mother this afternoon and she will arrive next Monday.

A local wife says she could turn her husband in as scrap, as that is about the only thing she knows he is good for.

Friend—How did you find the weather while you were away?

Woman—Just went outside and there it was.

When Johnny was little he loved soldiers and Mary loved painted dolls . . . Now they have grown up . . . Mary loves soldiers and Johnny loves painted dolls.

Teacher (calling suddenly upon Junior)—What's the shape of the earth?

Junior—Round.

Teacher—How do you know it's round?

Junior—All right, it's square then. I don't want to start any argument about it.

Don't let us get the idea that we are bound to win this war. We can lose it and will lose it unless we put everything, including ourselves into it.

Bank Depositor (when the teller found a counterfeit bill in his deposit)—You mean to tell me this bill is worthless?

Teller—Well, it's worthless now, but it was worth $10,000 to the fellow who stung you with it.

A government taking revenue from liquor, is living on the downfall of the people who are using liquor. Think this statement over.

Reporter (interviewing grandfather of a Hollywood star)—Does Bill ever come back to the old farm since he's such a big shot in the movies?

Grandfather—Every one of the five summers he's been away.

Reporter—And did he bring his wife with him?

Grandfather—Every time; and they was five as purty girls as you ever laid eyes on.

Make all the wise cracks you will about the radio, but it certainly has brought relief to the man who used to depend on his own family for songs, recitations and rumors.

Over 7,000 Nurses Aides Instructed Under Red Cross

More than 7,000 nurses aides have been trained under the auspices of the American Red Cross in 159 hospitals of New York State since June 1, 1941, it was revealed today by Miss Margaret G. Arnstein, State Nursing Officer in a report made to Major John J. Bourke, Deputy State Chief of Emergency Medical Services for the Health Preparedness Commission of the State War Council.

Need for an ever increasing number of nurses aides to help care for the civilian population and a broader field for their activities was noted.

"The exact number of volunteers who have taken the Red Cross Nurses Aide course," Miss Arnstein said, "is 6,801 up to Nov. 1, 1942 but hundreds of additional women are completing their training every month. Of the 200 hospitals on the approved list of the American College of Surgeons, 159 are training nurses aides.

"Of the remaining 407 hospitals in the State, 15 have been approved by the Red Cross and are now conducting courses, while 22 have been evaluated and judged not suitable either because they are too small or no instructors or supervisors are available. Decisions on 34 hospitals are still pending. The rest of the institutions are military, mental, and T.B. hospitals, also private sanitariums, which have not even come up for consideration.

"With more and more registered nurses entering the armed services and industry," Miss Arnstein said in commenting on the role of nurses aides in the present health program, "hospitals will be needing an ever increasing number of aides to assist the trained nurses on their staff. In some areas where hospitals can spare them, nurses aides are assisting public health nurses in home nursing and in clinics.

"Their services in this capacity are particularly needed in defense areas where hospitals are overcrowded and people must be cared for at home when their condition permits. Nurses aides are playing a vital part in our health program and they are our only solution to the shortage of trained nurses."

ANNOUNCEMENT IN ONE WORD

How is a girl who is too busy to write more than a word to each friend, to let more than fifty of them know about her engagement? This is the question put to me by one who tells me "I know engraved engagement announcements are tabu; in fact, I don't like the idea any better than you do, but I really haven't time to write more than one word. Would not announcement greeting cards be all right? Mother will address the envelopes and I could sign our two names.

To this I might suggest that you perhaps just send unmounted snapshots of him and you, and write the caption "Engaged!" under them. I am not offering this as a correct etiquette answer, but as a willing-to-cooperate-the-best-I-can answer and to achieve an announcement quite literally, in one word.

One Wine Throughout Dinner

Dear Mrs. Post: Should red or white wine be served with chicken? There can be only one kind served throughout the dinner and the occasion is a family anniversary party.

Answer: White wine is correct. But there would be no objection to red if you think most of the family prefer it.

Don't Stand on Turns When Writing to Service Men

Dear Mrs. Post: A man in our office went to training camp. I knew him quite a long time but never saw him outside of business and therefore we have always called each other "Mr. and Miss." Before he left he asked me to write him news of the office and town, and I promised I would. I did and he answered and then I wrote a second time; this time beginning my letter "Dear John" and ending it simply "Mary." He hasn't answered for weeks, and I'm getting the uncomfortable feeling that perhaps he resented my being informal. What shall I do?

Answer: If I were you I should write again as soon as I had more news of the office and town to tell him. Begin your letter "Dear John" but don't sign it "Mary" which expects him to know which Mary you might be and is therefore assuming a very intimate friendship. In other words, the signature of a first name alone is a very long step from "Mr. and Miss." And although it is possible that he is a little scared, it will do no harm to send him a quite impersonal letter of office news. Begin it "Dear John" and sign it "Mary Parkman Jones" and maybe your timid young man (if he was timid?) will feel reassured.

Are you trying to make plans to be married to a man in the service?

If you are, you'll be glad to know that you can get a reprint of Mrs. Post's recent article "Furlough Wedding Details" if you send your request with a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Post in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Stretching Lamb

A pound of the economy cut breast of lamb will serve 4 or 5 when extended by a savory sauce and placed in a rice ring.

Dinner Menu

Curry of Lamb in Rice Ring
Buttered Cabbage
(An abundant, thrifty food)
Enriched Bread Plum Jam
Pear Salad with Nuts
Cocoa or Milk

Curry of Lamb

4 tablespoons fat
¼ cup chopped onions
½ cup diced celery
2/3 teaspoon curry powder
1 pound breast of veal, boned and cubed
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup lamb stock or bouillon
1½ cups milk
2/2 teaspoon salt
2/3 teaspoon paprika

Heat fat in frying pan, add onions, celery and curry powder and simmer 5 minutes. Add veal and cook until browned on all sides. Stir in flour. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until brown. Add rest of ingredients and simmer 20 minutes. Serve in rice ring.

Rice Ring

1 cup rice (white or brown)
6 cups water, boiling
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter

Add rice slowly to water and salt. Boil gently 20 minutes. Stir several times with two forks. Rinse with hot water and add butter. Pack lightly in buttered ring mold. Set in shallow pan half filled with boiling water and simmer 10 minutes. Carefully unmold onto heated platter.

Pear Salad

4 halves pears, cubed
2/3 cup diced celery
1/3 cup raisins
1/3 cup French dressing

Mix and chill ingredients and pass in bowl lined with shredded lettuce.

COCKFIGHTS HALT WORK

Factory welfare workers in Britain have asked the authorities to take drastic action against cockfights, which are blamed for absenteeism among workmen and much gambling. Airplanes were used to spot the fights, but the plan fizzled. Most of the "mains" took ploce in isolated barns, garages, machine-shops, or even in homes of sporting patrons. Decoys throw the police off the scent. The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in London offered $400 for information leading to the arrest of cockfight organizers.

O.W.I. Puts Rumors Into Five Classes

Davis' Department Studies More Than 4,500 Rumors

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Office of War Information called on every American today to help win the war "by toughening his mind and ears" to sensational rumors.

"Every American," O. W. I. said, "can help to win this war by refusing to believe or repeat sensational stories which are not carried by the newspapers or over the radio. Every American can fight the enemy by refusing to spread suspicion and hate in the United States."

O. W. I., reporting it had analyzed more than 4,500 rumors which came to the attention of various federal agencies in the last 11 months, said they fell into these five general classes:

"Hate rumors," expressing "prejudice, animosity, or hostility for groups other than the enemy."

"Anxiety rumors," reflecting uneasiness or fear which commonly take the form of unfounded reports of Allied disaster or weakness, or of overwhelming enemy strength.

"Escape rumors," reflecting, in the main, wishful thinking about the progress and duration of the war.

"Supernatural rumors," containing fantastic prophecies of disaster or impending miracles.

"Curiosity rumors," which contain amusing or novel tidbits of supposed "news."

Here are the rules O. W. I. suggests:

Never repeat a rumor.

Do not repeat a rumor verbally even to deny it.

If you know the facts which can spike a rumor, cite the facts promptly.

If you don't know the facts which can stop a rumor, ask the rumor-teller where he got his facts.

Don't give a rumor the benefit of any doubt.

"The press and radio are fighting rumors—not by the endless denying of each rumor, but by blanketing the rumors with authoritative information," O. W. I. said.

More Women Now Are Employed in State War Plants

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—Three times more women than men have been added to New York factory pay rolls since industries boomed into full war production, the state labor department reported today.

In January, department figures showed, women held 27.8 per cent of all factory jobs. By the middle of last month, this had increased to 31.9 per cent.

The increase was greatest in metal industries, whose combined payrolls were swelled 22 per cent in nine months by adding 123 per cent more women and only 13 per cent more men. Women held 8.6 per cent of the jobs in this group in January, but by October had 15.6 per cent.

The professional and scientific instruments, photographic equipment and optical goods industries, which hold important government war contracts, increased their staff of women 76 per cent and men 16 per cent during the same period.

This trend held good, the labor department added, even in industries where working forces were being reduced. In all groups, there were more women employed in October than there had been in January.

One industry, textile mill products, showed a decrease in the number of women working—a decrease of 1.9 per cent, compared with a decrease of 13.6 per cent of the number of men employed. In smaller October mill forces, 50 per cent of the workers were women, compared with 46.9 per cent nine months before.

WOMEN ARE FIREFIGHTERS

Women fire fighters have completed their training in Dublin, Eire, and are ready to take their places alongside of men in the Auxiliary Fire Service for any emergency. The first women firefighters of Eire, a class of 128 members, will handle clerical and telephone work in event of a disaster.

Every American woman at war should be equipped with a War Bond hope chest.

Lake Katrine Barn Destroyed Saturday

Fire believed to have started from spontaneous combustion in corn stalks stored in the building, completely destroyed a wagon house and farm implements barn on the Brink Brothers property at Lake Katrine Saturday afternoon. The flames were first observed near where corn had been stored but swept through the building making it almost impossible to save the contents.

The barn was about 25 by 60 feet in size and partly of two story construction with wagon sheds on the ground floor. A considerable amount of farm machinery and wagons burned.

The fire was discovered about 2 o'clock and word was sent to Kingston for aid. Excelsiors were sent to the scene and put a stream on the building but the flames had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the structure and it was burned to the ground. However, water supplied by wells was used to good advantage in operating the booster pump on the apparatus and the adjoining large barns were saved. The fire was so hot at one time that the siding of the adjacent barns and silo were scorched and the paint burned away. The house was not in danger. Shortly after the Kingston apparatus arrived the Glasco department also responded and pumping water from a cistern at the house aided in protecting the surrounding property. The fire apparatus remained at the scene until about 5 o'clock and until danger of the flames spreading had passed.

No estimate of the loss was available. There was some insurance.

Christmas Seal Film Is Shown

Jean Dickenson Sings With Church Choristers

Beginning yesterday the Kingston and Broadway theatres, in conjunction with the annual Christmas Seal Sale of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association, are showing a special Christmas movie short, "Silent Night, Holy Night," featuring Jean Dickenson, Metropolitan Opera, radio and concert star, and the famous Paulist Choristers, Edward Kennedy, manager of the theatres, said today. The film will be shown through December 7. Mr. Kennedy told the story of the unusual filming of the movie. Miss Dickenson and the choristers, representing the music world and the church, made the film as their contribution to the anti-tuberculosis campaign. The movie was taken in the Old Church of Saint Paul the Apostle, New York, one of the city's great landmarks, both historically and architecturally. In recognition of the worthiness of the cause, for the first time, in its long history, the old church was turned into a movie setting. For a few hours one day, all outside doors were locked, movie apparatus, sound recording machines, microphones were set up and went into action. Klieg lights blazed in the dim interior of the church, and the movie director and crew moved about quietly, giving orders in lowered voices.

Miss Dickenson, still in her twenties, has lived all over the world, but calls Denver, Colo., her home town. Born in Montreal, Canada, she spent most of her childhood in India and South Africa, returning to New York for her grammar school years. She attended school in San Francisco and music school in Denver. For the last four years she has been featured in the radio program, "American Album of Familiar Music." She made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company in 1940 as Philine in "Mignon."

The Paulist choir, one of the oldest in the country, outdates the National Tuberculosis Association by one year, Mr. Kennedy pointed out. The choir was founded in 1903 and the association the following year. About 50 boys and young men make up the choir. Founded in Chicago, it moved to New York after World War I, following an extended tour of the United States for the benefit of the French War Relief. Members are mainly from Metropolitan New York and there is a long waiting list for places in the choir.

Mexico is greatly increasing copper shipments to the United States.

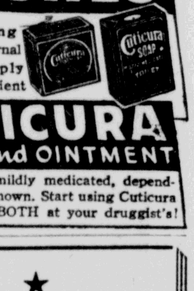

10 Men Are Killed

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 30 (AP)—Ten men were killed today in the crash of an Army plane a half mile southwest of the Sioux City air base, the post public relations office announced. Capt. Fred Shick, post public relations officer, said all 10 men were dead when help reached the plane, which he said was on a routine flight. The crash occurred about 2:15 a. m. A guard was placed around the area immediately and no civilians were permitted near the craft. Capt. Shick said the names and ranks of those killed in the crash would not be released until their next of kin had been notified.

GIRL LOST 50 YEARS

Search for a girl lost nearly 50 years ago has been given new impetus by R. W. Bromdrigg of Gwelo, Southern Rhodesia. The girl's parents became separated from her when the Matabele rebellion broke out while they were on a trek from Pietersburg to Bulawayo. Bromdrigg was the stage coach agent at Rhodes Drift from 1895 to late in 1896.

FIRST at the SECOND FRONT

LIKE the U. S. troops now in action, The Associated Press was thoroughly prepared for the Second Front in Africa—from AP headquarters in New York to the shores of Tripoli.
The Associated Press first laid plans and assigned men to key points months ago. Joseph Morton went to West Africa. Thoburn Wiant, Paul K. Lee and Don Whitehead flew to Egypt to join Edward Kennedy, Harry Crockett and Frank L. Martin, Jr.
When the invasion forces moved in on North Africa, six more AP men were along. J. Wes Gallagher, Russell C. Landstrom, William B. King and Noland Norgaard went from London. And with the U. S. forces which started from this side of the Atlantic were Harold V. Boyle and John A. Moroso III.
Thus AP newspapers could depend on a big staff for a big job—a big job well done!

SHORTAGE SENSE

Rubber Czar Jeffers is both right and wrong when he says rubber wears out as fast in Oklahoma as in Massachusetts. In fact, it's apt to wear out faster, if there is no bar to driving, because people drive more miles in the sparsely settled west than they do in the close-packed east. But by the same token, gas may be needed more in the west, much of which has been built on a plan which can hardly function without automobile transportation, than in the east where distances are short and there are many other ways of getting people and goods about.

Underneath these considerations lies the question—what are we saving gas for? Why save rubber; Fuel oil? Why can't we have more sugar?

We are doing without to win the war, measuring gas, sugar, meat, wool, steel, coffee and warmth with freedom. Put liberty on one side of the balance and all these commodities—and many more—on the other, and liberty still weighs heavier.

Another point is that the shortages are to be temporary. The purpose of them is permanent—the maintenance of freedom. Shortages will give way to abundance, once freedom is made secure.

Suppose the temporary czars are tough. The tougher they are, the shorter they need reign. Let them be tough. Americans can take it.

GET KNOWLEDGE

Views may vary on educational procedure in these changing times, but about the main thing there is no question. Young people, within the limits of patriotic duty, should take all the learning they can get, whether in high school, college or technical school. Especially, perhaps, in the last of these. The nation is going to need far more trained people in the field of practical technology for a long time to come.

The doubling up of selected youths to combine their last year of high school and first year in college, as recommended by the national Educational Policies Commission, seems desirable. This is not really skipping a year, but saving time by working much harder than students usually do, so that there may not be much important work lost from the courses. It is likely to be rather tough on the students, and they must take care to preserve their health; but the work will probably be no more onerous there than in the training camps.

These are days of high pressure, not only for the fighting forces but for technical people of all kinds, and indeed for almost everybody else. They are also inspiring times, in which people of all ages rise easily to the tasks assigned them.

CITY INCOME TAX

More trouble is looming up for the unfortunate taxpayer. The federal income tax is bad enough, as everybody knows, and going to be worse. A number of states, including New York, also tax incomes. Now the cities are getting the idea, and Philadelphia has actually started. Since 1940 she has had a tax of 1.5 per cent on earned incomes. In the past fiscal year this yielded over $21,000,000, or more than $10 apiece for every man, woman and child in the city.

A striking feature is that the tax applies to all wage earners, business and professional men who work in Philadelphia, whether they live there or not. This will appeal to many cities that think non-residents dwelling in the adjoining suburbs get all the good out of the city government without contributing anything to it. Annexation is out of the question, as these suburbs will never consent. Now Philadelphia has found a way to make the outsiders pay their share.

The old saying ran, "Nothing is sure but death and taxes." Evidently this should be changed to read, "death and more taxes."

BLITZKRIEG, NEW STYLE

If the blitzkrieg is patented, the Germans might well sue the British for breach of the patent. The British Eighth Army in North Africa, according to General Sir Harold Alexander, commander in the Middle East, recently covered 400 miles in a week. That is twice Rommel's speed in his successful advance of last summer.

It is good to find that the enemy's methods can be copied and improved upon. And it will do the Nazis no end of good to find themselves on the receiving end of a blitzkrieg.

BEING MEN

A soldier in the last war was asked if he was not afraid to go over the top. He said, "I am, but I'll try to be a man, and hope that the man next to me is one also."

The Russians are living up to this soldierly standard. Our ambassador to Moscow, Admiral William H. Standley, recently said, "There are deeper causes for Russia's great success than the stubborn and brave tenacity of the Red army, its proved efficiency, and willingness to die rather than retreat. There is the all-important self-sacrificing devotion by every man, woman and youth in the Soviet Union to their army and to the cause for which it fights."

Americans are proving themselves men, too.

Mother Goose's "one-a-penny, two-a-penny hot cross buns" were nothing compared with modern ice cream cones. But the cones cost a nickel and will be getting smaller.

As for our generals and admirals on the job now, we'll match 'em against any gold-braided outfit in history.

Isn't it grand to see Stalin giving Hitler the bum's rush?

EFFECTS OF FOOD

Wives and mothers have known for many years that if they want to talk about a new dress, some painting or decorating for the house, or anything else in which the opinion and help of husband or father is needed, the matter should not be discussed while he is hungry. It was no news to them, therefore, when some research workers a couple of years ago showed that hunger so affected the nervous system that the individual would not be his or her real self and would do or say things which he would not remember shortly after the eating of a meal.

That plenty of the proper foods would increase the size, health and life span of small animals was shown about five years ago. Research workers on nutrition kept a colony of albino rats on a standard ration of food for about 27 generations. The rats thrived, had large families, and lived the usual life span. However, by adding certain foods containing minerals and vitamins to this standard ration, the rats improved in size, in the bearing of young, and in their life span.

Dr. James S. McLester, Birmingham, Alabama, chairman of the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association, states in the association journal that, despite the abundance of all kinds of food, there are many individuals who do not eat enough or their body processes do not handle properly various food stuffs, with the result that they are not what they should be physically, mentally, and emotionally. These individuals have no outstanding symptoms such as bleeding gums found with scurvy, neuritis pains of beri-beri, or the skin eruption of pellagra. They have, however, mental depression, nervous instability, and other vague forms of ill health such as fatigue and irritability.

"After watching these patients, one is impressed by the truth of the statement that no greater catastrophe comes to man than the loss of efficiency, the lack of initiative, and the mental depression that comes from failure to obtain proper nutrition."

How can we be sure that we are getting enough of the protective foods that will keep us well physically, mentally and emotionally?

We must continue to eat plenty of meat, eggs, fish, bread and potatoes—foundation foods, and then make sure of eating some every day of the protective foods, that is dairy products, fruits and green vegetables.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

One of the best known firemen in Kingston in the days of the Gay Nineties was Charles L. Quackenbush, who had served as chief of the city's fire department in the days before the paid fire department was created. I ran across an old clipping the other day which told of Chief Quackenbush's death on May 4, 1918, in his home in Watervliet.

Turning from firemanic to musical affairs many readers will recall Ford Hummel and his talented sons, Earle, violinist, and Stanley Hummel, pianist. The boys were in popular demand for musical events in Kingston in the 1920's. In later years they removed to Albany.

I recall that in May, 1928, the two youths gave a delightful concert in Kingston, which was attended by many music lovers of the city, who watched the musical development of the two boys who had mastered the violin and piano at a very early age. The father, Ford Hummel, was also a very talented musician, and active in musical circles in the city for a number of years.

One of the best known dentists in Kingston in the years at the turn of the century was Dr. Cornelius H. Bishop, who made his home in Sleightsburgh, but for years had his dental offices on the second floor of the Pythian Hall building on Broadway, at Thomas street. He died on May 1, 1928.

Dr. Bishop was very active in musical circles in Kingston, and was one of the charter members of the Mendelssohn Club of this city. For years he led the singing in the Sunday school of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, and took an active part in many musical events held not only in that church but in other churches throughout the city.

I recall that on May 2, 1928, a group of young people of the Rondout Presbyterian Church presented the comedy "Polly Wants a Cracker" in the chapel of the church with great success.

Included in the cast were Fred L. Van Deusen, Tom Rowland, Arthur Scott, Lillian Schutt, Kathleen Meeker, Helen Beeres and Ethel Skelton.

One of the most active men in Masonic circles in Kingston is Samuel S. Brown, senior member of the plumbing firm of Brown & Dressel. I recall that on May 3, 1918, he was elected president of the Kingston Shriner's Association.

Mr. Brown was also active in civic affairs and has served as a member of the Board of Health.

Lack of doctors since so many have been called to military service is held responsible for the increase in the number of deaths in many districts of England.

HIGHLAND

Highland, Nov. 30—Mr. and Mrs. August Gersch were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Bloomer for Thanksgiving, together with Mrs. Bloomer's parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. John Gaspary and son John of Glenham, Edward Harrington and Miss Agnes Capers.

The meeting of Chapter A.,P.E.O. Sisterhood will be held Thursday, December 3, at the home of Mrs. Howard Barton in Milton. Mrs. Irving Rathgeb will be assisting hostess. Mrs. Barton will conclude her program on Canada begun at the previous meeting.

Dr. and Mrs. Chauncey Ayres left Wednesday to visit his sister near Boston. They will remain over Sunday.

The Highland Council of Church Women, in behalf of the War Relief committee, wishes to thank the Wilcox store for the use of their show window to display the results of their salvage sewing. Mr. Wilcox gave the window space for three days last week. Great interest was shown in the garments, mittens, little dresses and quilts, as many people had not realized what could be done with worn materials. The committee was gratified by the interest of the townspeople and feels sure there will be added response in sewing, sorting and obtaining material. Mrs. Fred Sneider and Mrs. John Graham were in charge of headquarters Wednesday afternoon.

The honor roll issued from the school for the past five weeks contained the following names and marks: Louis Canino, 85; Evelyn Cappillano, 85; Russell Carpenter, 87; Hertha Dapp, 89; Fred Dates, 86; Doris DuBois, 89; Jean DuBois, 86; Arlene Fledt, 85; Jules Friedman, 87; William Maynard, 88; Virginia Relyea, 86; Harry Rosenkranse, 87; June Schantz, 88; Shirley Walters, 88; Selwyn Moshier, 92; Vivian Nielson, 92; Nancy Rathgeb, 90.

Conditions Among Nation's Colleges Seem to Be in Confusion in Place of Necessary Order

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 30 — The American educational system at the college level stands in peril today. For several weeks educators have struggled with the military mind in Washington just as businessmen have struggled and the net result is confusion where there should be order, conflict where there should be harmony and disservice to the war effort where there should be planning and vision.

The problem has not reached the surface of public discussion for presidents have felt the sting of criticism that educational institutions were alleged havens for draft dodgers and it has been duly asserted by army men that the public wouldn't stand for any discrimination in favor of college students because their economic situation is supposedly better than other 18 to 20-year-olds. The army men forget the hundreds of thousands of boys in state universities who come from families in the lower income groups.

So the executives of collegiate institutions muzzled themselves and because they have involuntarily accepted the hush-hush policy, a surgical operation is about to be performed on the American colleges which not merely may set American education back a decade or more but may fail to give the United States army the kind of intelligent officer personnel which a large military establishment really needs.

The United States navy, on the other hand seems to have handled its educational relationships not only more sensibly than the army for the present war but with an eye to the large personnel of officers who will be needed for the post-war period. The navy isn't trying to set up a system of new educational institutions designed for military use but is ready to let the educational institutions adapt themselves to the educational requirements known to be useful in the making of officers.

The army's difficulty springs from some queer idea, born only in a military mind, that the thing to do with all students is to withdraw them from their courses of study, give them three months' basic training and then send a selected group back to college. This means that pre-medical and engineering students, for example, and others in the sciences would have their work interrupted while the army got them all mixed up in regiments after which they would have to go back and try to make up for lost time. Pre-medical students don't need military training, nor do some of the other scientific classes. Expert educators say this is one of the most fantastic schemes ever suggested and can mean only that the army officers who have been urging it just don't know the first principles of continuity of study or education.

Then there is the question of teaching. The army is clamoring for professors to teach in certain special schools the very subjects in which the colleges could better prepare the young men before they ever go to camp. The college presidents realize that college-as-usual is out for the duration of the war but they see no reason why the system cannot be utilized so that the selection is done by the army and navy on the campus. Then officer material could be determined on the spot and arrangements made for uninterrupted study. It is estimated that the colleges can give a student in two full calendar years now almost as much as they used to give in three years. The colleges, of course, would begin at the earliest age practicable to give courses in line with military and naval requirements.

One of the tragic aspects of the muddle that is rapidly developing over the whole problem of how to handle the student question is the expressed view of certain high officials that college men make no better officers than any other young men. General MacArthur when chief of staff of the U. S. Army didn't think so; in fact, he tried to revise the curriculum at West Point so as to produce not so many of the technically or rigidly trained type. He urged that resourceful and broad-gauged individuals be developed who could adjust themselves quickly to any emergency. The impatience of the civilian sometimes with the West Pointer is that he appears narrow-minded and seems to stress only one thing—military science or drill.

It had been thought that in this war with the background of higher education would play a greater part in mobilizing the big army we need but evidently the military mind learns its lessons only by surveying its own wreckage. Unless public opinion steps in that's what's going to be the net result—with neither the army getting the right kind of officer material nor the educational system retaining even a good nucleus of organization for usefulness after the war.

"Behind Both Lines," by Harold Denny.

Harold Denny is the only American newspaperman who has been in Berlin since America assumed her share of the war, and has returned to report what he saw. Mr. Denny did not go voluntarily.

Once during Germany's campaign against France Mr. Denny was chased by General Rommel, and outran him. A year ago this month the general won. But Denny was an Italian prisoner technically, and after being dragged despondently about Northern Africa for a spell, he and some others were put on a cruiser which took out at full speed for Italy. The captain was afraid of the British Navy.

Then in Italy, the master race put in a bid for Mr. Denny, and naturally Mussolini's Roman legions yielded him up. They dared not refuse. So the New York Times' crack correspondent was entrained for Berlin and a pleasant-enough cell in the basement of Prinz Albrechtstrasse 8, which is the Gestapo's national headquarters. This jail is considered a show place, and only the upper crust of prisoner has the privilege of living there.

The Gestapo wanted something from Denny, but Denny never quite discovered what it was. He parried their questions, withstood his solitary confinement, stuck manfully to his major thesis, which was that he was an American newspaperman on a proper and accredited mission in Africa, and that he had been captured before America's entry into the war and therefore was technically an interned neutral. Amazingly, he was tossed back to Italy, and there sent to a comparative pleasant camp for two months or more. Later he was repatriated.

Mr. Denny had no picnic in Berlin, and was not impressed with Berlin's food. Nor Munich's. But he was not mistreated. His treatment in Italy was good, although until the Red Cross caught up with him, the food was pretty short. Everybody was on short rations, blackshirts to bootblacks. But Mr. Denny learned some things of value, although his experience was not especially thrilling in a world of major thrills. He believes Italy, once rid of Mussolini and his boys, can be saved. He believes Germany's war is merely one stage of an age-old national vandalism; that she must be crushed.

Spain's new shoes for the working classes will be priced from $1.63 a pair for children's footwear to $3.83 for adults, while the middle classes must pay $5.93 to $9.13.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

(First of two articles on enemy propaganda in the U. S.)

Washington—There are several wartime agencies in the government whose duty it is to worry about Axis propaganda in this country. Oddly, United Nations successes in Africa and the Pacific have brought greater worries than since the war started.

In recent weeks Berlin and Rome short wave broadcasts have quadrupled their efforts to make Great Britain and the United States in particular and all the other United Nations in general suspicious of each other. This has happened almost simultaneously with United Nations successes on the Russian, African and Pacific fronts and apparently a reaction in many quarters is that it will be all right now to relax for a while.

I might add that although it is not correspondingly as important, many Washington commentators—your own included—have received a number of letters recently saying that the last election should be "a warning to warmongers in the capital that this country doesn't want any part of these foreign wars."

The unfortunate part of this is, according to government specialists here, that it has come just at the moment when there has been some unfortunate division in the United Nations over certain manipulations, public relations, and future aims.

I think perhaps it is time for a little debunking.

To get rid of the chatter "that the election was a reprimand to 'warmongers'," run over the complete list of the men elected. If there was one elected on anything but a "win the war first" platform, Washington hasn't heard of him.

Then there is the story that we are losing this war in the Pacific and that the Navy hasn't been telling the truth about what is going on there.

Grant that the Navy hasn't hastened out with every item regarding some of our misfortunes; still the story is as leaky as a wire basket.

For proof, you can ignore our own communiques and go directly to the Japs. The Jap radio lies so fast that it frequently trips over its own falsehoods, but not since the fall of Burma and the Dutch East Indies have the Japs made any claims to gains of new territory and they have admitted our important recapture of portions of those vital bases in the Solomons.

SEEKS SON, MISSING AFTER NIGHT CLUB FIRE

An unidentified elderly lady, seeking her son missing since the tragic fire at Boston's Cocoanut Grove night club, stands bewildered and apart from the crowd of anxious people seeking admittance to a morgue in an effort to ascertain if friends or family members were lost in the blaze.

RESCUE WORKERS JAM NIGHT CLUB FIRE SCENE

Driver of Truck Held for Failure To Place Lights

Ralph DeBora Is Charged With Neglecting to Put Out Flare or Leave Light on Truck

A large automobile truck which ran out of gas on route 9-W near the Glenerie hill was reported parked on the highway without lights at 8:35 o'clock Sunday evening. Deputy Sheriff Leonard Bellmore was sent to investigate. He was told that a bus bound for New York had come upon the truck suddenly but had averted an accident.

The truck owned by the Carlo Transportation Company of 172 Wright street, Newark, N. J., and driven by Ralph DeBora, 39, of Newark, N. J., partially blocked the south lane and because of the icy condition created a dangerous condition.

When the deputy sheriff arrived the truck was found with no lights and the driver missing. The driver had failed to put out flares or leave lights on the vehicle while he went in search of assistance. Later after Deputy Bellmore had placed warning lights at the scene, the driver appeared with another vehicle to tow him away. DeBora at first denied he was the driver of the vehicle but later after a check had been made as to the ownership of the vehicle he admitted he was the operator and he was placed under arrest on a charge of failing to put out signal lights as prescribed by law.

Kelly Fined $50 As Drunken Driver

Was Arrested Early Sunday Morning Near Governor Clinton Hotel

Marshall J. Kelly, 29, of 402 Hasbrouck avenue was arrested at 2:55 o'clock Sunday morning on Albany avenue, near the Governor Clinton Hotel, by Officers Fallon and Harnen, who charged Kelly with operating an automobile while intoxicated.

This morning in police court Kelly pleaded guilty to the charge and Judge Matthew V. Cahill fined him $50 and revoked his driver's license.

Augustus Parker of R.F.D. No. 1, Kingston, charged with double parking of his taxi outside a line of cars parked in front of 600 Broadway, forfeited $2 cash bail when he failed to appear in court in answer to the charge. He was arrested by Officers Burger and McDonough on Saturday afternoon.

Thorbeld M. Olsen, 61, of May Park, charged with public intoxication on North Front street on Saturday night, was sentenced to three days in the county jail.

Badly Wounded Deer Lay Suffering for Week

A doe deer which apparently had lain suffering for a week or more with both front legs shattered by gunshot wounds, was found Sunday on the Harold V. Story farm at Ulster Park. The animal was found by William Clark of Port Ewen, who was hunting rabbits. He notified District Game Protector Fred DeWitt, who shot the deer and put it out of its misery and made arrangements to have it buried.

FIRE-RAVAGED ENTRANCE OF NIGHT CLUB

BACK ENTRANCE TO BOSTON NIGHT CLUB

Boston police and firemen watch over rear entrance to the "Melody Lounge" section of the Cocoanut Grove night club in Boston, swept by a disastrous fire in which more than 400 patrons lost their lives. Debris from broken chairs, tables and personal effects of some guests of the club litter the sidewalk and gutter.

Highways Covered With Ice in Many Sections of County

Highways were covered with ice in many sections of the county early today following a snowstorm late Sunday afternoon which turned later to rain. A teletype message was received at the sheriff's office at 7:55 p. m. Sunday stating that the Catskill mountain region in Greene county was covered with a five-inch blanket of snow and that the Windham and Palenville mountain roads were impassable without chains.

Later today the ice melted and the highways dried up.

The county highway department had a call from Boiceville where a tractor-trailer was unable to negotiate a hill but after the road had been sanded there was no further trouble reported. Bus and other traffic was slowed down by the highway conditions and several minor accidents were reported from various sections of the area. In town sanding operations were carried out at various points but the rain cleared up most of the ice.

Out Again, In Again Went George Slover

George Slover, 25, of Maple Hill, who this morning had completed serving a term of 75 days in the county jail on a petit larceny charge committed in New Paltz, was immediately re-arrested by the local police on a warrant charging Slover with petit larceny.

Slover was accused of being one of the men who were sought on charges of stealing articles from parked automobiles. Judge Matthew V. Cahill sentenced Slover to serve a term of 90 days in the county jail.

Night Club Fire Kills 477 Persons

that he was trying to replace an electric light bulb which had been unscrewed by a prankster in the recently opened Melody Room of the club when the match flame brushed the flimsy palm and set off the devastating blaze.

The flames swept through the highly inflammable decorations as the orchestra leader raised his baton to signal for the National Anthem as a prelude to the Saturday night floor show. Within seconds the crowded night club was a bedlam as screaming women and horror-stricken men dashed for exits, tumbling over each other on the jam-packed stairways.

District Fire Chief William J. Mahoney said that tangled and frightfully burned bodies were found four and five deep and that tables and chairs were scattered and tipped in a shambles among the dead.

As speedily as possible, physicians and specialists in the treatment of burns, mustered by the Boston committee on public safety, were mercifully ministering to the injured, using blood plasma rushed from the Red Cross in Washington and pain and poison-allaying sulfa drugs.

Long Line at Morgue

Meanwhile, long lines of relatives and friends stood two abreast outside the city's morgues throughout the cold night waiting for a chance to identify bodies, many of them charred beyond recognition.

A board of inquiry, including fire officials, U. S. Navy representatives—there were servicemen among the dead—and two representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which began its probe yesterday, reconvened today.

The death roll ranked only behind the steamship General Slocum fire of 1904 in New York's East river in which 1,021 died, Chicago's Iroquois Theatre fire of 1903, which claimed 602 lives, and the San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906 in which 500 died.

Deputy Fire Chief John F. McDonough told investigating officials that he found a number of bodies, some within ten feet of a door equipped with a panic lock designed to open under pressure, but it was out of order and had been secured by another lock.

The death of many of the victims was ascribed by Medical Examiner Timothy Leary to monoxide poisoning and smoke inhalation. He said that a number were "terribly burned" after death.

The stampede for the exits began, fire officials said, when a girl, detecting a thin wisp of smoke curling along the walls, shouted "fire," and within seconds the crowd broke for the doorways.

The wrecked stucco building resembled a huge brick oven after the flames had been extinguished, with hardly a scorched spot on the outside walls and roof, but with the interior a mass of debris.

Among notables who escaped from the inferno were Charles (Buck) Jones, Van Nuys, Calif., cowboy star of the motion pictures, who was critically burned, and Scott Dunlap, also of Van Nuys, motion picture producer, who was injured and among those hospitalized.

Other widely known persons who either perished or were injured include: Edwin Ansin, Brookline, Mass., president of the Interstate Theatre Corporation and treasurer of a Boston textile firm, dead; Robert Beverly Charles, 28, Winchester, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Charles of Oak Park, Ill., and eastern manager of a Chicago candy company, dead; Joseph A. Boratyn, star fullback of the Holy Cross football team a year ago, dead; Dr. Gordon Bennett of Swampscott, captain of the 1937 Dartmouth football team.

Helen Welch, daughter of Vincent S. Welch of Port Washington, N. Y., vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, dead; Mary Ellen McCormack, niece of U. S. Rep. John W. McCormack, dead; Grace McDermott, 200 West 54th street, New York, entertainer at the club—known under the stage name of "Vaughn," dead; Katherine Woods, 22, daughter of Carl Woods, Boston manufacturer, president of the Crosby Steam Gauge Company, dead.

Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty indicated, in an interview, that the youth who innocently started the fire should have been barred by law from working in the club.

"Isn't it against the law for a boy that age to work in a place where liquor is sold?" newsmen asked the commissioner.

"Well," he said, "you know the rules. He isn't supposed to."

"There is no doubt that the boy started the fire," Timilty added, "and there is no doubt that it was accidental."

Claflin quoted the boy as saying:

"A patron came into the place and unscrewed a bulb in the ceiling. This made the room too dark. One of the waiters came to me and asked me to screw the bulb back in.

"I stood on a chair to do it. I lighted a match and held it while I screwed the bulb in with the other hand. The match set fire to the palm tree. That is how the fire started."

A number of those who escaped leaped from the roof of the low building to the tops of automobiles and thence to the street. The clothes of some were in flames.

A night club singer, Billy Payne, saved 10 patrons by leading them into a huge basement ice box.

"I was getting ready to start the show," Payne said, "when I suddenly heard screams. I thought there was a fight. Then I saw a flame racing along the wall. . . . Everyone started running. If only others had followed me they would be alive."

A revolving door trapped a number of persons when it became jammed by a pileup of bodies, and one body was even found in a telephone booth.

The Boston Committee on Public Safety, which organized under real disaster conditions for the first time, and mortuary officials said that most of the unidentified were women whose flimsy clothing was either burned from their bodies or contained no identification papers.

Catholic priests were on the scene shortly after the fire got underway, administering the last rites of the church to victims. One priest said he administered to at least 30 persons.

William Ladd of Boston, one of the survivors, said that there was "instant panic" when the fire was discovered.

"Men and women began to scream together. It seemed that everybody wanted to get out first. . . .

"They all got to the small door on Piedmont street at about the same time and one of the women went down. Then the other men and women fell on top of her and the bodies just seemed to keep piling up."

Benedictine Auxiliary To Hold Election, Reception and Tea

The election of officers, reception and tea of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the living room of the Nurses Home. Mrs. Raymond Craft, president, will preside. Following the business meeting, there will be a musical program of vocal solos by Mrs. Ralph Halbert, accompanied by Mrs. Raoul Racette, and the Rev. Michael Curley of Port Ewen will speak on his travels and experiences.

All members and friends are invited to attend.

Hornbeck-Rell

Saugerties, Nov. 30 — Miss Doris B. F. Bell, daughter of Mrs. Helen Rell Hommel of Main street, became the bride of Warren T. Hornbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Hornbeck of East Bridge street, Thanksgiving Day, November 26, at 4 p. m. The ceremony was performed at the Methodist Church by the Rev. Thomas Falshaw. Miss Susan Falshaw was at the organ.

The bride wore an informal dress of pale blue chiffon velvet and lace with dark blue accessories and a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Helen O'Bryon, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a blue and black dress with black accessories and the maid of honor, Miss Ann Hornbeck, sister of the bride, wore a medium green dress with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of tea roses. Charles F. Rell was his brother's best man.

Auxiliary Plans for Holidays

The regular monthly meeting of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary was held Thursday afternoon, November 24, at 2:30 p. m. in the Nurses Home. The president, Mrs. Frederick Snyder, presided.

The trays for Thanksgiving were attractively decorated, the roses having been donated by A. B. Shufeldt in memory of his wife, who had undertaken this task in previous years.

A Christmas decorating committee was appointed by the president. It includes Mrs. Clarence Dumm and Mrs. E. C. Burnett.

Following adjournment, a social hour was held at which time refreshments appropriate to Thanksgiving were served by the hostesses, Miss Almena Porter and Miss Jessie P. Allan.

Miss Van DeMark Is Bride of Pvt. Feistel

Miss Leona Van DeMark, daughter of Mrs. William Van DeMark of 108 Pearl street, and the late Mr. Van DeMark, and Private M. Alton Feistel of Brooklyn, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, November 28, at 4 o'clock in the parsonage of the First Reformed Church by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool.

The bride wore a brown street-length dress with gold and matching accessories and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Her hat was ostrich trimmed. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Ernest Magnusson, who wore a gown of air force blue with hat to match and carried Talisman roses. The groom was attended by Ernest Magnusson.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the Governor Clinton Hotel for the members of the immediate families. Private and Mrs. Feistel left later for Mission, Tex., where they have an apartment in the Cordell Hotel. Mrs. Feistel, who is clerk of the city court, plans to return to Kingston and resume her duties at the city hall, January 1.

Mothers' Association Holds Card Party, Honors Are Stamps

The card party held by the Mothers' Association of the Academy of St. Ursula at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Friday evening, was a brilliant social and financial success. Several donations from friends of the academy as well as from the sales at the candy and flower booths under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Crowley and Mrs. Harold Wilson, added to the financial success of the party. There were about 52 tables in play occupying both the Crystal room and the Junior Dining room. Honors were war savings stamps in keeping with the association's war effort program.

Markle-Schryver

Mrs. Elsie V. A. Schryver of 3 Schryver Court, and Vincent C. Markle of 11 Center street, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, November 28, at the parsonage of the St. James Methodist Church. The Rev. W. Wesley Williams, pastor, officiated. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Markle will make their home at the Franklin Apartments.

Mackey-Stitzel

New Paltz, Nov. 30—Miss Helen Stitzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Stitzel of Poughkeepsie, who was graduated from Poughkeepsie High School and attended New Paltz State Teachers' College, became the bride of Morgan Mackey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Mackey of Poughkeepsie, Thursday afternoon, November 26. The ceremony was performed at 3 o'clock in the rectory of St. Mary's Church, Poughkeepsie, the Rev. Daneil I. Quinn officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a street length dress of teal blue velvet with brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Miss Ruth Wagner, who attended the bride as maid of honor, wore a light green wool dress with matching accessories and a corsage of talisman roses. Harry Greco attended Mr. Mackey as best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held for the immediate relatives and intimate friends. The couple left for a wedding trip and upon their return will reside at 24 Barclay street, Poughkeepsie.

The bridegroom attended Poughkeepsie schools and Raymond Riordan School and is an alumnus of the College of William and Mary. He was graduated from Stewart Technical Institute and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, the Gibbon's Club and the Varsity Club and is now associated with the I. B. M. Plant.

MEXICAN SINGER LAUDS U. S.

High praise for the splendid reception received "from the highest quarters in Washington to the most modest recruiting station" was expressed by Mercedes Caraza, Mexican singer, upon her return to Mexico City from a four-months' singing tour of key United States military camps. Miss Mercedes, known as "The Soprano of Mexico," gave 56 concerts on a tour which impressed her as a demonstration of the unity of the two republics. She said that it was Mexico to whom the homage was paid, as she was "just a mere interpreter."

Regents Will Be Held

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP) — Johnny and Mary will continue to take New York state's regents examinations, despite "recent suggestions" they be eliminated. Assistant Education Commissioner Edwin R. Van Kleeck said the proposal "would do more harm than good," adding schools are not required to use the tests "for pupils whose needs they do not serve." He said this has been a practice for some years. Inferring proposals for abandoning the tests were based on alleged "faults" in the examinations, Van Kleeck explained "the faults that may have been present * * * years ago have been largely eliminated. The values of these examinations have been preserved and new values added."

Cooking Vegetables To Save Vitamin C

Geneva, N. Y. — Boiling vegetables in large quantities of water results in much of the vitamin C dissolving out and being lost when the cooking water is discarded, but the heat of cooking does not ordinarily cause destruction of this vitamin, says Dr. D. K. Tressler, chemist at the State Experiment Station here. Dr. Tressler has conducted extensive studies of the effect of cooking and of various other factors on the vitamin C content of a long list of New York state vegetables, the results of which are summarized in a circular now available upon request to the station.

"Since only a few vegetables are eaten without cooking, the losses of vitamin C which may occur during cooking are a matter of great importance from a nutrition standpoint," says Dr. Tressler, who continues, "Formerly, cooking was believed to be highly destructive of this, the least stable of the vitamins. The heating of vegetables required for cooking was thought to cause the destruction of a large percentage of the vitamin C content."

"Results of numerous tests of cooking snap beans, cabbage, carrots, Swiss chard, broccoli, cauliflower, lima beans, peas, and spinach have indicated that neither boiling nor steaming causes considerable destruction of vitamin C. The actual loss of vitamin C during steaming or boiling of fresh vegetables usually is only about 10 or 15 per cent; however, it varies from a minimum of 2 per cent to a maximum of about 30 per cent."

In general, the greater the amount of cooking water used and the longer the period of boiling, the larger the proportion of vitamin C dissolved and the less retained in the drained vegetable. Steaming destroys more vitamin C than boiling, but even so steamed vegetables may contain more of this vitamin than boiled vegetables because less of the vitamin is dissolved during steaming. Preliminary tests seem to indicate that baking is more destructive of vitamin C than either steaming or boiling. According to the results of Dr. Tressler's observations, it apparently makes no difference whether the pan is kept covered during cooking, on the loss of vitamin C; nor does it matter whether the cooking utensil is of aluminum, glass or enamel.

Auto Fatalities Drop 49 Per Cent

October Shows Considerable Drop; Po'keepsie Is Cited for Safety

Chicago, Nov. 30 (AP)—A drop of 49 per cent in motor car fatalities in October compared with the same month a year ago—the greatest monthly reduction in the nation's history—was reported by the national safety council today.

Only 2,000 persons perished in motor vehicle accidents during October, representing a saving of 1,920 lives as compared with October of 1941.

For the first ten months of the year traffic deaths were estimated to be down 27 per cent from the same period a year ago—a total of 23,290 fatalities against 31,820 last year, or a saving of 8,530 lives. Since it is the intention of mileage rationing to cut travel in half the council said that on that basis motor vehicle deaths in 1942 can be expected to drop almost to two-fifths of their 1941 totals.

All of 41 states whose ten-month fatality figures are available showed a reduction in deaths from the comparable period of 1941.

Leaders among cities for low death rates computed on the basis of fatalities per 100,000 of population, were:

Group one, over 500,000 population—Milwaukee, 6.8; New York, 8.0; Philadelphia, 10.0.

Group two, 250,000 to 500,000—Providence, R. I., 6.3; Dallas, Tex., 6.4; Minneapolis, Minn., 6.9.

Group three, 100,000 to 250,000—Oklahoma City, Okla., 2.4; Cambridge, Mass., 5.4; Yonkers, N. Y., 5.6.

Group four, 50,000 to 100,000—Mount Vernon, N. Y., 0.0; Binghamton, N. Y., 2.6; Manchester, N. H., 2.6.

Group five, 25,000 to 50,000—Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 0.0. Waltham, Mass., 0.0; Baton Rouge, La., 0.0.

Among other of the smaller cities with perfect records were Manitowoc, Wis., Cheyenne, Wyo., and Winona, Minn.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The history classes of Kingston High School are contemplating a Junior Town Meeting similar to the "Town Meeting of the Air." Miss Quimby and Miss Tarrant, assisted by Mrs. Fister and Miss Gordon, plan to conduct this forum in A assembly on February 19. Dr. Bryon B. Williams educational advisor of "America's Town Meeting," will be the guest moderator. In order to prepare for the History Forum, try-outs will be held during January. By this method, four speakers are to be chosen. If any are rated high enough during the actual forum, they will be eligible for national try-outs on a nationwide broadcast in May. Miss Quimby has said that there will be discussion from the audience similar to the original "Town Meeting". No topic has yet been chosen.

At the last meeting of the Language Club, elections were held for this year's officers. For the office of president, Valdo Viglielmo won over George Vogel by a wide margin. In the other positions voting was close. Those elected were: Vice-President, Katherine Kramer; Secretary, Anna Jones and Treasurer, Estelle Orkoff.

The Senior Dramatic Club Christmas Play soon to be shown in both assemblies is "The Table Set for Himself," by Elene Wilbur. In accordance with their plan to make their club useful to the war effect, the Senior Dramatic Club appointed a committee to read and discuss various patriotic plays. The committee met on Thursday, November 19, during second lunch period. Those present were William Fitzgerald, Gloria Jaffer, Janice Reben and Thatcher Wood. Among the plays read and discussed were: "Chinese Incident," by Pearl S. Buck; "Conversation with Crockett," by Carl Cramer, and "They Burned the Books," by Stephen Vincent Benet. No play has been decided upon. The committee discussed the possibility of an original play, written by one of the Dramatic Club members, and programs that could be put on in assembly.

The Michaelites have again shown their dramatic talent in their recent production 'The Hero of Gizard Valley." This play is an original one by Mr. Streifer's seventh period class. The cast of characters includes: Tex Hawkins, Robert Wolfersteig; Iodine Arenis Goumas; Lulubelle, Ruth Buddenhagen; Cactus Joe, George Moxham; Uncle Clem, James Gilpatrick; Pug Nose Pete, Richard DeKay; Leon Henderson, Joseph Mills. The play was presented before a large group at M. J. M. auditorium during the Thanksgiving noon assembly.

Dame Rumor, the high school paper, is again holding an annual literary contest with Christmas gifts as prizes for the winners. All stories, essays, poems, or any humorous feature will be accepted. The contest has been extended to the Myron J. Michael School and special prizes will awarded if the entries are published. The winners will be published in the Christmas edition of Dame Rumor.

The skiing Club called its first winter meeting and began with the election of officers. President, James Clancy; Vice-President, Leland Boice; Secretary, Hilda Brown; and Treasurer, Mary Darling, were those elected.

MEXICO SPURS OUTPUT

Mexico has provided the machinery for linking all forms of production into a closer unity. At the head of the recently organized Production Coordination Council is Abelardo Rodriguez, who will coordinate, correlate, direct and give impetus to production in all essential lines. A soldier and statesman, Abelardo has gained a reputation in Mexico City as a business man who knows how to make a success of both agricultural and industrial enterprises. His assistants on the board, among them Aaron Saenz, are all practical men of experience, each an expert in his line.

Is Being Completed Months Ahead of Schedule.

WASHINGTON.—The Alaska highway will be ready for use about December 1, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson announced and traffic is expected to move steadily over its 1,600 miles until spring thaws make it impassable.

Not only is the highway being completed months ahead of schedule, Stimson said, but instead of the contemplated rough "pioneer" road, the "Alcan highway, as it is now being constructed by the corps of engineers, is a well-graded, well-drained truck road for practically its entire length."

Stimson said that muskeg, the bog moss that was expected to give the highway an unsteady base over long stretches and provide some of the worst problems of the undertaking, had proved to be a minor consideration.

"The engineers report that the threats of muskeg proved wholly unfounded," said his announcement. "Most of it has been successfully skirted and that which was unavoidable has been overcome with corduroy roads. In one particular section of 60 miles in length, reported to consist principally of muskeg, only four miles of it were encountered."

The highway, beginning at Dawson Creek, British Columbia, runs northwest to Whitehorse, Yukon territory, and then crosses the Alaskan boundary, terminating at Fairbanks.

"It connects with the rail and highway systems of southern Canada and the United States at Dawson Creek, and not only provides a motor highway to Alaska, but serves also as a feeder route for various military airfields which previously had to depend on air transport alone for all supplies.

War Is Credited With Increase in Population

WASHINGTON. — The war was given major credit by the census bureau for a population increase of 1,327,000 in 1941, boosting the nation's estimated population to 133,965,000 on January 1.

The 1941 increase, double the average for the previous 10 years, was ascribed by the bureau largely to business prosperity as a result of war production, anticipation of being drafted, and return of Americans from other lands because of the war.

Births in 1941 increased to 2,723,000, approximately 408,000 more than the 10 year average. Deaths during the year totaled 1,442,000, about average.

The bureau said that because of a stoppage of immigration and an expected abrupt decline in the birth rate as a result of millions of men being in the armed forces there was little prospect of continued population growth at the 1941 rate.

Girl Artist Goes Into Training for Army Job

LONDON, ONT. — Recruited to meet a special need in the Canadian Women's Army corps, Ruth Keene, young London commercial artist and sportswoman, has begun her period of training here. She will finish her training at Ste Anne de Bellevue, Quebec.

Miss Keene, a daughter of Mrs. Arthur Keene of Grand avenue, is a graduate of South London collegiate and the H. B. Beal Technical school, and of the Ontario Ladies' college specializing in commercial art.

"She is a find," declared Capt. Mary Baker, CWAX staff officer. "When the call came for an artist we consulted Clare Bice, curator of the Elsie Perrin Williams Memorial Art Gallery, and on his advice got in touch with Miss Keene."

After completion of her training she will be posted to A-29 at Ipperwash for map drawing, sketching, etc.

Census Bureau Reports 18,907 Suicides in 1940

WASHINGTON.—Suicides totaled 18,907 in 1940, a rate of 14.4 for each 100,000 of population, the census bureau reported. This compared with a rate of 10.2 in 1900 and the peak of 17.4 in 1932.

The bureau offered these statistics about self-destruction:

More than three-fourths of suicides are males.

The Chinese ratio is highest of all —45.2 for each 100,000—while the Indian rate is 8.4 (refers to Chinese and Indians in America).

April has the highest suicide level, January the lowest.

Nevada has the highest rate—40.8 for each 100,000 of population, while South Carolina and Arkansas tie at the bottom with a rate of 6.3.

Harvesters Gather In Bear and Snake

ENTERPRISE, ORE. — Three members of a harvest crew jumped off their combine and ducked into an apple orchard.

They met a bear coming out. Pursued by the bear, they raced back to the combine, climbed on and found the fourth crewman beating off a rattlesnake that was trying to crawl aboard. They wanted apples.

Farmers Suggest 1943 Labor Plans

Offer Improvements on '42 Food Production Systems

Continued scarcity of both year-round and seasonal workers along with climbing wage rates for farm labor, are all in the picture for farm production in 1943, reports Prof. T. N. Hurd of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Farmers of the state, consulted as to progress of farm labor programs in their communities, have made valuable suggestions for easing the situation, he says. In addition, farmer members of the advisory committee to the War Manpower Commission have made practical suggestions aimed to help farmers maintain food production:

Include farmers and farm workers who produce essential fruits and vegetables in the farm stabilization order, along with workers on dairy, poultry, and livestock farms.

Increase the 1943 quotas of new farm machines and repair parts, to enable farmers to produce more food.

Plan a program that will enable workers in non-essential jobs to return to farm work, if they are skilled in agriculture.

Provide more careful selection and supervision of inexperienced farm workers, to make their work more efficient.

Expand the farm labor camps of seasonal workers in fruit and vegetable sections of western New York and the Hudson valley.

Make early plans for the farm help needed, presented by farmers to the local office of the U. S. Employment Service, to assure a supply of seasonal as well as year-round labor at the right time.

Provide the best possible housing and farm privileges such as milk, eggs, potatoes, meat and firewood for farm workers, to increase their liking for farm life.

Use piece work payment for seasonal work, to make a fair system of payment for work actually done.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

"I'm helping break a BOTTLENECK

by making my wartime trips in MID-WEEK"

A little change in your travel habits makes a big difference in wartime transportation. By taking your trips on mid-week days — Tuesdays, Wednesdays, or Thursdays—you avoid week-end crowds. And you save a seat for a fighting man or a war worker — week-ends are often the only time he can travel at all. You'll find it wise, also, to skip holiday trips.

Under present conditions you may be inconvenienced on occasion but you can make things easier and simpler if you'll get tickets and information in advance —be prompt at terminals and rest stops to save precious minutes now that wartime speed is reduced — and take along less baggage than usual. If everybody helps there'll be no "bottlenecking!"

ARE YOU A SALESMAN?

If you are not now in vital war work, are looking for a connection that will help the war and lay the foundation of a permanent lucrative career for you—

Consider These Facts

In a bulletin issued this fall by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, certain types of business advertising were made deductible from Income tax returns because such advertising is regarded as necessary to furthering the war effort and laying the ground-work for postwar readjustment. The evident purpose of this announcement was to encourage businesses large and small to keep their names before the public, at the same time, to help them promote national service.

Due to induction into the armed services, etc., The Osborne Company, nationally known 54-year old pioneer Advertising Art Calendar and Specialty Manufacturers, require two salesmen for local and nearby territories, to start at the opening of our big rush season.

Mature men who have given consideration to the problem of after-the-war employment will appreciate this opportunity to start now in a business which offers a lifelong career. Many Osborne men have been with us 25 years or more.

Resales average better than ninety per cent with many customers having bought continuously for more than forty years.

Our sales of Advertising Art Calendars, Indoor Billboards, Patriotic Posters, Holiday Greetings, Blotters, Booklets, Direct Mail Services, Leather, etc., cover the entire field of business from the smallest retailers to the largest Bankers, Manufacturers, Insurance Companies and Public Utility Corporations, and so provide a maximum number of prospects per town.

Our many patriotic pictures and services constitute a definite contribution to the war effort.

Compact territories are arranged which can be worked with a minimum of traveling and expense, but which are sufficient to provide full-time, year-round employment.

We pay generous commissions and arrange weekly drawings to those who qualify. Established Osborne men are earning from $2,000 to $7,000 and $8,000 annually. Previous experience not necessary. Men from 50 to 60 years of age will be considered.

Write today to Walter R. Grant, Assistant Sales Manager, stating age, furnishing three references and other information you think important. All correspondence will be kept confidential.

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home
BY John Barclay
AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

How To Keep the Basement Clean

IN many homes today the cellar serves as a playroom, recreation room or laundry. Naturally we want it as neat and clean as possible. With a little precaution it is not difficult, even with coal as fuel, to keep the cellar as clean and dust free as the upstairs living rooms.

Most people do not realize that a great part of cellar dust arises from the wearing away of the concrete floor. When the concrete floor is swept, this powdery flaking of the concrete causes considerable dust. This can be eliminated to some extent by painting the floor with an inexpensive filler — a preparation which hardens the surface of the concrete and prevents dust formation.

Another source of dust is from the heating plant that is not absolutely air-tight around the ashpit adjacent to the floor. The ashpit base should be firmly cemented to the floor, if not dust will seep through the crack when the grates are shaken and settle around the cellar.

When dry fluffy ashes are removed from the ashpit and transferred into containers, a cloud of dust may arise. This can be avoided entirely by having a small spray installed in the ashpit, connected to the cold water line. When about to shake the grates, turn on the spray which will send a fine mist over the entire ashpit, settling all the dust. When these ashes are removed, they will be sufficiently damp to prevent any dust arising. For a few dollars this spray can be installed complete in any furnace or heating plant.

If proper care is not taken, dust may also be caused when a new load of coal is delivered and chuted into the bin. This dust, in most cases, is not caused by the incoming load of coal, but by it disturbing dust that may already be in the bin. It is easy to avoid this—simply spray the bin with a little water before the new delivery is made. The following suggestions along these lines will go a long way toward helping keep your basement clean.

1. Use covered ash containers.
2. Moisten and remove ashes regularly in small quantities.
3. When shaking the fire, momentarily close the check damper and open the draft damper. The small amount of dust generated when the grates are shaken will then have a tendency to flow upward through the heating plant and into the chimney instead of backing up into the basement.
4. Construct the coal bin in such a manner that it is built directly up to the basement ceiling, making it a separate room. When the coal is disturbed in handling or delivery, any dust particles will not have a tendency to escape into the basement, but will remain in this room. (24)

Japs Try to Get Attu Foothold

Enemy Reappears and U.S. Fortresses Promptly Unload Bombs

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—Their Kiska base under almost constant pounding by American bombers, the Japanese are attempting to secure a new foothold on the bleak little island of Attu, westernmost of the Aleutian chain.

The navy disclosed yesterday that the enemy had reappeared on Attu by announcing army "flying fortresses" had attacked a small Japanese cargo vessel off the island, setting it afire with three bomb hits on Thanksgiving Day. When last seen, the vessel appeared to be sinking.

The communique said fighters accompanying the "fortresses" also had strafed enemy anti-aircraft installations on the island, indicating that the Japanese would attempt a show of resistance against attacks such as those that have been made on their Kiska Base, 160 miles to the east, virtually useless. Attu lies about three-fourths of the way from Alaska to the Kurile Islands of Japan, and the enemy might well regard it as being more valuable from a defensive than from an offensive standpoint.

First indication that they were attempting to retain Attu, after the navy's announcement of October 7 that aerial reconnaissance showed no signs of life on either Attu or Agattu, came on November 11, when it was announced that army planes had destroyed seven float type enemy zeros at Attu two days earlier. There was no opposition to this attack, and the Thanksgiving Day raid was carried out without the loss of any United States planes.

Since they moved into the Aleutian area last June, the Japanese have lost 13 ships definitely sunk, five probably sunk, and 29 damaged, including the one reported yesterday.

Dizzy Football Season Nears End as Fans Await Bowl Games

Major Upsets Mark Last Big Saturday Of Gridiron Games

U.C.L.A. Has Inside Track for Rose Bowl; Holy Cross to Play in Corn Bowl

By Austin Bealmear

New York, Nov. 30 (AP)—The dizziest football season of them all, complicated by the uncertainties of war, had all but run its course today, leaving coaches, players and fans convinced that the definition of armed conflict by a fellow named Sherman was a masterpiece of understatement.

In spite of an unprecedented quota of form reversal, all sections of the country have succeeded in crowning except the Pacific coast, where they may need another two weeks and the help of a bloodhound to find a conference titlist and a host team for the Rose Bowl game.

Although there still are a few odds and ends to be picked up elsewhere, the remainder of the country saw the screwy campaign stagger to what amounted to a finish Saturday and unload what surprises it had left on an unsuspecting public.

Holy Cross, a 4-to-1 underdog, crushed Boston College's previously unbeaten Eagles, 55-12. Navy pinned a 14-0 defeat on an Army team that was favored at 3-to-1. And Georgia, humbled by Auburn the week before, bounced back to ruin Georgia Tech's spotless record, 34-0.

Conference Champs

Western—Ohio State
Ivy League—Pennsylvania
Southern—Georgia
Big Three—Yale
Southwest—Texas
Big Six—Missouri
Southern—William and Mary
Missouri Valley—Tulsa
Big Seven—Utah and Colorado (tie)
Pacific Coast—Still undecided

Washington State lost a chance to clinch a tie for the Pacific Coast crown by playing a scoreless deadlock with Washington Saturday, leaving U. C. L. A. on the inside track with four victories and one defeat. Southern California, which still has a chance for a title tie, plays Montana this week and U. C. L. A. meets Idaho in conference play. Then U. S. C. collides with the Ulcans December 12 in what looms as the deciding game.

The Pacific coast champ, when elected, will go into the Rose Bowl, January 1, against Georgia, which was invited soon after its Saturday victory, clinching the Southeastern Conference title.

Tennessee closed its season with a 19-7 triumph over Vanderbilt and was named to play in the Sugar Bowl against Tulsa, Missouri Valley champion and only major team with an all-victorious record.

With the Southwest Conference title tucked away, Texas has qualified for the Cotton Bowl and Georgia Tech has been invited as the other team. Both are expected to make their decisions today.

In Saturday's Southwest Conference games, Rice blanked Baylor, 20-0, and Texas Christian whipped Southern Methodist, 14-6. The loop will close its season with S. M. U. playing Rice Saturday, although Texas A. and M. has an intersectional date with Washington State the same day.

Irish vs. Sailors

Ohio State, the Big Ten champion, finished with a convincing 41-12 victory over Iowa Pre-Flight, which still has a game with Missouri this week. Michigan closed the Big Ten campaign by stopping Iowa, 28-14. Notre Dame blanked Southern California, 13-0, and ties into Great Lakes Naval this week.

Other games Saturday send William and Mary's Southern Conference champions to Oklahoma, which finished second in the Big Six when Nebraska was upset by Kansas State, 19-0, and San Francisco to Mississippi State. St. Mary's Pre-Flight, whipped by Stanford, 28-13, tackles California Sunday.

The picture for the January 1 bowl games looked like this today (won-lost-tied records in parentheses):

Rose Bowl at Pasadena—Georgia (10-1-0) vs. Pacific Coast champion.

Sugar Bowl at New Orleans — Tulsa (10-0-0) vs. Tennessee (8-1-1).

Cotton Bowl at Dallas—Texas (8-2-0) vs. Georgia Tech (9-1-0).

Orange Bowl at Miami—Boston College (8-1-0) vs. Alabama (8-3-0).

Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.—No teams selected.

Boston College, headed for the Sugar Bowl until the Holy Cross thing happened, was reported invited to the Orange Bowl along with Alabama, but there was nothing official about either bid.

The Corn Bowl, scheduled for Chicago's Soldier Field under the sponsorship of the Catholic Youth Organization, joined the list of post-season games yesterday with the initial invitation to Holy Cross.

CONCRETE REPLACES CORK

Concrete is being used to replace cork in Johannesburg, South Africa. The replacement is for insulation purposes, but the concrete will float, tests reveal, and the war has stimulated production of the new product. Soap bubbles are strengthened with liquid glue and then mixed with cement to form blocks which have all the heat-insulation properties of cork.

Piepers Roll Kingston Stars in Special Match

'Grudge' Battle Is Slated Tonight at the Central Rec Alleys; Starts at 9:30 P. M.

The long-awaited "grudge" battle match between the Kingston Stars and Piepers will finally be rolled off tonight at the Central Recreation alleys starting at 9:30 o'clock. With plenty of bets wagered on the possible outcome of the match, officials expect that the alley stands will be packed to capacity.

Both clubs wax confidence as the battle hour nears. The Kingston Stars, coached by Gil Sampson, will have such outstanding bowlers as Evelyn Provenzano, Rita Markle, Rose Schatzel, Bea Coddington and Alyce Riseley ready to do a lot of damage to the maples.

George Pieper's great Booster League outfit which has won 30 out of 32 games to date in that circuit, will be set with Bob Tierney, Sam Avnet, Joe Heidecamp, Bill Davis, Frank Martin and Pieper himself. Tierney, spokesman of the Pieper bowlers, says, "it looks like a natural and a close match but I figure we'll win it."

Sampson's hirelings, the renowned Kingston Stars, composed of the "cream of the crop" in women bowling circles, also are confident of drubbing the opponents. Gil said recently, "sure, I realize that the Piepers have been hot lately but with our girls in top shape I don't see how our foes can possibly beat us. We simply have too much power all through our star-studded lineup."

As the match approached the last day of predictions by the various bowling headquarters, it was evident that the Stars would enter the match as favorites. However, favorites aren't always on top as Mitzie Arlensky, manager of Piepers said the other night. Arlensky pointed out, "look what happened to Boston College Saturday. That shows you that favorites feel the bumps, too."

Miami Open Will Start This Week; Last Until Spring

Byron Nelson Seeks His Third Straight Open; Officials Reduce Purse to $5,000

Miami, Fla., Nov. 30 (AP)—The purse for the Miami Open has been cut in half—to $5,000—but it'll look twice as big as ever before to golfers who will compete here this week.

It's a bread and meat tournament, the only one scheduled before next spring for professionals who are finding increasing difficulties in earning a living on the fairways in these days of war.

When the Professional Golfers' Association decided it could not guarantee the appearance of at least 15 name players almost every tournament on the resort circuit was canceled.

Instead of the usual swing to California and return, next stop after the open here is the North-South event at Pinehurst in April.

Meanwhile, topnotch players are being dropped for the duration from the payrolls of sporting goods companies, the sale of clubs and balls is reported off 50 per cent, and winter teaching jobs are scarcer than holes in one.

Anxious to preserve the continuity of the Miami Open, one of the oldest on the calendar, sponsors decided to go ahead this year without official assurance that a single drawing card would be on hand. They need not have worried, for a classy field will tee off Thursday.

With prize dollars so precious, the competition promises to be as hard as ever, even though such performers as Craig Wood, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Gene Sarazen and Horton Smith are in war work or the armed forces.

Byron Nelson is coming to seek his third open triumph in a row, but barring his path will be Ralph Guldahl, Johnny Revolta, Clayton Heafner, Harold McSpaden, Paul Runyan, Willie Klein and 50 or 60 other play-for-pay competitors.

Geologists Have Definite Part in Helping Win War

The United States should "build up a trained personnel of geologist-officers who can show us how geology can be made to fight with us and not against us," said Dr. Edward S. C. Smith of the department of geology, Union college.

"The geologist has a two-fold relationship to the war effort," said Dr. Smith.

"In the first place, he is concerned with the location of adequate amounts of strategic mineral raw material, including the mineral fuels and the subsequent development of these sources of supply. It is from the rocks of the earth's crust that we must wrest the metallic elements that go to make up our airplanes, our tanks, our bombs, and our bullets.

"In the second place," he continued, "the geologist can be of definite military value at or near the battle front and behind the lines.

"Today, as in the First World war, maps are all-important. Maps can be quickly prepared from aerial photographs, and frequently geological structures, and hence the sorts of terrain to be expected may be deducted from aerial photographs or from actual observation from airplanes.

"But if geologic maps are available they are sometimes better than those which attempt to depict the surface configurations.

"An experienced geologist can, with some confidence, predict the terrain to be expected from an examination of the geologic maps of a region," Dr. Smith explained. "Conversely, from a study of topographic maps, a geologist often can draw more important inferences concerning surface and subsurface structures, soils and other valuable field data."

In the combat zones geological knowledge of the region is essential for the building of roads, railways, air fields, supply depots and camps, Dr. Smith said

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The tradition of American cavalry threads back to Indian warfare days and although modern armies are largely motorized today, the cavalry still plays an important role. Sturdy, well trained horses and excellent equipment and trappings are necessary.

When men are in the saddle for hours, their saddles, saddle rolls and other equipment must be made to stand the wear. Complete with carbine and helmets, the equipment for the cavalryman runs into hundreds of dollars. You can help provide this with your War Bond purchases. Mixed Canine League

Mike Provenzano and Johnny Ferraro highlighted the bowling activities in the Mixed Canine League Sunday night at the Central Recreation alleys. Provenzano blasted out high single of the night with his 213 for the Terriers while Ferraro's 579 series was high in the competition all night.

With Mike Provenzano coming through with a 213 and Evelyn Provenzano hitting a 571, the Terriers won three games from the Whippets in last night's matches. Mike's other scores were 153 and 137 while Evelyn posted 212, 190 and 169. Larry Petersen, Jr., had a 524. Lacey Burger's 500 topped the Whippets.

Ferraro's high bowling enabled the Bull Dogs to salvage one game from the Scotties. Johnny registered a string of 167, 201 and 211 for his pacing 579. C. Backman had 510 for the Scotties, who won two games.

Bill Evans, anchor for the Police Dogs, did himself glory last night with a sizzling 574 triple and high single of 201. Bill posted two 201 games and a 172. Mit Arlensky had 507. Orv Van Alstyne's 511 series was high for the Cocker Spaniels who lost three games to the Police Dogs.

Charlotte Lapine's string of 188, 181 and 187 moulded into a high 556 triple was the big blast for the Greyhounds who won three from the Great Danes. Ray Otto of the winners had a 211 single and 513 series. Bea Schaller's 443 was high for the Danes.

India's Parsis Fear That Bombs Will Scare Vultures

Parsis of India fear bombs on Bombay, where most of the sect live, for one unusual reason—because they might frighten the big but timid vultures that play an important role in their custom of disposing of their dead.

In the roofless circular "Towers of Silence," which are surrounded by flower gardens, shrubs and stately cypresses, the Parsis deposit their dead. They believe that fire, earth or water should not be defiled so the dead are exposed to the vultures.

The Parsis (Parsees) are a comparatively small but prosperous and progressive sect of India, says the National Geographic society. There are less than 150,000 of them.

They are among the most enlightened of the natives, active in the development of air service and water enterprises and most of the cotton mills in Bombay. They include some of the wealthiest men of India.

Parsis have built bridges and reservoirs, founded and maintained hospitals and other charitable institutions, dramatic organizations, colleges and schools.

British manners and customs have been adopted by the sect, more than by other natives of India. When the Parsis speak of "going home" they refer to England. In London there are enough of them to support a place of worship at Golders Green.

Windmill Flags Save Gas

Many schemes devised by U. S. farmers help conserve gas and rubber. Red flags flying from the tops of windmills in Furnas county, Nebraska, are typical of this ingenuity. Where trees obscure the view, the flag may be on the mailbox at the edge of the highway.

The farmer on his way to town knows the red flag means, "Stop here, we need service or supplies." The farmer stops, picks up his neighbor's order. In town he may do errands for several flag-waving neighbors, and so makes one trip do the work of several trips that would waste time, gasoline and rubber.

Also Do What She Does

Since word has gotten around that Deanna now is the "ideal" average of the ten outstanding typical stars of the screen, she has been flooded by requests to switch her name from growing-up to grown-up articles of femininity. The movie singing star, who is 21, has become, practically overnight, the object of ideal physical attainment by millions of feminine fans, all wanting to measure as she measures, wear what she wears and do what she does. These are the measurements they are tacking above their shower-room scales: Height, 5 feet, 5¾ inches; weight, 114 pounds; bust 34½ inches; waist, 24 inches; hips, 35 inches; length of legs, 35 inches.

Specifications for Election Officials

St. Paul, Minn., has adopted detailed specifications on the eligibility of election officials. The specifications fix a maximum age limit of 65, forbid two officials serving in the same voting place if they live in the same building or are related, and require applicants to furnish character references and pass health and medical examinations. Each election official also must attain at least a mark of 75 in a civil service examination designed for the position. Appointments are made according to party affiliation if there are sufficient eligibles; if not, then without regard to party.

Shark fins and other marine delicacies popular among the Chinese have been banned in hotels and restaurants of China for the duration.

Income taxes are now paid by 10,500,000 people in Britain, compared with 3,800,000 in 1939.

Rosendale to Have State Ski Jump on Sunday, January 24

Two Other Winter Events Slated for the Coming Season by Telemark Ski Officials

The New York State title ski jump will be held in Rosendale, Sunday, January 24, according to announcement by the Telemark Ski Club.

Two other winter events have been scheduled for the Rosendale ski center. The Telemark Club announces that a schedule invitation 18-kilometer cross-country race had been slated for February 13 and the Trophy jump for February 28, both taking place on the club's ski grounds.

Last year the Rosendale organization received setback after setback in attempts to stage winter shows for the public. Lack of snow and other climatic difficulties made the 1941-42 ski season a disappointment for this section.

With the scheduling of these three events, the Telemark Club hopes to get a better break in the weather this year so as to continue the sport as in years previous to last year.

Sports Shorts

Fenway Park in Boston and Comiskey Park in Chicago were "jinx" spots for Detroit and Philadelphia American league home-run hitters this past season.

No Detroit Tiger hit a home run at Boston throughout the 1942 season, while no Philadelphia Athletics batsman hit for the circuit in the White Sox home grounds. Those two clubs were the only ones "shutout" in homers in any of the circuit's eight parks. Last year Detroit had eight homers at Boston and Philadelphia batsmen connected for five circuit blows in Chicago.

Washington home run hitters can't seem to hurdle the number "13" when it comes to banging circuit smashes in their own park, Griffith stadium. They hit 13 homers in their own park in 1941 and exactly the same number there in 1942.

Through Nov. 17, 81 American League players had gone into the armed services, with more than 20 having donned uniforms since the close of the regular season.

Five hits in a single game were made only 12 times during the 1942 American league season, with Ken Keltner of Cleveland and Vern Stephens of St. Louis accomplishing that feat twice. Stephens did the heaviest firing, one of his five hit performances coming on a homer, two doubles and two singles.

Every American league club except Philadelphia scored 13 or more runs in a single game at least once the past season, with New York reaching or passing the 13 run mark on five occasions. Philadelphia scored 11 runs twice, beating Detroit 11 to 3 and St. Louis 11 to 8, for the Athletics most decisive victories.

One of the oddest hitting incidents of the 1942 American league season came on Aug. 20 in the second game of a Philadelphia-Washington twin bill. Philadelphia, winning 6-1 in 12 innings, made 18 hits—and all were singles.

There were NO no- hit games hurled during either the 1941 or 1942 season in the American league. In 1941 there were four one-hitters pitched, with Bob Feller, Cleveland, Marius Russo, New York, Bill Dietrich, Chicago, and Denny Galehouse of St. Louis, accomplishing that feat. During the 1942 season one-hitters were pitched by Hank Borowy, New York, Al Smith of Cleveland and Buck Newsom, then with Washington.

Biggest night game crowd of the 1942 American league season was the 33,228 gathering which saw Lefty Gomez of New York beat Cleveland at Cleveland stadium July 21.

New Harlem Quintet Is Stronger Than 1941 Club; Isaacs to Play Here Again

Fresh from their triumph over the American League's New York Jewels on Thanksgiving night, the Kingston Recreations will give the home town fans a treat Wednesday night when they entertain the new edition of the Harlem Yankees at the municipal auditorium at 9:15 o'clock.

Hagen Anderson and Herb Gershon have made the Recreations one of the top professional basketball teams in the East. In addition to these two leading pro performers the Recs will have Ace Goldstein, Jim Naughton, Howie Bollerman and Porky Rosen ready for the Yanks.

The 1942 edition of the Harlem Yankee is fully 50 per cent stronger than the team that appeared here last season. Manager Art Joseph has secured the services of three of the finest Negro baseball players in America today in Moonbeam Isles, Bobo White and Sonny Woods. These three players toured the country with the famous Renaissance last season.

Nick Shaback Out

Fully realizing the opposition the locals are up against, Manager "Turk" Karam is trying to make an addition to his present line-up that looked so good against the Jewels on Turkey Day. Nick Shaback, who was with the Recreations on opening night, has secured a war job in New London, Conn., and will not be available for the balance of the season.

Johnny Isaacs, who started the near riot at the auditorium last season when he and Larry Dodick came near having blows on the floor, is again a member of the Harlem team along with Bill Chaffey and Bob Garrett who were in Kingston with the team last March. This season the Yankeees will be up against three players in Hagen Anderson, Gershon and Goldstein who are noted for their aggressive play. The exhibition should be one of the best of the new season.

MILLIONAIRES ABOUND

Zurich Switzerland, now lists 800 millionaires as residents, but the currency in which millions are counted considerably affects the financial stature of the millionaire." A Rumanian with a million lei has the equivalent of $4,760, and a Bulgarian's billion lev are worth $12,700. A Swiss millionaire in Burich would have $230,500, and a German $340,500.

Over 7,000 Nurses Aides Instructed Under Red Cross

More than 7,000 nurses aides have been trained under the auspices of the American Red Cross in 159 hospitals of New York State since June 1, 1941, it was revealed today by Miss Margaret G. Arnstein, State Nursing Officer in a report made to Major John J. Bourke, Deputy State Chief of Emergency Medical Services for the Health Preparedness Commission of the State War Council.

Need for an ever increasing number of nurses aides to help care for the civilian population and a broader field for their activities was noted.

"The exact number of volunteers who have taken the Red Cross Nurses Aide course," Miss Arnstein said, "is 8,801 up to Nov. 1, 1942 but hundreds of additional women are completing their training every month. Of the 200 hospitals on the approved list of the American College of Surgeons, 159 are training nurses aides.

"Of the remaining 407 hospitals in the State, 15 have been approved by the Red Cross and are now conducting courses, while 22 have been evaluated, and judged not suitable either because they are too small or no instructors or supervisors are available. Decisions on 34 hospitals are still pending. The rest of the institutions are military, mental, and T.B. hospitals, also private sanitariums, which have not even come up for consideration.

"With more and more registered nurses entering the armed services and industry," Miss Arnstein said in commenting on the role of nurses aides in the present health program, "hospitals will be needing an ever increasing number of aides to assist the trained nurses on their staff. In some areas where hospitals can spare them, nurses aides are assisting public health nurses in home nursing and in clinics.

"Their services in this capacity are particularly needed in defense areas where hospitals are overcrowded and people must be cared for at home when their condition permits. Nurses aides are playing a vital part in our health program and they are our only solution to the shortage of trained nurses."

First Real Snowstorm Comes to Ulster County

The first real snowstorm of the season broke over Kingston early Sunday evening, covering the earth, but rising temperatures turned the snow to rain. Freezing temperatures followed.

During the storm there was a total precipitation of .26 of an inch, according to the records in the city engineer's office, making a total precipitation for the month of 4.38 inches.

Superintendent Max Oppenheimer said today that early indications Sunday evening was that there would be a considerable fall of snow during the night, and for that reason he had made all preparations to place the snow removal equipment in action.

It was necessary, he said, to sand the Washington avenue viaduct and also the entrance to the Rondout Creek Bridge owing to slippery road conditions that resulted in one accident at the entrance to the bridge at 4:30 o'clock this morning when an auto driven by C. Edward Ledoux of Box 175, Saugerties, struck the bridge as the car skidded. The rear end of the auto was damaged, but was able to proceed under its own power.

The state highway department ordered out one of its sanding trucks to sand the bridge roadway.

During the night what snow was not melted by the rain had frozen, and skim ice formed throughout the city.

Names Submitted for Saugerties Draft Board

Selective Service Board, No. 314, of Saugerties will shortly have practically a new roster of members. Grant D. Morse, chairman of the Board, submitted his resignation in September asking to be relieved from duty as soon as possible. The resignation of William Johnson has been submitted, effective on December 10, leaving but one member, William Cotton, of the three-man board after that date. A request for an increase from a three-man board to a five-man board was made and County Judge J. Edward Conway has just recommended for appointment names of four new men.

The name of George H. Knight of Saugerties had been submitted for appointment by Judge Conway, to fill the vacancy which will exist on December 10, when Mr. Johnson's resignation becomes effective. The other three names which have been submitted by Judge Conway for appointment to the board are George A. Neher of Woodstock, Allan Watrous of Woodstock and Copeland Gates of Lake Katrine.

Sacred Heart Holy Habit Is Received

Eleven Young Women Are Given Robes After 8-Day Retreat at West Park

After an eight-day retreat which was directed by the Rev. J. J. Geoghan, S.J., 11 young women dedicated their lives to the Sacred Heart as Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart at West Park, October 26.

The property at West Park was purchased by Blessed Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini on May 11, 1890. The Novitiate had been closed since 1938 when all the Novices and Postulants went to Rome to assist at the services held for the Beatification of Mother Cabrini. On May 11 of this year, the Monday before Ascension Thursday, the Novitiate was blessed. This occurred on the exact anniversary of the first visit of Blessed Mother Cabrini to inspect the West Park grounds on which the institution now stands. It is interesting that Father Geoghan, who conducted the retreat of these yonng women, was at one time a pupil of Father Anthony M. Mandalari, S.J., the Jesuit priest who directed the first retreat held in the United States for the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart in 1890 in the presence of the Blessed Mother.

The impressive ceremony began at 9:30 in the morning. The 11 aspirants, clothed in white robes and bridal veils, entered the beautifully decorated chapel chanting the psalm "Quemadmodum Desiderat Cervus ad Fontes Aquarum." His Excellency Most Rev. J. Francis A. McIntyre, Auxiliary Bishop of New York, assisted by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Ercole J. Rossi, Ecclesiastical Superior of the Community, and the Very Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury, Dean of Ulster county, presented the candidates with a crucifix with these words: "Receive, O Beloved Sister, the Cross of Our Lord Jesus Christ as an emblem of security against the wiles of the enemy: live crucified to the world by the mortification and crucifixion of the flesh under the yoke of Holy Obedience in order that you may merit to live among the Virgins consecrated by God. May Jesus, who livest and reignest with God the Father in the unity of the Holy Spirit remain with you forever and ever."

Also assisting at the ceremony was the Very Rev. Father Gounley, rector of Mt. St. Alphonsus. The master of ceremonies was the Rev. Father Joseph M. Pernicone, pastor of Mt. Carmel Church, Poughkeepsie. After the presentation of the crucifix, the Most Rev. Bishop McIntyre celebrated the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, following which each young woman was called to the altar to receive the holy habit of the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart and the religious name by which each will hereafter be known. The young women then retired to exchange their white robes for the black habits.

Returning to the chapel, each aspirant was given the holy veil, a lighted candle and a crown of pink and white roses. The veil and crown were placed on their heads by the Rev. Mother Grace, Delegate of the Very Rev. Mother Antoinette Della Casa, Superior General of the Order of the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart who is at present in Europe.

The young novices and their religious names are: Miss Margaret Marino, New York city, Sister Frances of Jesus Crucified; Miss Rose Ferraro, Pennsylvania, Sister Zavier of the Sacred Heart; Miss Marianna Lopez, California, Sister Stanislaus of the Infant Jesus; Miss Margaret Williams, Washington, Sister Edward of the Holy Trinity; Miss Rosaria Saracino, Brooklyn, Sister Dionysius of the Holy Family; Miss Teresa Storino, Washington, Sister Antoinette of the Sacred Heart; Miss Emma Delicio, California, Sister Margaret Alacoque of the Sacred Heart; Miss Maria Nemia, Brooklyn, Sister Fede of Our Lady of Grace; Miss Mary Louise Howland, Washington, Sister Timothy of the Holy Agony; Miss Josephine Tolotti, Washingston, Sister Serafina of the Child Jesus; Miss Maria Arlotta, New Jersey, Sister Gesuina of the Holy Family.

Bishop McIntyre congratulated the novices, stressing the privilege of being called to the religious life. Taking his text from the Book of Judith: "Thou Art the Glory of Jerusalem, Thou Art the Joy of Israel, Thou Art the Honor of Our People," Father Geoghan, retreat master, cited the example of Judith. He explained to the novices that their destiny lay in being true soldiers of God whose mission is to save the faith by bringing down heaven's prayers and protection through the medium of their own purity of soul. Father Geoghan concluded his sermon with these words: "You are to pledge God a greater goal and you are beginning it now, not by bearing a sword in your hand nor arms of steel, but by having as your weapon the cross, and as your shield what is written in your hearts and later will be quoted by your lips—the vows of Poverty, Chastity and Obedience. You will please God, as such a knight of the cross, such soldiers of Christ as those other men and women who with spiritual zeal have gone through the world, detestful of self, thinking only of God and of the souls of men that they are destined to save."

The occasion was closed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. The ceremony was graced by the presence of: The Rev. J. Iscardi, S.J., the Rev. Louis Hartman, C.Ss.R.; the Rev. Michael J. Curley, C.Ss.R.; the Rev. Thomas F. Prendergast; the Rev. E. Taverna; the Rev. Felix Chieco; the Rev. John Caldarola; the Rev. Egidio Gangemi, chaplain; and the Rev. Brother Patrick J. Culhane.

side of the world to aid the United States, to aid China, to aid our kith and kin in Australia and New Zealand in the struggle against the aggressions of Japan."

Among men who know the situation in the Orient there is a growing belief that this second chapter of the war may be as long, bitter and costly as the first, which will end with the destruction of Hitler. Churchill expressed the deepening conviction that we can not count on the surrender of Japan as an inevitable sequel to the defeat of Germany. There are many who believe that when Japan took her great gamble she discounted fully the possibility that Germany would be beaten. Of course she was ready to seize all the advantages which Hitler's conquests might open to her, such as the bloodless acquisition of French Indo-China. Had Hitler been able to destroy the Red army Japan doubtless would have rushed, jackal-like, into Siberia to feast on the lion's kill. But primarily for Japan the war in Europe was another of those opportunities—the most golden of all—granted her every generation or so by her gods, in which the white powers spring at each other's throats on the other side of the world and give her a comparatively free hand to achieve her purposes in Asia. A long exhausting war in Europe, no matter who wins, probably would be more to the Japanese taste than a speedy, complete Axis victory.

Events in faraway theatres, so completely overshadowed by the dramatic developments around the Mediterranean and in Russia as to escape mention in Churchill's broad war review, soon may help determine how long and costly the Pacific chapter will be. There may be battles in Burma and southwest China in a very few weeks which will greatly lessen or enhance the United Nations' chances of coming to grips with Japan on a contintental scale. If they should increase the isolation of China and rob us of the prospect of meeting the Japanese army on the continent of Asia they may add years to the war.

Victory Band Is Formed for City

Air Raid Warden Service Band Will Play Sunday

Chief Air Raid Warden Arthur Morrill announces that a Victory Band, Air Raid Warden Service, City of Kingston, has been formed by Charles Lucas. The band is composed of fine musicians and the present personnel is: Cornets, C. Lord, R. Studt, F. Sass, M. Madayeski and R. Cozza; trombone, I. Dunham; clarinet, S. Fuccio; baritone, C. 'Forty and Eight' Still Asks Cards

Collection Drive Will Continue in County

Pledging themselves to bend every effort to promote their drive for playing cards in behalf of our fighting forces, Voiture Local No. 381 of the "40 and 8" with Herman I. DuBois as Chef-deGare, has issued an appeal to citizens throughout Ulster county to redouble their efforts in collecting used as well as new playing cards and either bring them or mail them to 18 West O'Reilly street.

So that this effort may become more centralized, Gus S. Paulson, 3rd District Cheminot of the "40 and 8", will, at the request of the county Legion commander, visit every Legion Post for the purpose of establishing a responsible committee within each community whose object will be the coordination effort in behalf of the "40 and 8" playing cards drive.

In accepting the county commander's appointment, Grand Cheminot Paulson stated, "since to many of us, fighting is confined to the home front, we shall in the light of our past experiences as veterans of another war show our new fighting generation that we are with them. To lighten their troubled moments between battles, we will try to fill a need that they themselves have asked for—playing cards.

"It is because of this request" stated Mr. Paulson, "that I shall encourage the establishment of a permanent committee to function in behalf of this drive."

So far the national office of the "Forty and Eight" reports that 91,660 decks of cards have been shipped to our men overseas. But cards receive hard usage and do not last long.

Men Leave for Service

James C. Martin, son of Police Sergeant and Mrs. James P. Martin of West Chestnut street, and Everett Emmick, son of Everett Emmick of 75 Hudson street, left for New York city on the 3:30 o'clock train this morning to report for service in the U. S. Army Air Corps. Both youths enlisted and were accepted for service on Friday. A group of relatives and friends gathered at the railroad station here this morning to bid the two youths good bye.

Condition Is Good

Jean Perry, 10, of 77 West Pierpont street, who is in the Kingston Hospital with possible internal injuries, was reported in fairly good condition this morning. According to a report made to the police department by Edward J. Schuppmeyer of Ozone Park, he was driving on Wurts street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon when the girl ran into the side of his car and was knocked down. He stopped his car, picked up the girl and rushed her to the hospital.

Moose Offer Their Lodge Room for Defense Units

Arthur L. Morrill, chief air raid warden of Kingston, today announced that the offer of the Loyal Order of Moose of the use of their lodge rooms in the interests of the Civilian Defense units of the city, had been accepted.

The offer was contained in the following letter, written by Anthony J. Erena, secretary of Kingston Lodge, No. 970: "Understanding that a greater activity program in the Civilian Defense units of the city of Kingston is in progress, Kingston Lodge, No. 970, Loyal Order of Moose, places its facilities at your disposal, to further the worthy endeavors of this unit and its members, who without any compensation whatsoever, give freely of their time and effort.

"Our assembly hall is so arranged that committee meetings, drills, first aid classes, or general assemblies can be held without congestion or discomfort to those attending.

"The Loyal Order of Moose, throughout the wide scope of our own United States, Canada, and England, has, still, and always will pledge itself to the protection of the weak and unfortunate, so that they too may rise again to enjoy the things we love and hold so dearly.

"You may feel free to call upon us at any time we may be of aid to you and your units."

Chief Air Raid Warden Morrill in commenting on the offer extended the Loyal Order of Moose said today "their building is centrally located and their assembly hall is very large, and we will avail ourselves of their generous offer donating same to us to hold meetings of our boy messingers which I will start in the very near future with the thought that they should be instructed in their duties and will procure speakers for them on first aid, communications, coolness and discipline under emergencies, etc.

"They will be given drilling in accordance with their hand book of the Civilian Defense Office by competent men who have volunteerd to do this, members of the Home Guard.

"The Victory Band will also hold their meetings at the Moose Hall, and on some Sunday afternoons will play for the messingers for their drilling as well as for their entertainment."

Frozen Desserts In Large Volume

Reaching a Consumption Peak in Hot Weather

Albany—Ice cream is big-business in New York, production of almost 45,000,0000 gallons having been reported in 1941, according to a Federal-State report issued from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. This includes about 39,000,000 gallons made in factories classified as wholesale, and 6,000,000 gallons in retail establishments. Returns for the first half of 1942 indicated a reduction of almost 3 percent from the 1941 level for the same six months.

Fluctuations in ice cream production and consumption appear to be closely related to weather conditions and are also influenced by consumer purchasing power. In 1941, half the production took place during the four warm months, May to August, the peak, however, occurring in July which ordinarily represents between a seventh and a sixth of the annual total.

Over a period of years, there has been a steadily increasing proportion of this food used in autumn, and spring, with January and February the low months, accounting for nearly 2,000,000 gallons each in 1941.

Closely related to ice cream are milk sherbets of which 382,000 gallons were reported by wholesale manufacturers in 1941, while ices and ice sherbets amounted to 1,429,000 gallons.

Ice cream is made near the point of consumption. Of the 1941 wholesale manufacture, 25,588,000 gallons are credited to New York City.

Other important centers are Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Albany, Troy, Schenectady, Elmira, and Binghamton. In fact, nearly all the cities have a well developed frozen desserts industry.

Three out of every five vehicles in Sweden now operate with producer gas.

Two Officers Killed Near Bethel, Connecticut

Bethel, Conn., Nov. 29 (AP)—Two army air force officers were killed tonight as their plane crashed in a heavily wooded district here. Five others, members of the crew and passengers, parachuted to safety.

The dead are Major Herman B. Leeth, 46, Indianapolis, Ind., operations officer of the Rome, N. Y., air depot, and Captain John F. Meehan, Jr., 43, Walkersville, Ind., assistant operations officer and the pilot.

The five survivors are Col. George V. McPike, Hannibal, Mo., commanding officer of the Rome air depot; Major Robert V. Dunn, Marion, Ind.; Captain Gerald Garrard, Cordele, Ga.; Lieut. Ross de Lue, Chicago, and William Kurylo, Middletown, Pa., a civilian.

Kurylo, crew chief at the air depot, suffered a broken ankle.

The plane left Rome this morning on an army mission, Major J. M. Farrar, depot executive officer, said.

Kenneth Delohery, 14, of Bethel, said he heard a plane circling overhead for 15 minutes. Then, he added, the aircraft dropped a flare and shortly afterwards crashed and exploded.

Major Farrar said U. S. A. A. F. officers would investigate the cause of the crash.

Questionnaires Are Mailed

Kingston's draft board on Saturday mailed out questionnaires to those holding order numbers 12207 to 12301, inclusive. These registrants are in the 18 and 19 year old group. The blanks must be filled out and returned to the draft board within ten days.

ANNOUNCEMENT IN ONE WORD

How is a girl who is too busy to write more than a word to each friend, to let more than fifty of them know about her engagement? This is the question put to me by one who tells me "I know engraved engagement announcements are tabu; in fact, I don't like the idea any better than you do, but I really haven't time to write more than one word. Would not announcement greeting cards be all right? Mother will address the envelopes and I could sign our two names.

To this I might suggest that you perhaps just send unmounted snapshots of him and you, and write the caption "Engaged!" under them. I am not offering this as a correct etiquette answer, but as a willing-to-cooperate-the-best-I-can answer and to achieve an announcement quite literally, in one word.

One Wine Throughout Dinner

Dear Mrs. Post: Should red or white wine be served with chicken? There can be only one kind served throughout the dinner and the occasion is a family anniversary party.

Answer: White wine is correct. But there would be no objection to red if you think most of the family prefer it.

Don't Stand on Turns When Writing to Service Men

Dear Mrs. Post: A man in our office went to training camp. I knew him quite a long time but never saw him outside of business and therefore we have always called each other "Mr. and Miss." Before he left he asked me to write him news of the office and town, and I promised I would. I did and he answered and then I wrote a second time; this time beginning my letter "Dear John" and ending it simply "Mary." He hasn't answered for weeks, and I'm getting the uncomfortable feeling that perhaps he resented my being informal. What shall I do?

Answer: If I were you I should write again as soon as I had more news of the office and town to tell him. Begin your letter "Dear John" but don't sign it "Mary" which expects him to know which Mary you might be and is therefore assuming a very intimate friendship. In other words, the signature of a first name alone is a very long step from "Mr. and Miss." And although it is possible that he is a little scared, it will do no harm to send him a quite impersonal letter of office news. Begin it "Dear John" and sign it "Mary Parkman Jones" and maybe your timid young man (if he was timid?) will feel reassured.

Are you trying to make plans to be married to a man in the service?

If you are, you'll be glad to know that you can get a reprint of Mrs. Post's recent article "Furlough Wedding Details" if you send your request with a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Post in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Stretching Lamb

A pound of the economy cut breast of lamb will serve 4 or 5 when extended by a savory sauce and placed in a rice ring.

Dinner Menu

Curry of Lamb in Rice Ring
Buttered Cabbage
(An abundant, thrifty food)
Enriched Bread Plum Jam
Pear Salad with Nuts
Cocoa or Milk

Curry of Lamb

4 tablespoons fat
¼ cup chopped onions
½ cup diced celery
2/3 teaspoon curry powder
1 pound breast of veal, boned and cubed
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup lamb stock or bouillon
1½ cups milk
2/2 teaspoon salt
2/3 teaspoon paprika

Heat fat in frying pan, add onions, celery and curry powder and simmer 5 minutes. Add veal and cook until browned on all sides. Stir in flour. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until brown. Add rest of ingredients and simmer 20 minutes. Serve in rice ring.

Rice Ring

1 cup rice (white or brown)
6 cups water, boiling
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter

Add rice slowly to water and salt. Boil gently 20 minutes. Stir several times with two forks. Rinse with hot water and add butter. Pack lightly in buttered ring mold. Set in shallow pan half filled with boiling water and simmer 10 minutes. Carefully unmold onto heated platter.

Pear Salad

4 halves pears, cubed
2/3 cup diced celery
1/3 cup raisins
1/3 cup French dressing

Mix and chill ingredients and pass in bowl lined with shredded lettuce.

COCKFIGHTS HALT WORK

Factory welfare workers in Britain have asked the authorities to take drastic action against cockfights, which are blamed for absenteeism among workmen and much gambling. Airplanes were used to spot the fights, but the plan fizzled. Most of the "mains" took place in isolated barns, garages, machine-shops, or even in homes of sporting patrons. Decoys throw the police off the scent. The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in London offered $400 for information leading to the arrest of cockfight organizers.

O.W.I. Puts Rumors Into Five Classes

Davis' Department Studies More Than 4,500 Rumors

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Office of War Information called on every American today to help win the war "by toughening his mind and ears" to sensational rumors.

"Every American," O. W. I. said, "can help to win this war by refusing to believe or repeat sensational stories which are not carried by the newspapers or over the radio. Every American can fight the enemy by refusing to spread suspicion and hate in the United States."

O. W. I., reporting it had analyzed more than 4,500 rumors which came to the attention of various federal agencies in the last 11 months, said they fell into these five general classes:

"Hate rumors," expressing "prejudice, animosity, or hostility for groups other than the enemy."

"Anxiety rumors," reflecting uneasiness or fear which commonly take the form of unfounded reports of Allied disaster or weakness, or of overwhelming enemy strength.

"Escape rumors," reflecting, in the main, wishful thinking about the progress and duration of the war.

"Supernatural rumors," containing fantastic prophecies of disaster or impending miracles.

"Curiosity rumors," which contain amusing or novel tidbits of supposed "news."

Here are the rules O. W. I. suggests:

Never repeat a rumor.

Do not repeat a rumor verbally even to deny it.

If you know the facts which can spike a rumor, cite the facts promptly.

If you don't know the facts which can stop a rumor, ask the rumor-teller where he got his facts.

Don't give a rumor the benefit of any doubt.

"The press and radio are fighting rumors—not by the endless denying of each rumor, but by blanketing the rumors with authoritative information," O. W. I. said.

More Women Now Are Employed in State War Plants

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—Three times more women than men have been added to New York factory pay rolls since industries boomed into full war production, the state labor department reported today.

In January, department figures showed, women held 27.8 per cent of all factory jobs. By the middle of last month, this had increased to 31.9 per cent.

The increase was greatest in metal industries, whose combined payrolls were swelled 22 per cent in nine months by adding 123 per cent more women and only 13 per cent more men. Women held 8.6 per cent of the jobs in this group in January, but by October had 15.6 per cent.

The professional and scientific instruments, photographic equipment and optical goods industries, which hold important government war contracts, increased their staff of women 76 per cent and men 16 per cent during the same period.

This trend held good, the labor department added, even in industries where working forces were being reduced. In all groups, there were more women employed in October than there had been in January.

One industry, textile mill products, showed a decrease in the number of women working—a decrease of 1.9 per cent, compared with a decrease of 13.6 per cent of the number of men employed. In smaller October mill forces, 50 per cent of the workers were women, compared with 46.9 per cent nine months before.

WOMEN ARE FIREFIGHTERS

Women fire fighters have completed their training in Dublin, Eire, and are ready to take their places alongside of men in the Auxiliary Fire Service for any emergency. The first women firefighters of Eire, a class of 128 members, will handle clerical and telephone work in event of a disaster.

Every American woman at war should be equipped with a War Bond hope chest.

Lake Katrine Barn Destroyed Saturday

Fire believed to have started from spontaneous combustion in corn stalks stored in the building, completely destroyed a wagon house and farm implements barn on the Brink Brothers property at Lake Katrine Saturday afternoon. The flames were first observed near where corn had been stored but swept through the building making it almost impossible to save the contents.

The barn was about 25 by 60 feet in size and partly of two story construction with wagon sheds on the ground floor. A considerable amount of farm machinery and wagons burned.

The fire was discovered about 2 o'clock and word was sent to Kingston for aid. Excelsiors were sent to the scene and put a stream on the building but the flames had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the structure and it was burned to the ground. However, water supplied by wells was used to good advantage in operating the booster pump on the apparatus and the adjoining large barns were saved. The fire was so hot at one time that the siding of the adjacent barns and silo were scorched and the paint burned away. The house was not in danger. Shortly after the Kingston apparatus arrived the Glasco department also responded and pumping water from a cistern at the house aided in protecting the surrounding property. The fire apparatus remained at the scene until about 5 o'clock and until danger of the flames spreading had passed.

No estimate of the loss was available. There was some insurance.

Outworn, cast-off and ugly pieces of furniture, such as the Morris chair, spring rocker, and raised-end couch, can usually be reconditioned and transformed into attractive and useful pieces.

Christmas Seal Film Is Shown

Jean Dickenson Sings With Church Choristers

Beginning yesterday the Kingston and Broadway theatres, in conjunction with the annual Christmas Seal Sale of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association, are showing a special Christmas movie short, "Silent Night, Holy Night," featuring Jean Dickenson, Metropolitan Opera, radio and concert star, and the famous Paulist Choristers, Edward Kennedy, manager of the theatres, said today. The film will be shown through December 7. Mr. Kennedy told the story of the unusual filming of the movie. Miss Dickenson and the choristers, representing the music world and the church, made the film as their contribution to the anti-tuberculosis campaign. The movie was taken in the Old Church of Saint Paul the Apostle, New York, one of the city's great landmarks, both historically and architecturally. In recognition of the worthiness of the cause, for the first time, in its long history, the old church was turned into a movie setting. For a few hours one day, all outside doors were locked, movie apparatus, sound recording machines, microphones were set up and went into action. Klieg lights blazed in the dim interior of the church, and the movie director and crew moved about quietly, giving orders in lowered voices.

Miss Dickenson, still in her twenties, has lived all over the world, but calls Denver, Colo., her home town. Born in Montreal, Canada, she spent most of her childhood in India and South Africa, returning to New York for her grammar school years. She attended school in San Francisco and music school in Denver. For the last four years she has been featured in the radio program, "American Album of Familiar Music." She made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company in 1940 as Philine in "Mignon."

The Paulist choir, one of the oldest in the country, outdates the National Tuberculosis Association by one year, Mr. Kennedy pointed out. The choir was founded in 1903 and the association the following year. About 50 boys and young men make up the choir. Founded in Chicago, it moved to New York after World War I, following an extended tour of the United States for the benefit of the French War Relief. Members are mainly from Metropolitan New York and there is a long waiting list for places in the choir.

Mexico is greatly increasing copper shipments to the United States.

10 Men Are Killed

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 30 (AP)—Ten men were killed today in the crash of an Army plane a half mile southwest of the Sioux City air base, the post public relations office announced. Capt. Fred Shick, post public relations officer, said all 10 men were dead when help reached the plane, which he said was on a routine flight. The crash occurred about 2:15 a. m. A guard was placed around the area immediately and no civilians were permitted near the craft. Capt. Shick said the names and ranks of those killed in the crash would not be released until their next of kin had been notified.

GIRL LOST 50 YEARS

Search for a girl lost nearly 50 years ago has been given new impetus by R. W. Bromdrigg of Gwelo, Southern Rhodesia. The girl's parents became separated from her when the Matabele rebellion broke out while they were on a trek from Pietersburg to Bulawayo. Bromdrigg was the stage coach agent at Rhodes Drift from 1895 to late in 1896.

FIRST at the SECOND FRONT

LIKE the U. S. troops now in action, The Associated Press was thoroughly prepared for the Second Front in Africa—from AP headquarters in New York to the shores of Tripoli.

The Associated Press first laid plans and assigned men to key points months ago. Joseph Morton went to West Africa. Thoburn Wiant, Paul K. Lee and Don Whitehead flew to Egypt to join Edward Kennedy, Harry Crockett and Frank L. Martin, Jr.

When the invasion forces moved in on North Africa, six more AP men were along. J. Wes Gallagher, Russell C. Landstrom, William B. King and Noland Norgaard went from London. And with the U. S. forces which started from this side of the Atlantic were Harold V. Boyle and John A. Moroso III.

Thus AP newspapers could depend on a big staff for a big job—a big job well done!

Photographs of Boston's Cocoanut Grove Tragedy

SEEKS SON, MISSING AFTER NIGHT CLUB FIRE

An unidentified elderly lady, seeking her son missing since the tragic fire at Boston's Cocoanut Grove night club, stands bewildered and apart from the crowd of anxious people seeking admittance to a morgue in an effort to ascertain if friends or family members were lost in the blaze.

RESCUE WORKERS JAM NIGHT CLUB FIRE SCENE

Boston city fire and police department workers and many service men jam the street outside the Cocoanut Grove night club, helping to haul out victims of a sudden fire that swept the club before football week-end patrons had a chance to escape. More than 400 persons perished.

FIRE-RAVAGED ENTRANCE OF NIGHT CLUB

BACK ENTRANCE TO BOSTON NIGHT CLUB

Night Club Fire Kills 477 Persons

that he was trying to replace an electric light bulb which had been unscrewed by a prankster in the recently opened Melody Room of the club when the match flame brushed the flimsy palm and set off the devastating blaze.

The flames swept through the highly inflammable decorations as the orchestra leader raised his baton to signal for the National Anthem as a prelude to the Saturday night floor show. Within seconds the crowded night club was a bedlam as screaming women and horror-stricken men dashed for exits, tumbling over each other on the jam-packed stairways.

District Fire Chief William J. Mahoney said that tangled and frightfully burned bodies were found four and five deep and that tables and chairs were scattered and tipped in a shambles among the dead.

As speedily as possible, physicians and specialists in the treatment of burns, mustered by the Boston committee on public safety, were mercifully ministering to the injured, using blood plasma rushed from the Red Cross in Washington and pain and poison-allaying sulfa drugs.

Long Line at Morgue

Meanwhile, long lines of relatives and friends stood two abreast outside the city's morgues throughout the cold night waiting for a chance to identify bodies, many of them charred beyond recognition.

A board of inquiry, including fire officials, U. S. Navy representatives—there were servicemen among the dead—and two representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which began its probe yesterday, reconvened today.

The death roll ranked only behind the steamship General Slocum fire of 1904 in New York's East river in which 1,021 died, Chicago's Iroquois Theatre fire of 1903, which claimed 602 lives, and the San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906 in which 500 died.

Deputy Fire Chief John F. McDonough told investigating officials that he found a number of bodies, some within ten feet of a door equipped with a panic lock designed to open under pressure, but it was out of order and had been secured by another lock.

The death of many of the victims was ascribed by Medical Examiner Timothy Leary to monoxide poisoning and smoke inhalation. He said that a number were "terribly burned" after death.

The stampede for the exits began, fire officials said, when a girl, detecting a thin wisp of smoke curling along the walls, shouted "fire," and within seconds the crowd broke for the doorways.

The wrecked stucco building resembled a huge brick oven after the flames had been extinguished, with hardly a scorched spot on the outside walls and roof, but with the interior a mass of debris.

Among notables who escaped from the inferno were Charles (Buck) Jones, Van Nuys, Calif., cowboy star of the motion pictures, who was critically burned, and Scott Dunlap, also of Van Nuys, motion picture producer, who was injured and among those hospitalized.

Other widely known persons who either perished or were injured include: Edwin Ansin, Brookline, Mass., president of the Interstate Theatre Corporation and treasurer of a Boston textile firm, dead; Robert Beverly Charles, 28, Winchester, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Charles of Oak Park, Ill., and eastern manager of a Chicago candy company, dead; Joseph A. Boraisn, star fullback of the Holy Cross football team a year ago, dead; Dr. Gordon Bennett of Swampscott, captain of the 1937 Dartmouth football team.

Helen Welsh, daughter of Vincent S. Welch of Port Washington, N. Y., vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, dead; Mary Ellen McCormack, niece of U. S. Rep. John W. McCormack, dead; Grace McDermott, 200 West 54th street, New York, entertainer at the club—known under the stage name of "Vaughn," dead; Katherine Woods, 22, daughter of Carl Woods, Boston manufacturer, president of the Crosby Steam Gauge Company, dead.

Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty indicated, in an interview, that the youth who innocently started the fire should have been barred by law from working in the club.

"Isn't it against the law for a boy that age to work in a place where liquor is sold?" newsmen asked the commissioner.

"Well," he said, "you know the rules. He isn't supposed to."

"There is no doubt that the boy started the fire," Timilty added, "and there is no doubt that it was accidental."

Claflin quoted the boy as saying:

"A patron came into the place and unscrewed a bulb in the ceiling. This made the room too dark. One of the waiters came to me and asked me to screw the bulb back in.

"I stood on a chair to do it. I lighted a match and held it while I screwed the bulb in with the other hand. The match set fire to the palm tree. That is how the fire started."

A number of those who escaped leaped from the roof of the low building to the tops of automobiles and thence to the street. The clothes of some were in flames.

A night club singer, Billy Payne, saved 10 patrons by leading them into a huge basement ice box.

"I was getting ready to start the show," Payne said, "when I suddenly heard screams. I thought there was a fight. Then I saw a flame racing along the wall. . . . Everyone started running. If only others had followed me they would be alive."

A revolving door trapped a number of persons when it became jammed by a pileup of bodies, and one body was even found in a telephone booth.

The Boston Committee on Public Safety, which organized under real disaster conditions for the first time, and mortuary officials said that most of the unidentified were women whose flimsy clothing was either burned from their bodies or contained no identification papers.

Catholic priests were on the scene shortly after the fire got underway, administering the last rites of the church to victims. One priest said he administered to at least 30 persons.

William Ladd of Boston, one of the survivors, said that there was "instant panic" when the fire was discovered.

"Men and women began to scream together. It seemed that everybody wanted to get out first. . . .

"They all got to the small door on Piedmont street at about the same time and one of the women went down. Then the other men and women fell on top of her and the bodies just seemed to keep piling up."

Driver of Truck Held for Failure To Place Lights

Ralph DeBora Is Charged With Neglecting to Put Out Flare or Leave Light on Truck

A large automobile truck which ran out of gas on route 9-W near the Glenerie hill was reported parked on the highway without lights at 8:35 o'clock Sunday evening. Deputy Sheriff Leonard Bellmore was sent to investigate. He was told that a bus bound for New York had come upon the truck suddenly but had averted an accident.

The truck owned by the Carlo Transportation Company of 172 Wright street, Newark, N. J., and driven by Ralph DeBora, 39, of Newark, N. J., partially blocked the south lane and because of the icy condition created a dangerous condition.

When the deputy sheriff arrived the truck was found with no lights and the driver missing. The driver had failed to put out flares or leave lights on the vehicle while he went in search of assistance. Later after Deputy Bellmore had placed warning lights at the scene, the driver appeared with another vehicle to tow him away. DeBora at first denied he was the driver of the vehicle but later after a check had been made as to the ownership of the vehicle he admitted he was the operator and he was placed under arrest on a charge of failing to put out signal lights as prescribed by law.

Kelly Fined $50 As Drunken Driver

Was Arrested Early Sunday Morning Near Governor Clinton Hotel

Marshall J. Kelly, 29, of 402 Hasbrouck avenue was arrested at 2:55 o'clock Sunday morning on Albany avenue, near the Governor Clinton Hotel, by Officers Fallon and Harnen, who charged Kelly with operating an automobile while intoxicated.

This morning in police court Kelly pleaded guilty to the charge and Judge Matthew V. Cahill fined him $50 and revoked his driver's license.

Augustus Parker of R.F.D. No. 1, Kingston, charged with double parking of his taxi outside a line of cars parked in front of 600 Broadway, forfeited $2 cash bail when he failed to appear in court in answer to the charge. He was arrested by Officers Burger and McDonough on Saturday afternoon.

Threbold M. Olsen, 61, of May Park, charged with public intoxication on North Front street on Saturday night, was sentenced to three days in the county jail.

Badly Wounded Deer Lay Suffering for Week

A doe deer which apparently had lain suffering for a week or more with both front legs shattered by gunshot wounds, was found Sunday on the Harold V. Story farm at Ulster Park. The animal was found by William Clark of Port Ewen, who was hunting rabbits. He notified District Game Protector Fred DeWitt, who shot the deer and put it out of its misery and made arrangements to have it buried.

American railroads in 1941 handled 20 per cent more traffic than at the peak of World War I.

Highways Covered With Ice in Many Sections of County

Highways were covered with ice in many sections of the county early today following a snowstorm late Sunday afternoon which turned later to rain. A telegram message was received at the sheriff's office at 7:55 p. m. Sunday stating that the Catskill mountain section in Greene county was covered with a five-inch blanket of ice, snow and that the Windham and Palenville mountain roads were impassable without chains.

Later today the ice melted and the highways dried up.

The county highway department had a call from Boiceville where a tractor-trailer was unable to negotiate a hill but after the road had been sanded there was no further trouble reported. Bus and other traffic was slowed down by the highway conditions and several minor accidents were reported from various sections of the area. In town sanding operations were carried out at various points but the rain cleared up most of the ice.

Out Again, In Again Went George Slover

George Slover, 25, of Maple Hill, who this morning had completed serving a term of 75 days in the county jail on a petit larceny charge committed in New Paltz, was immediately re-arrested by the local police on a warrant charging Slover with petit larceny.

Slover was accused of being one of the men who were sought on charges of stealing articles from parked automobiles. Judge Matthew V. Cahill sentenced Slover to serve a term of 90 days in the county jail.

Benedictine Auxiliary To Hold Election, Reception and Tea

The election of officers, reception and tea of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the living room of the Nurses Home. Mrs. Raymond Craft, president, will preside. Following the business meeting, there will be a musical program of vocal solos by Mrs. Ralph Halbert, accompanied by Mrs. Raoul Racette, and the Rev. Michael Curley of Port Ewen will speak on his travels and experiences.

All members and friends are invited to attend.

Hornbeck-Rell

Saugerties, Nov. 30 — Miss Doris B. F. Bell, daughter of Mrs. Helen Rell Hommel of Main street, became the bride of Warren T. Hornbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Hornbeck of East Bridge street, Thanksgiving Day, November 26, at 4 p. m. The ceremony was performed at the Methodist Church by the Rev. Thomas Falshaw. Miss Susan Falshaw was at the organ.

The bride wore an informal dress of pale blue chiffon velvet and lace with dark blue accessories and a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Helen O'Bryon, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a blue and black dress with black accessories and the maid of honor, Miss Ann Hornbeck, sister of the bride, wore a medium green dress with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of tea roses. Charles F. Rell was his brother's best man.

Auxiliary Plans for Holidays

The regular monthly meeting of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary was held Thursday afternoon, November 24, at 2:30 p. m. in the Nurses Home. The president, Mrs. Frederick Snyder, presided.

The trays for Thanksgiving were attractively decorated, the roses having been donated by A. B. Shufeldt in memory of his wife, who had undertaken this task in previous years.

A Christmas decorating committee was appointed by the president. It includes Mrs. Clarence Dumm and Mrs. E. C. Burnett.

Following adjournment, a social hour was held at which time refreshments appropriate to Thanksgiving were served by the hostesses, Miss Almena Porter and Miss Jessie P. Allan.

Married at Parsonage

PVT. AND MRS. M. ALTON FEISTEL

Miss Leona Van De Mark, daughter of Mrs. William Van De Mark of 108 Pearl street, became the bride of Pvt. M. Alton Feistel of Brooklyn, Saturday afternoon, November 28, at 4 p. m. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage of the First Reformed Church by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool. The above photo was taken at the reception which followed the ceremony at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Miss Van DeMark Is Bride of Pvt. Feistel

Miss Leona Van DeMark, daughter of Mrs. William Van DeMark of 108 Pearl street, and the late Mr. Van DeMark, and Private M. Alton Feistel of Brooklyn, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, November 28, at 4 o'clock in the parsonage of the First Reformed Church by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool.

The bride wore a brown street-length dress with gold and matching accessories and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Her hat was ostrich trimmed. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Ernest Magnusson, who wore a gown of air force blue with hat to match and carried Talisman roses. The groom was attended by Ernest Magnusson.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the Governor Clinton Hotel for the members of the immediate families. Private and Mrs. Feistel left later for Mission, Tex., where they have an apartment in the Cordell Hotel. Mrs. Feistel, who is clerk of the city court, plans to return to Kingston and resume her duties at the city hall, January 1.

Mothers' Association Holds Card Party, Honors Are Stamps

The card party held by the Mothers' Association of the Academy of St. Ursula at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Friday evening, was a brilliant social and financial success. Several donations from friends of the academy as well as from the sales at the candy and flower booths under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Crowley and Mrs. Harold Wilson, added to the financial success of the party. There were about 52 tables in play occupying both the Crystal room and the Junior Dining room. Honors were war savings stamps in keeping with the association's war effort program.

Markle-Schryver

Mrs. Elsie V. A. Schryver of 3 Schryver Court, and Vincent C. Markle of 11 Center street, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, November 28, at the parsonage of the St. James Methodist Church. The Rev. W. Wesley Williams, pastor, officiated. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Markle will make their home at the Franklin Apartments.

Mackey-Stitzel

New Paltz, Nov. 30—Miss Helen Stitzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Stitzel of Poughkeepsie, who was graduated from Poughkeepsie High School and attended New Paltz State Teachers' College, became the bride of Morgan Mackey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Mackey of Poughkeepsie, Thursday afternoon, November 26. The ceremony was performed at 3 o'clock in the rectory of St. Mary's Church, Poughkeepsie, the Rev. Daneil I. Quinn officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a street length dress of teal blue velvet with brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Miss Ruth Wagner, who attended the bride as maid of honor, wore a light green wool dress with matching accessories and a corsage of talisman roses. Harry Greco attended Mr. Mackey as best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held for the immediate relatives and intimate friends. The couple left for a wedding trip and upon their return will reside at 24 Barclay street, Poughkeepsie.

The bridegroom attended Poughkeepsie schools and Raymond Riordan School and is an alumnus of the College of William and Mary. He was graduated from Stewart Technical Institute and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, the Gibbon's Club and the Varsity Club and is now associated with the I. B. M. Plant.

MEXICAN SINGER LAUDS U. S.

High praise for the splendid reception received "from the highest quarters in Washington to the most modest recruiting station" was expressed by Mercedes Caraza, Mexican singer, upon her return to Mexico City from a four-months' singing tour of key United States military camps. Miss Mercedes, known as "The Soprano of Mexico," gave 56 concerts on a tour which impressed her as a demonstration of the unity of the two republics. She said that it was Mexico to whom the homage was paid, as she was "just a mere interpreter."

STAMP SPY LADY HELD

Teresa Deusch Kohn, Czechoslovakian beauty who assertedly used a postage stamp racket to cloak her spying activities on behalf of the Axis, and Uaito Hipokichi, her Japanese lover, are held in Mexico City for trial on espionage charges. The pair face evidence which may result in the death penalty, secret service officials charged. The "stamp spy lady" suspect was captured in Monterrey and Hipokichi was caught after a chase which led over half of Mexico.

Regents Will Be Held

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP) — Johnny and Mary will continue to take New York state's regents examinations, despite "recent suggestions" they be eliminated. Assistant Education Commissioner Edwin R. Van Kleeck said the proposal "would do more harm than good," adding schools are not required to use the tests "for pupils whose needs they do not serve." He said this has been a practice for some years. Inferring proposals for abandoning the tests were based on alleged "faults" in the examinations, Van Kleeck explained "the faults that may have been present *  years ago have been largely eliminated. The values of these examinations have been preserved and new values added."

ARE YOU A SALESMAN?

If you are not now in vital war work, are looking for a connection that will help the war and lay the foundation of a permanent lucrative career for you —

Consider These Facts

In a bulletin issued this fall by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, certain types of business advertising were made deductible from income tax returns because such advertising is regarded as necessary to furthering the war effort and laying the ground-work for postwar readjustment. The evident purpose of this announcement was to encourage businesses large and small to keep their names before the public, at the same time, to help them promote national service.

Due to induction into the armed services, etc., The Osborne Company, nationally known 54-year old pioneer Advertising Art Calendar and Specialty Manufacturers, require two salesmen for local and nearby territories, to start at the opening of our big rush season.

Mature men who have given consideration to the problem of after-the-war employment will appreciate this opportunity to start now in a business which offers a lifelong career. Many Osborne men have been with us 25 years or more.

Besides average better than ninety per cent with many customers having bought continuously for more than forty years.

Our sales of Advertising Art Calendars, Indoor Billboards, Patriotic Posters, Holiday Greetings, Blotters, Booklets, Direct Mail Services, Leather etc., cover the entire field of business from the smallest retailers to the largest Bankers, Manufacturers, Insurance Companies and Public Utility Corporations, and so provide a maximum number of prospects per town.

Our many patriotic pictures and service constitute a definite contribution to the war effort.

Compact territories are arranged which can be worked with a minimum of travelling and expense, but which are sufficient to provide full-time, year-round employment.

We pay generous commissions and arrange weekly drawings in those who qualify. Established Osborne men are earning from $2,000 to $5,000 and $8,000 annually. Previous experience not necessary. Men from 30 to 60 years of age will be considered.

Write today to Walter R. Grant, Assistant Sales Manager, stating age, furnishing three references and other information you think important. All correspondence will be kept confidential.

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home
AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

How To Keep the Basement Clean

IN many homes today the cellar serves as a playroom, recreation room or laundry. Naturally we want it as neat and clean as possible. With a little precaution it is not difficult, even with coal as fuel, to keep the cellar as clean and dust free as the upstairs living rooms.

Most people do not realize that a great part of cellar dust arises from the wearing away of the concrete floor. When the concrete floor is swept, this powdery flaking of the concrete causes considerable dust. This can be eliminated to some extent by painting the floor with an inexpensive filler — a preparation which hardens the surface of the concrete and prevents dust formation.

Another source of dust is from the heating plant that is not absolutely air-tight around the ashpit adjacent to the floor. The ashpit base should be firmly cemented to the floor, if not dust will seep through the crack when the grates are shaken and settle around the cellar.

When dry fluffy ashes are removed from the ashpit and transferred into containers, a cloud of dust may arise. This can be avoided entirely by having a small spray installed in the ashpit, connected to the cold water line. When about to shake the grates, turn on the spray which will send a fine mist over the entire ashpit, settling all the dust. When these ashes are removed, they will be sufficiently damp to prevent any dust arising. For a few dollars this spray can be installed complete in any furnace or heating plant.

If proper care is not taken, dust may also be caused when a new load of coal is delivered and chuted into the bin. This dust, in most cases, is not caused by the incoming load of coal, but by it disturbing dust that may already be in the bin. It is easy to avoid this—simply spray the bin with a little water before the new delivery is made. The following suggestions along these lines will go a long way toward helping keep your basement clean.

1. Use covered ash containers.
2. Moisten and remove ashes regularly in small quantities.
3. When shaking the fire, momentarily close the check damper and open the draft damper. The small amount of dust generated when the grates are shaken will then have a tendency to flow upward through the heating plant and into the chimney instead of backing up into the basement.
4. Construct the coal bin in such a manner that it is built directly up to the basement ceiling, making it a separate room. When the coal is disturbed in handling or delivery, any dust particles will not have a tendency to escape into the basement, but will remain in this room. (24)

Japs Try to Get Attu Foothold

Enemy Reappears and U.S. Fortresses Promptly Unload Bombs

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—Their Kiska base under almost constant pounding by American bombers, the Japanese are attempting to secure a new foothold on the bleak little island of Attu, westernmost of the Aleutian chain.

The navy disclosed yesterday that the enemy had reappeared on Attu by announcing army "flying fortresses" had attacked a small Japanese cargo vessel off the island, setting it afire with three bomb hits on Thanksgiving Day. When last seen, the vessel appeared to be sinking.

The communique said fighters accompanying the "fortresses" also had strafed enemy anti-aircraft installations on the island, indicating that the Japanese would attempt a show of resistance against attacks such as those that have been made on their Kiska Base, 160 miles to the east, virtually useless. Attu lies about three-fourths of the way from Alaska to the Kurile Islands of Japan, and the enemy might well regard it as being more valuable from a defensive than from an offensive standpoint.

First indication that they were attempting to retain Attu, after the navy's announcement of October 7 that aerial reconnaissance showed no signs of life on either Attu or Agattu, came on November 11, when it was announced that army planes had destroyed seven float type enemy zeros at Attu two days earlier. There was no opposition to this attack, and the Thanksgiving Day raid was carried out without the loss of any United States planes.

Since they moved into the Aleutian area last June, the Japanese have lost 13 ships definitely sunk, five probably sunk, and 29 damaged, including the one reported yesterday.

Dizzy Football Season Nears End as Fans Await Bowl Games

Major Upsets Mark Last Big Saturday Of Gridiron Games

By Austin Bealmear

New York, Nov. 30 (AP)—The dizziest football season of them all, complicated by the uncertainties of war, had all but run its course today, leaving coaches, players and fans convinced that the definition of armed conflict by a fellow named Sherman was a masterpiece of understatement.

In spite of an unprecedented quota of form reversal, all sections of the country have succeeded in crowning except the Pacific coast, where they may need another two weeks and the help of a bloodhound to find a conference tilliist and a host team for the Rose Bowl game.

Although there still are a few odds and ends to be picked up elsewhere, the remainder of the country saw the screwy campaign stagger to what amounted to a finish Saturday and unload what surprises it had left on an unsuspecting public.

Holy Cross, a 4-to-1 underdog, crushed Boston College's previously unbeaten Eagles, 55-12. Navy pinned a 14-0 defeat on an Army team that was favored at 3-to-1. And Georgia, humbled by Auburn the week before, bounced back to ruin Georgia Tech's spotless record, 34-0.

Conference Champs

Western—Ohio State
Ivy League—Pennsylvania
Southern—Georgia
Big Three—Yale
Southwest—Texas
Big Six—Missouri
Southern—William and Mary
Missouri Valley—Tulsa
Big Seven—Utah and Colorado (tie)
Pacific Coast—Still undecided

Washington State lost a chance to clinch a tie for the Pacific Coast crown by playing a scoreless deadlock with Washington Saturday, leaving U. C. L. A. on the inside track with four victories and one defeat. Southern California, which still has a chance for a title tie, plays Montana this week and U. C. L. A. meets Idaho in conference play. Then U. S. C. collides with the Uclans December 12 in what looms as the deciding game.

The Pacific coast champ, when elected, will go into the Rose Bowl, January 1, against Georgia, which was invited soon after its Saturday victory, clinching the Southeastern Conference title.

Tennessee closed its season with a 19-7 triumph over Vanderbilt and was named to play in the Sugar Bowl against Tulsa, Missouri Valley champion and only major team with an all-victorious record.

With the Southwest Conference title tucked away, Texas has qualified for the Cotton Bowl and Georgia Tech has been invited as the other team. Both are expected to make their decisions today.

In Saturday's Southwest Conference games, Rice blanked Baylor, 20-0, and Texas Christian whipped Southern Methodist, 14-6. The loop will close its season with S. M. U. playing Rice Saturday, although Texas A. and M. has an intersectional date with Washington State the same day.

Irish vs. Sailors

Ohio State, the Big Ten champion, finished with a convincing 41-12 victory over Iowa Pre-Flight, which still has a game with Missouri this week. Michigan closed the Big Ten campaign by stopping Iowa, 28-14. Notre Dame blanked Southern California, 13-0, and ties into Great Lakes Naval this week.

Other games Saturday send William and Mary's Southern Conference champions to Oklahoma, which finished second in the Big Six when Nebraska was upset by Kansas State, 19-0, and San Francisco to Mississippi State. St. Mary's Pre-Flight, whipped by Stanford, 28-13, tackles California Sunday.

The picture for the January 1 bowl games looked like this today (won-lost-tied records in parentheses):

Rose Bowl at Pasadena—Georgia (10-1-0) vs. Pacific Coast champion.

Sugar Bowl at New Orleans—Tulsa (10-0-0) vs. Tennessee (8-1-1).

Cotton Bowl at Dallas—Texas (8-2-0) vs. Georgia Tech (9-1-0).

Orange Bowl at Miami—Boston College (8-1-0) vs. Alabama (8-3-0).

Corn Bowl at Chicago—Holy Cross (5-4-1) vs. unnamed opponent.

Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.—No teams selected.

Boston College, headed for the Sugar Bowl until the Holy Cross thing happened, was reported invited to the Orange Bowl along with Alabama, but there was nothing official about either bid.

The Corn Bowl, scheduled for Chicago's Soldier Field under the sponsorship of the Catholic Youth Organization, joined the list of post-season games yesterday with the initial invitation to Holy Cross.

CONCRETE REPLACES CORK

Concrete is being used to replace cork in Johannesburg, South Africa. The replacement is for insulation purposes, but the concrete will float, tests reveal, and the war has stimulated production of the new product. Soap bubbles are strengthened with liquid glue and then mixed with cement to form blocks which have all the heat-insulation properties of cork.

Piepers Roll Kingston Stars in Special Match

'Grudge' Battle Is Slated Tonight at the Central Rec Alleys; Starts at 9:30 P. M.

The long-awaited "grudge" battle match between the Kingston Stars and Piepers will finally be rolled off tonight at the Central Recreation alleys starting at 9:30 o'clock. With plenty of bets wagered on the possible outcome of the match, officials expect that the alley stands will be packed to capacity.

Both clubs wax confidence as the battle hour nears. The Kingston Stars, coached by Gil Sampson, will have such outstanding bowlers as Evelyn Provenzano, Rita Markle, Rose Schatzel, Bea Coddington and Alyce Riseley ready to do a lot of damage to the maples.

George Pieper's great Booster League outfit which has won 30 out of 32 games to date in that circuit, will be set with Bob Tierney, Sam Avnet, Joe Heidecamp, Bill Davis, Frank Martin and Pieper himself. Tierney, spokesman of the Pieper bowlers, says, "it looks like a natural and a close match but I figure we'll win it."

Sampson's hirelings, the renowned Kingston Stars, composed of the "cream of the crop" in women bowling circles, also are confident of drubbing the opponents. Gil said recently, "sure, I realize that the Piepers have been hot lately but with our girls in top shape I don't see how our foes can possibly beat us. We simply have too much power all through our star-studded lineup."

As the match approached the last day of predictions by the various bowling headquarters, it was evident that the Stars would enter the match as favorites. However, favorites aren't always on top as Mitzie Arlensky, manager of Piepers said the other night. Arlensky pointed out, "look what happened to Boston College Saturday. That shows you that favorites feel the bumps, too."

Miami Open Will Start This Week; Last Until Spring

Byron Nelson Seeks His Third Straight Open; Officials Reduce Purse to $5,000

Miami, Fla., Nov. 30 (AP)—The purse for the Miami Open has been cut in half—to $5,000—but it'll look twice as big as ever before to golfers who will compete here this week.

It's a bread and meat tournament, the only one scheduled before next spring for professionals who are finding increasing difficulties in earning a living on the fairways in these days of war.

When the Professional Golfers' Association decided it could not guarantee the appearance of at least 15 name players almost every tournament on the resort circuit was canceled.

Instead of the usual swing to California and return, next stop after the open here is the North-South event at Pinehurst in April.

Meanwhile, topnotch players are being dropped for the duration from the payrolls of sporting goods companies, the sale of clubs and balls is reported off 50 per cent, and winter teaching jobs are scarcer than holes in one.

Anxious to preserve the continuity of the Miami Open, one of the oldest on the calendar, sponsors decided to go ahead this year without official assurance that a single drawing card would be on hand. They need not have worried, for a classy field will tee off Thursday.

With prize dollars so precious, the competition promises to be as hard as ever, even though such performers as Craig Wood, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Gene Sarazen and Horton Smith are in war work or the armed forces.

Byron Nelson is coming to seek his third open triumph in a row, but barring his path will be Ralph Guldahl, Johnny Revolta, Clayton Heafner, Harold McSpaden, Paul Runyan, Willie Klein and 50 or 60 other play-for-pay competitors.

Geologists Have Definite Part in Helping Win War

The United States should "build up a trained personnel of geologist-officers who can show us how geology can be made to fight with us and not against us," said Dr. Edward S. C. Smith of the department of geology, Union college.

"The geologist has a two-fold relationship to the war effort," said Dr. Smith.

"In the first place, he is concerned with the location of adequate amounts of strategic mineral raw material, including the mineral fuels and the subsequent development of these sources of supply. It is from the rocks of the earth's crust that we must wrest the metallic elements that go to make up our airplanes, our tanks, our bombs, and our bullets.

"In the second place," he continued, "the geologist can be of definite military value at or near the battle front and behind the lines.

"Today, as in the First World war, maps are all-important. Maps can be quickly prepared from aerial photographs, and frequently geological structures, and hence the sorts of terrain to be expected may be deducted from aerial photographs or from actual observation from airplanes.

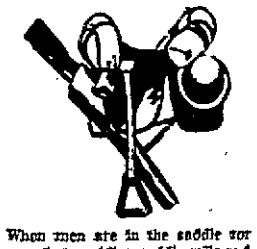

"But if geologic maps are available they are sometimes better than those which attempt to depict the surface configurations.

"An experienced geologist can, with some confidence, predict the terrain to be expected from an examination of the geologic maps of a region," Dr. Smith explained. "Conversely, from a study of topographic maps, a geologist often can draw more important inferences concerning surface and subsurface structures, soils and other valuable field data."

In the combat zones geological knowledge of the region is essential for the building of roads, railways, air fields, supply depots and camps, Dr. Smith said.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The tradition of American cavalry threads back to Indian warfare days and although modern armies are largely motorized today, the cavalry still plays an important role. Sturdy, well trained horses and excellent equipment and trappings are necessary.

When men are in the saddle for hours, their saddles, saddle rolls and other equipment must be made to stand the wear. Complete with carbine and helmets, the equipment for the cavalryman runs into hundreds of dollars. You can help provide this with your War Bond purchases. Mixed Canine League

Mike Provenzano and Johnny Ferraro highlighted the bowling activities in the Mixed Canine League Sunday night at the Central Recreation alleys. Provenzano blasted out high single of the night with his 213 for the Terriers while Ferraro's 579 series was high in the competition all night.

With Mike Provenzano coming through with a 213 and Evelyn Provenzano hitting a 571, the Terriers won three games from the Whippets in last night's matches. Mike's other scores were 153 and 137 while Evelyn posted 212, 190 and 169. Larry Petersen, Jr., had a 524. Lacey Burger's 500 topped the Whippets.

Ferraro's high bowling enabled the Bull Dogs to salvage one game from the Scotties. Johnny registered a string of 167, 201 and 211 for his pacing 579. C. Buckman had 510 for the Scotties, who won two games.

Bill Evans, anchor for the Police Dogs, did himself glory last night with a sizzling 574 triple and high single of 201. Bill posted two 201 games and a 172. Mit Arlensky had 507. Orv Van Alstyne's 511 series was high for the Cocker Spaniels who lost three games to the Police Dogs.

Charlotte Lapine's string of 188, 181 and 187 moulded into a high 556 triple was the big blast for the Greyhounds who won three from the Great Danes. Ray Otto of the winners had a 211 single and 513 series. Bea Schaller's 443 was high for the Danes.

India's Parsis Fear That Bombs Will Scare Vultures

Parsis of India fear bombs on Bombay, where most of the sect live, for one unusual reason—because they might frighten the big but timid vultures that play an important role in their custom of disposing of their dead.

In the roofless circular "Towers of Silence," which are surrounded by flower gardens, shrubs and stately cypresses, the Parsis deposit their dead. They believe that fire, earth or water should not be defiled so the dead are exposed to the vultures.

The Parsis (Parsees) are a comparatively small but prosperous and progressive sect of India, says the National Geographic society. There are less than 150,000 of them.

They are among the most enlightened of the natives, active in the development of air service and water enterprises and most of the cotton mills in Bombay. They include some of the wealthiest men of India. Parsis have built bridges and reservoirs, founded and maintained hospitals and other charitable institutions, dramatic organizations, colleges and schools.

British manners and customs have been adopted by the sect, more than by other natives of India. When the Parsis speak of "going home" they refer to England. In London there are enough of them to support a place of worship at Golders Green.

Windmill Flags Save Gas

Many schemes devised by U. S. farmers help conserve gas and rubber. Red flags flying from the tops of windmills in Furnas county, Nebraska, are typical of this ingenuity. Where trees obscure the view, the flag may be on the mailbox at the edge of the highway.

The farmer on his way to town knows the red flag means, "Stop here, we need service or supplies." The farmer stops, picks up his neighbor's order. In town he may do errands for several flag-waving neighbors, and so makes one trip do the work of several trips that would waste time, gasoline and rubber.

Also Do What She Does

Since word has gotten around that Deanna now is the "ideal" average of the ten outstanding typical stars of the screen, she has been flooded by requests to switch her name from growing-up to grown-up articles of femininity. The movie singing star, who is 21, has become, practically overnight, the object of ideal physical attainment by millions of feminine fans, all wanting to measure as she measures, wear what she wears and do what she does. These are the measurements they are tacking above their shower-room scales: Height, 5 feet, 3¾ inches; weight, 114 pounds; bust 34½ inches; waist, 24 inches; hips, 35 inches; length of legs, 35 inches.

Specifications for Election Officials

St. Paul, Minn., has adopted detailed specifications on the eligibility of election officials. The specifications fix a maximum age limit of 65, forbid two officials serving in the same voting place if they live in the same building or are related, and require applicants to furnish character references and pass health and medical examinations. Each election official also must attain at least a mark of 75 in a civil service examination designed for the purpose. Appointments are made according to party affiliation if there are sufficient eligibles; if not, then without regard to party.

Rosendale to Have State Ski Jump on Sunday, January 24

Two Other Winter Events Slated for the Coming Season by Telemark Ski Officials

The New York State title ski jump will be held in Rosendale, Sunday, January 24, according to announcement by the Telemark Ski Club.

Two other winter events have been scheduled for the Rosendale ski center. The Telemark Club announces that a schedule invitation 18-kilometer cross-country race had been slated for February 13 and the Trophy jump for February 28, both taking place on the club's ski grounds.

Last year the Rosendale organization received setback after setback in attempts to stage winter shows for the public. Lack of snow and other climatic difficulties made the 1941-42 ski season a disappointment for this section.

With the scheduling of these three events, the Telemark Club hopes to get a better break in the weather this year so as to continue the sport as in years previous to last year.

Sports Shorts

Fenway Park in Boston and Comiskey Park in Chicago were "jinx" spots for Detroit and Philadelphia American league home-run hitters this past season.

No Detroit Tiger hit a home run at Boston throughout the 1942 season, while no Philadelphia Athletics batsman hit for the circuit in the White Sox home grounds. Those two clubs were the only ones "shutout" in homers in any of the circuit's eight parks. Last year Detroit had eight homers at Boston and Philadelphia batsmen connected for five circuit blows in Chicago.

Washington home run hitters can't seem to hurdle the number-"13" when it comes to banging circuit smashes in their own park, Griffith stadium. They hit 13 homers in their own park in 1941 and exactly the same number there in 1942.

Through Nov. 17, 81 American League players had gone into the armed services, with more than 20 having donned uniforms since the close of the regular season.

Five hits in a single game were made only 12 times during the 1942 American league season, with Ken Keltner of Cleveland and Vern Stephens of St. Louis accomplishing that feat twice. Stephens did the heaviest firing, one of his five hit performances coming on a homer, two doubles and two singles.

Every American league club except Philadelphia scored 13 or more runs in a single game at least once the past season, with New York reaching or passing the 13 run mark on five occasions. Philadelphia scored 11 runs twice, beating Detroit 11 to 3 and St. Louis 11 to 8, for the Athletics most decisive victories.

One of the oddest hitting incidents of the 1942 American league season came on Aug. 20 in the second game of a Philadelphia-Washington twin bill. Philadelphia, winning 6-1 in 12 innings, made 18 hits—and all were singles.

There were NO no- hit games hurled during either the 1941 or 1942 season in the American league. In 1941 there were four one-hitters pitched, with Bob Feller, Cleveland, Marius Russo, New York, Bill Dietrich, Chicago, and Denny Galehouse of St. Louis, accomplishing that feat. During the 1942 season one-hitters were pitched by Hank Borowy, New York, Al Smith of Cleveland and Buck Newsom, then with Washington.

Biggest night game crowd of the 1942 American league season was the 33,228 gathering which saw Lefty Gomez of New York beat Cleveland at Cleveland stadium July 21.

New Harlem Quintet Is Stronger Than 1941 Club; Isaacs to Play Here Again

Fresh from their triumph over the American League's New York Jewels on Thanksgiving night, the Kingston Recreations will give the home town fans a treat Wednesday night when they entertain the new edition of the Harlem Yankees at the municipal auditorium at 9:15 o'clock.

Hagen Anderson and Herb Gershon have made the Recreations one of the top professional basketball teams in the East. In addition to these two leading pro performers the Rees will have Ace Goldstein, Jim Naughton, Howie Bollerman and Porky Rosen ready for the Yanks.

The 1942 edition of the Harlem Yankee is fully 50 per cent stronger than the team that appeared here last season. Manager Art Joseph has secured the services of three of the finest Negro baseball players in America today in Moonbeam Isles, Bobo White and Sonny Woods. These three players toured the country with the famous Renuissance last season.

Nick Shabnck Out

Fully realizing the opposition the locals are up against, Manager "Turk" Karam is trying to make an addition to his present line-up that looked so good against the Jewels on Turkey Day. Nick Shaback, who was with the Recreations on opening night, has secured a war job in New London, Conn., and will not be available for the balance of the season.

Johnny Isaacs, who started the near riot at the auditorium last season when he and Larry Dodick came near having blows on the floor, is again a member of the Harlem team along with Bill Chaffey and Bob Garrett who were in Kingston with the team last March. This season the Yankees will be up against three players in Hagen Anderson, Gershon and Goldstein who are noted for their aggressive play. The exhibition should be one of the best of the new season.

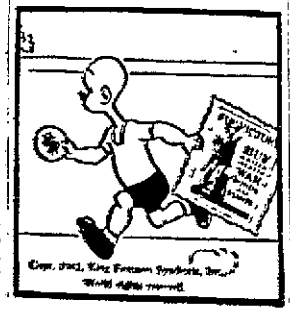

MILLIONAIRES ABOUND

Zurich Switzerland, now lists 800 millionaires as residents, but the currency in which millions are counted considerably affects the financial stature of the millionaire." A Rumanian with a million lei has the equivalent of $4,760, and a Bulgarian's billion lev are worth $12,700. A Swiss millionaire in Burich would have $230,500, and a German $340,500.

Income taxes are now paid by 10,500,000 people in Britain, compared with 3,800,000 in 1939.

First Real Snowstorm Comes to Ulster County

The first real snowstorm of the season broke over Kingston early Sunday evening, covering the earth, but rising temperatures turned the snow to rain. Freezing temperatures followed.

During the storm there was a total precipitation of .26 of an inch, according to the records in the city engineer's office, making a total precipitation for the month of 4.38 inches.

Superintendent Max Oppenheimer said today that early indications Sunday evening was that there would be a considerable fall of snow during the night, and for that reason he had made all preparations to place the snow removal equipment in action.

It was necessary, he said, to sand the Washington avenue viaduct and also the entrance to the Rondout Creek Bridge owing to slippery road conditions that resulted in one accident at the entrance to the bridge at 4:30 o'clock this morning when an auto driven by C. Edward Ledoux of Box 175, Saugerties, struck the bridge as the car skidded. The rear end of the auto was damaged, but was able to proceed under its own power.

The state highway department ordered out one of its sanding trucks to sand the bridge roadway.

During the night what snow was not melted by the rain had frozen, and skim ice formed throughout the city.

Names Submitted for Saugerties Draft Board

Selective Service Board, No. 314, of Saugerties will shortly have practically a new roster of members. Grant D. Morse, chairman of the Board, submitted his resignation in September asking to be relieved from duty as soon as possible. The resignation of William Johnson has been submitted, effective on December 10, leaving but one member, William Cotton, of the three-man board after that date. A request for an increase from a three-man board to a five-man board was made and County Judge J. Edward Conway has just recommended for appointment names of four new men.

The name of George H. Knight of Saugerties had been submitted for appointment by Judge Conway, to fill the vacancy which will exist on December 10, when Mr. Johnson's resignation becomes effective. The other three names which have been submitted by Judge Conway for appointment to the board are George A. Neher of Woodstock, Allan Watrous of Woodstock and Copeland Gates of Lake Katrine.

Sacred Heart Holy Habit Is Received

Eleven Young Women Are Given Robes After 8-Day Retreat at West Park

After an eight-day retreat which was directed by the Rev. J. J. Geoghan, S.J., 11 young women dedicated their lives to the Sacred Heart as Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart at West Park, October 26.

The property at West Park was purchased by Blessed Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini on May 11, 1890. The Novitiate had been closed since 1938 when all the Novices and Postulants went to Rome to assist at the services held for the Beatification of Mother Cabrini. On May 11 of this year, the Monday before Ascension Thursday, the Novitiate was blessed. This occurred on the exact anniversary of the first visit of Blessed Mother Cabrini to inspect the West Park grounds on which the institution now stands. It is interesting that Father Geoghan, who conducted the retreat of these young women, was at one time a pupil of Father Anthony M. Mandalari, S.J., the Jesuit priest who directed the first retreat held in the United States for the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart in 1890 in the presence of the Blessed Mother.

The impressive ceremony began at 9:30 in the morning. The 11 aspirants, clothed in white robes and bridal veils, entered the beautifully decorated chapel chanting the psalm "Quemadmodum Desiderat Cervus ad Fontes Aquarum." His Excellency Most Rev. J. Francis A. McIntyre, Auxiliary Bishop of New York, assisted by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Ercole J. Rossi, Ecclesiastical Superior of the Community, and the Very Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury, Dean of Ulster county, presented the candidates with a crucifix with these words: "Receive, O Beloved Sister, the Cross of Our Lord Jesus Christ as an emblem of security against the wiles of the enemy: live crucified to the world by the mortification and crucifixion of the flesh under the yoke of Holy Obedience in order that you may merit to live among the Virgins consecrated by God. May Jesus, who livest and reignest with God the Father in the unity of the Holy Spirit remain with you forever and ever."

Also assisting at the ceremony was the Very Rev. Father Gounley, rector of Mt. St. Alphonsus. The master of ceremonies was the Rev. Father Joseph M. Pernicone, pastor of Mt. Carmel Church, Poughkeepsie. After the presentation of the crucifix, the Most Rev. Bishop McIntyre celebrated the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, following which each young woman was called to the altar to receive the holy habit of the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart and the religious name by which each will hereafter be known. The young women then retired to exchange their white robes for the black habits.

Returning to the chapel, each aspirant was given the holy veil, a lighted candle and a crown of pink and white roses. The veil and crown were placed on their heads by the Rev. Mother Grace, Delegate of the Very Rev. Mother Antoinette Della Casa, Superior General of the Order of the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart who is at present in Europe.

The young novices and their religious names are: Miss Margaret Marino, New York city, Sister Frances of Jesus Crucified; Miss Rose Ferrero, Pennsylvania, Sister Zavier of the Sacred Heart; Miss Marianna Lopez, California, Sister Stanislaus of the Infant Jesus; Miss Margaret Williams, Washington, Sister Edward of the Holy Trinity; Miss Rosaria Saracino, Brooklyn, Sister Dionysius of the Holy Family; Miss Teresa Storino, Washington, Sister Antoinette of the Sacred Heart; Miss Emma Delicio, California, Sister Margaret Alacoque of the Sacred Heart; Miss Maria Nemin, Brooklyn, Sister Fede of Our Lady of Grace; Miss Mary Louise Howland, Washington, Sister Timothy of the Holy Agony; Miss Josephine Tolotti, Washington, Sister Serafina of the Child Jesus; Miss Maria Arlotta, New Jersey, Sister Gesuina of the Holy Family.

Bishop McIntyre congratulated the novices, stressing the privilege of being called to the religious life. Taking his text from the Book of Judith: "Thou Art the Glory of Jerusalem, Thou Art the Joy of Israel, Thou Art the Honor of Our People," Father Geoghan, retreat master, cited the example of Judith. He explained to the novices that their destiny lay in being true soldiers of God whose mission is to save the faith by bringing down heaven's prayers and protection through the medium of their own purity of soul. Father Geoghan concluded his sermon with these words: "You are to pledge God a greater goal and you are beginning it now, not by bearing a sword in your hand nor arms of steel, but by having as your weapon the cross, and as your shield what is written in your hearts and later will be quoted by your lips—the vows of Poverty, Chastity and Obedience. You will please God, as such a knight of the cross, such soldiers of Christ as those other men and women who with spiritual zeal have gone through the world, destitute of self, thinking only of God and of the souls of men that they are destined to save."

The occasion was closed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. The ceremony was graced by the presence of: The Rev. J. Isoardi, S.J., the Rev. Louis Hartman, CSsR.; the Rev. Michael J. Curley, CSsR.; the Rev. Thomas F. Prendergast; the Rev. E. Taverna; the Rev. Felix Chionet the Rev. John Caldarola; the Rev. Eddie Gangemi, chaplain; and the Rev. Brother Patrick J. Colhane.

side of the world to aid the United States, to aid China, to aid our kith and kin in Australia and New Zealand in the struggle against the aggressions of Japan."

Among men who know the situation in the Orient there is a growing belief that this second chapter of the war may be as long, bitter and costly as the first, which will end with the destruction of Hitler. Churchill expressed the deepening conviction that we can not count on the surrender of Japan as an inevitable sequel to the defeat of Germany. There are many who believe that when Japan took her great gamble she discounted fully the possibility that Germany would be beaten. Of course she was ready to seize all the advantages which Hitler's conquests might open to her, such as the bloodless acquisition of French Indo-China. Had Hitler been able to destroy the Red army Japan doubtless would have rushed, jackal-like, into Siberia to feast on the lion's kill. But primarily for Japan the war in Europe was another of those opportunities—the most golden of all—granted her every generation or so by her gods, in which the white powers spring at each other's throats on the other side of the world and give her a comparatively free hand to achieve her purposes in Asia. A long exhausting war in Europe, no matter who wins, probably would be more to the Japanese taste than a speedy, complete Axis victory.

Events in faraway theatres, so completely overshadowed by the dramatic developments around the Mediterranean and in Russia as to escape mention in Churchill's broad war review, soon may help determine how long and costly the Pacific chapter will be. There may be battles in Burma and southwest China in a very few weeks which will greatly lessen or enhance the United Nations' chances of coming to grips with Japan on a continental scale. If they should increase the isolation of China and rob us of the prospect of meeting the Japanese army on the continent of Asia they may add years to the war.

Victory Band Is Formed for City

Air Raid Warden Service Band Will Play Sunday

Chief Air Raid Warden Arthur Morrill announces that a Victory Band, Air Raid Warden Service, City of Kingston, has been formed by Charles Lucas. The band is composed of fine musicians and the present personnel is: Cornets, C. Lord, R. Studt, F. Sass, M. Madayeski and R. Cozza; trombone, I. Dunham; clarinet, S. Fuccio; baritone, C. Lucas; bass horn, A. Argulewic; snare drum, J. Emmet; and bass drum, S. Setera. At a meeting held Sunday afternoon, suggestion of Frank Sass was unanimously accepted that the new Victory Band play at the service flag ceremonies of the Seventh ward, to be held next Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. Arrangements are being completed for the ceremonies by the committee composed of Alderman T. F. Coughlan and Supervisor R. C. Schatzel, together with Captain Henry Allright, John Wort, F. Jenks and K. Lang. Air raid warden personnel cooperation will be under the direction of the Seventh ward zone warden, Albert Vogel.

Navy Recruiting

John McGuire, chief boatswain's mate, in charge of Navy recruiting in Ulster county, will be at the Kingston Post Office Thursday to receive applicants for enlistment in the Navy and the Naval Reserve. Ages are from 17 to 50. This is a good chance for the men of this county to remember last December, the chief boatswain's mate states.

To conserve fuel, lighter motor vehicles are being used in Germany.

Industrial diamonds are being flown from South Africa to America.

'Forty and Eight' Still Asks Cards

Collection Drive Will Continue in County

Pledging themselves to bend every effort to promote their drive for playing cards in behalf of our fighting forces, Voiture Local No. 381 of the "40 and 8" with Herman I. DuBois as Chef-deGare, has issued an appeal to citizens throughout Ulster county to redouble their efforts in collecting used as well as new playing cards and either bring them or mail them to 18 West O'Reilly street.

So that this effort may become more centralized, Gus S. Paulson, 3rd District Cheminot of the "40 and 8", will, at the request of the county Legion commander, visit every Legion Post for the purpose of establishing a responsible committee within each community whose object will be the coordination effort in behalf of the "40 and 8" playing cards drive.

In accepting the county commander's appointment, Grand Cheminot Paulson stated, "since so many of us, fighting is confined to the home front, we shall in the light of our past experiences as veterans of another war show our new fighting generation that we are with them. To lighten their troubled moments between battles, we will try to fill a need that they themselves have asked for—playing cards.

"It is because of this request" stated Mr. Paulson, "that I shall encourage the establishment of a permanent committee to function in behalf of this drive."

So far the national office of the "Forty and Eight" reports that 91,660 decks of cards have been shipped to our men overseas. But cards receive hard usage and do not last long.

Men Leave for Service

James C. Martin, son of Police Sergeant and Mrs. James P. Martin of West Chestnut street, and Everett Emmick, son of Everett Emmick of 75 Hudson street, left for New York city on the 3:30 o'clock train this morning to report for service in the U. S. Army Air Corps. Both youths enlisted and were accepted for service on Friday. A group of relatives and friends gathered at the railroad station here this morning to bid the two youths good bye.

Condition Is Good

Jean Perry, 10, of 77 West Pierpont street, who is in the Kingston Hospital with possible internal injuries, was reported in fairly good condition this morning. According to a report made to the police department by Edward J. Schuppmeyer of Ozone Park, he was driving on Wurts street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon when the girl ran into the side of his car and was knocked down. He stopped his car, picked up the girl and rushed her to the hospital.

Moose Offer Their Lodge Room for Defense Units

Arthur L. Morrill, chief air raid warden of Kingston, today announced that the offer of the Loyal Order of Moose of the use of their lodge rooms in the interests of the Civilian Defense units of the city, had been accepted.

The offer was contained in the following letter, written by Anthony J. Erena, secretary of Kingston Lodge, No. 970: "Understanding that a greater activity program in the Civilian Defense units of the city of Kingston is in progress, Kingston Lodge, No. 970, Loyal Order of Moose, places its facilities at your disposal, to further the worthy endeavors of this unit and its members, who without any compensation whatsoever, give freely of their time and effort.

"Our assembly hall is so arranged that committee meetings, drills, first aid classes, or general assemblies can be held without congestion or discomfort to those attending.

"The Loyal Order of Moose, throughout the wide scope of our own United States, Canada, and England, has, still, and always will pledge itself to the protection of the weak and unfortunate, so that they too may rise again to enjoy the things we love and hold so dearly.

"You may feel free to call upon us at any time we may be of aid to you and your units."

Chief Air Raid Warden Morrill in commenting on the offer extended the Loyal Order of Moose said today "their building is centrally located and their assembly hall is very large, and we will avail ourselves of their generous offer donating same to us to hold meetings of our boy messingers which I will start in the very near future with the thought that they should be instructed in their duties and will procure speakers for them on first aid, communications, coolness and discipline under emergencies, etc.

"They will be given drilling in accordance with their hand book of the Civilian Defense Office by competent men who have volunteerd to do this, members of the Home Guard.

"The Victory Band will also hold their meetings at the Moose Hall, and on some Sunday afternoons will play for the messingers for their drilling as well as for their entertainment."

Frozen Desserts In Large Volume

Reaching a Consumption Peak in Hot Weather

Albany—Ice cream is big-business in New York, production of almost 45,000,0000 gallons having been reported in 1941, according to a Federal-State report issued from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. This includes about 39,000,000 gallons made in factories classified as wholesale, and 6,000,000 gallons in retail establishments. Returns for the first half of 1942 indicated a reduction of almost 3 percent from the 1941 level for the same six months.

Fluctuations in ice cream production and consumption appear to be closely related to weather conditions and are also influenced by consumer purchasing power. In 1941, half the production took place during the four warm months, May to August, the peak, however, occurring in July which ordinarily represents between a seventh and a sixth of the annual total.

Over a period of years, there has been a steadily increasing proportion of this food used in autumn and spring, with January and February the low months, accounting for nearly 2,000,000 gallons each in 1941.

Closely related to ice cream are milk sherbets of which 382,000 gallons were reported by wholesale manufacturers in 1941, while ices and ice sherbets amounted to 1,429,000 gallons.

Ice cream is made near the point of consumption. Of the 1941 wholesale manufacture, 25,588,000 gallons are credited to New York City.

Other important centers are Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Albany, Troy, Schenectady, Elmira, and Binghamton. In fact, nearly all the cities have a well developed frozen desserts industry.

Three out of every five vehicles in Sweden now operate with producer gas.

Two Officers Killed Near Bethel, Connecticut

Bethel, Conn., Nov. 29 (AP)—Two army air force officers were killed tonight as their plane crashed in a heavily wooded district here. Five others, members of the crew and passengers, parachuted to safety.

The dead are Major Herman B. Leeth, 46, Indianapolis, Ind., operations officer of the Rome, N. Y., air depot, and Captain John F. Meehan, Jr., 43, Walkersville, Ind., assistant operations officer and the pilot.

The five survivors are Col. George V. McPike, Hannibal, Mo., commanding officer of the Rome air depot; Major Robert V. Dunn, Marion, Ind.; Captain Gerald Garrard, Cordele, Ga.; Lieut. Ross de Lue, Chicago, and William Kurylo, Middletown, Pa., a civilian.

Kurylo, crew chief at the air depot, suffered a broken ankle.

The plane left Rome this morning on an army mission, Major J. M. Farrar, depot executive officer, said.

Kenneth Delohery, 14, of Bethel, said he heard a plane circling overhead for 15 minutes. Then, he added, the aircraft dropped a flare and shortly afterwards crashed and exploded.

Major Farrar said U. S. A. A. F. officers would investigate the cause of the crash.
